THE STRANGE WARRIOR

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

FROM HIS CONQUEST OF THE SHARK TARZAN SPED TOWARD THE RAFT, FEARING FOR SYBIL'S FATE AT THE HANDS OF THE MADDENED APE

BUT AS HE APPROACHED HE WAS SURPRISED TO SEE SYBIL SAFE, AND THE APE WAS PEERING AT HIM ANXIOUSLY ACROSS THE WATER.

SUDDENLY BOHGDU CRIED OUT. TARZAN TURNED. THREE MORE SHARKS WERE ENCIRCLING HIM! NOW SURELY WAS HE DOOMED!

WHILE THE APE-MAN PREPARED FOR THE HOPELESS BATTLE, BOHGDU UNLACED A VINE FROM THE RAFT AND FLUNG IT TO HIM.

AS THE SEA-BEASTS PRESSED UPON HIM, TARZAN CAUGHT THE VINE, AND BOHGDU JERKED HIM VIOLENTLY FROM THE JAWS OF DEATH.

BOHGDU HAULED HIM SAFELY ABOARD, THEN RUBBED AGAINST HIM AND GRUNTED IN AN AWKWARD, APISH SHOW OF AFFECTION.

SYBIL, TOO, WELCOMED HIM JOYOUSLY. THEN TARZAN SAID TO HER, "BOHGDU SEEMS QUITE NORMAL AGAIN."

SHE REPLIED: "WHEN HE SAW THE FIRST SHARK ABOUT TO DEVOUR YOU, HIS MADNESS VANISHED. YOUR PERIL SHOCKED HIM BACK TO HIS SENSES."

TARZAN SMILED AND ORDERED THE REMAINING FOOD TO BE DIVIDED BETWEEN THE GIRL AND THE APE. FOR HIMSELF HE ASKED NOTHING.

AFTER THE LONG DAY, NIGHT CAME, AND THE THREE VOYAGERS DRIFTED ON TOWARD AN UNKNOWN FATE.

AT DAWN, THE WAVES CAST THEM UP ON A LONELY BEACH, AND TARZAN AND BOHGDU SET OUT AT ONCE TO EXPLORE FOR FOOD.

BUT AS THEY ENTERED A WOODLAND, THE STRANGEST WARRIOR THEY HAD EVER SEEN RUSHED UPON THEM, BRANDISHING A GIGANTIC BROADSWORD!

Fathers Not Important

Talking A Mile

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1935, by King Features Syndicate Inc., International Copyright and all other rights reserved.)

IN NEW YORK, a newspaper man, discussing "love and marriage," before an important group of business women, nearly all under thirty, and beautiful, told them it was their duty to marry and have children, not fewer than six for each mother.

Miss J. S., business woman, suggests "perhaps business women might not meet many men whom they could hold in such high personal esteem as to consider them fitted for the paternity of the six children they might very much like to have." Miss J. S. intimates that what business women see of men in business hours inclines them to remain single. A matter of duty, not of choice, is involved, and, besides, the inferior qualities of a man are not important. It is the mother and HER qualities that count.

NAPOLEON'S FATHER did not amount to much, nor Lincoln's father. But those two mothers, the broad-hipped Corsican woman and the tall, Nancy Hanks, amounted to a great deal. One freed the slaves, the other made kings ridiculous. It is the duty of Miss J. S., beautiful and young, to marry and have children, and it need not interfere with her business. Sarah Bernhardt had children.

GREAT BUSINESS MEN in America will sympathize with a female rabbit, something they did not expect.

"Fan-tail" pigeon, the sort that spreads its tail out like a fan, was driven from its nest, by the smoke and flame of a New Jersey forest fire. It flew to a barnyard, near a hutch in which a mother rabbit was raising young ones. Knowing nothing about the difference between birds and mammals, the pigeon instantly took charge of the young rabbits, drove away the mother with pecks and wing flapping, spread her wings over the rabbit babies at night, cooed hard at them, during the day.

NOW THE MOTHER rabbit dares not go near the hutch. The rabbit owner, interested, puts lettuce leaves near the young rabbits, the fan-tail

FRANCE WAGING MONEY BATTLE

Bank Of France Boosts Discount Rate In Move To Crush Speculation

PARIS, May 25.—(AP)—France tonight was fighting to head off the flight from the franc while Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin prepared to ask the chamber of deputies for dictorial powers to balance the budget.

The Bank of France today boosted its discount rate to 4 per cent effective Monday in another effort to crush what it called "speculation" against French currency. Thursday's increase from 2 1-2 to 3 per cent failed to halt drainage of gold from its vaults.

Currency in circulation is 97 per cent covered by gold, but the bank obviously is disturbed at the loss of 3,000,000,000 francs worth of gold (about $200,000,000) in seven weeks,

MAN IS HELD FOR ASSAULT ON YOUNG SHREVEPORT GIRL

SHREVEPORT, La., May 25.—(AP)—Police announced this afternoon they had arrested a man named Tobe T. Poole for investigation in connection with an alleged criminal assault on a 15-year-old girl late last night.

No charges have yet been filed against the 19-year-old man, apprehended by Detectives Howard Wimberly and Charles Crabtree upon his return to the city.

Poole was named by the alleged victim's mother who said her daughter did not tell her until today of the assault, alleged to have been committed last night in the rear of Poole's delivery truck after they attended a movie.

BABY BOY IS BORN TO WILSON EWING FAMILY

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Ewing at the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic at 11:15 o'clock Saturday night. The baby weighed eight and one-quarter pounds. Both the mother and child were doing well.

IL DUCE ORDERS OUT THOUSANDS OF NEW TROOPS

Declares Italy Ready To Assume All Responsibility In East Africa

MOBILIZATION CALL WILL AFFECT 20,000 SOLDIERS

People Are Told Not To Count Too Much On Conciliation Attempts

ROME, May 25.—(AP)—Orders for the mobilization of thousands of officers and technical experts of the class 1912 tonight followed Benito Mussolini's assertion before the chamber of deputies that Italy "is ready to assume all, even the supreme, responsibility," in East Africa.

Military sources estimated unofficially the mobilization order would affect upward of 20,000 trained subalterns and technicians.

A decree, published in the official Gazette required "subalterns and all troops of limited classes (experts)" to present themselves immediately.

In an address to the senate May 14, Il Duce said "we shall maintain under arms for all time necessary three classes, 1911, 1913 and 1914, and moreover one class—1912—in reserve."

Today he told the cheering deputies that only enemies of fascist Italy "can pretend to be stupefied or simulate protests for military measures which we have taken or for those which we shall take."

Counselling his people not to cherish too many illusions about conciliation of the Italo-Ethiopian controversy, he called the border clash

SWISS CONSIDERING PROTESTING FLIGHTS OF GERMAN AIRSHIPS

BERNE, Switzerland, May 25.—(AP)—Switzerland considered tonight protesting to Berlin against what it regards as violation of her territory by flights of German aerial squadrons over the frontier.

Authorities are awaiting the outcome of an investigation by customs officials of the planes' identities. The customs officers complained that Switzerland's territory had been violated twice this week.

Four Nazi planes, they said, flew over Gottlieben and there was no question of their identity, but eight monoplanes which passed over Schaffhouse three days ago were so high their license numbers could not be read.

Only recently Switzerland protested strongly to Berlin against violation of her territory in the alleged kidnaping of Berthold Jacob, anti-Nazi journalist, by Germans. Berlin agreed to submit the case to arbitration. The incident aroused much resentment here.

FLIGHT FAILS

Laura Ingalls, above, noted woman flier, failed yesterday in a nonstop flight between California and New York because of a leaking oil line. She landed at Indianapolis.

WOMAN AVIATOR IS FORCED DOWN

Laura Ingalls Fails In Non-Stop Hop Because Of Leaking Oil Line

INDIANAPOLIS, May 25.—(AP)—A leaking oil line forced Laura Ingalls to land at the municipal airport here this evening on her attempt to set a non-stop trans-continental flight from California to New York.

Miss Ingalls landed here at 5:45 p.m.

She said she made the trip from Los Angeles to Wichita, Kas., in five hours and 45 minutes, and first began to notice trouble after passing over Kansas City.

She expressed the belief she was "on the threshold of making good" when the oil line trouble developed.

"I had been making between 220 and 235 miles an hour to Wichita," she said.

"After I passed Kansas City the oil trouble started, and my speed was cut down considerably. When I came to Indianapolis I thought it would be very foolish to try and continue in the face of the low oil pressure."

Miss Ingalls said she will make another attempt to set a new record for the flight, but added, "I think I'll try it the other way the next time."

"You know no one has ever set a record from east to west," she added.

CRUELTY CHARGED TO PICTURE STAR IN DIVORCE SUIT

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—(AP)—Charging cruelty and habitual intemperance, Dolores Costello Barrymore, blonde former movie actress, sued her handsome-profiled actor husband, John Barrymore, for divorce today.

Mrs. Barrymore asked custody of their two children, $1,000 a month for their support and $2,000 a month alimony for herself.

For the past several months Barrymore has completely neglected to provide for his wife and their children, Dolores, 5, and John Blyth, Jr., 3, and the burden of supporting herself and the children has been entirely on her, Mrs. Barrymore's complaint said.

LEADERS SCHEME TO HAMMER NRA THROUGH HOUSE

Plans Are Mapped To Dump Measure Into Senate's Lap On Wednesday

EXPECT PRESIDENT TO GET ALL HE WANTS IN THE END

Doughton Admits Extension Resolution Was Drafted At Secret Meet

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—Congressional and administration chiefs in secret conference today mapped NRA strategy they hoped would push through the house Tuesday and into the senate's lap Wednesday a measure extending the recovery unit's life for two years.

What would happen after the bill was returned to the senate was problematical but few of the conferees today doubted but that in the end President Roosevelt would get almost everything he wanted.

Participants in the two-hour meeting included Donald R. Richberg, NRA chief; Speaker Byrns, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader; Chairman Doughton and Representative Samuel B. Hill, Democrat, Washington, Vinson, Democrat, Kentucky and Cooper, Democrat, Tennessee, of the house ways and means committee.

Sturdy, 72-year-old Doughton left the meeting to tell waiting newspapermen, "there isn't a bit of news." But after questioning he said an NRA extension resolution was being drafted for presentation to the ways and

1934 POLL BOOKS TO CLOSE FRIDAY

13,549 Signatures Are Written In Records At Sheriff's Office

With only five days remaining for poll registration for last year, 13,549 signatures of voters had been written in the poll books of Ouachita parish when the sheriff's office closed late yesterday.

There were some duplications in the total figure, caused by persons having registered for 1934 in their respective precincts earlier in the year, and having later registered for the same year at the sheriff's office on the first floor of the courthouse.

Also, some citizens over 60 years of age had registered in the poll books.

Under an amendment to the state constitution passed last year, all residents of the state between the ages of 21 and 60 must sign their names in the new poll books in order to be eligible to vote. Citizens over 60 years of age, though not required to sign their names in the books, must be properly registered with their parish registrar of voters in order to be eligible to vote.

It was estimated yesterday that a considerable number of residents of the parish who are of the ages required for the registration, have not yet signed their names in the books.

Some of the persons who had not signed their names in the 1934 poll books were prominent city residents and others were rural residents.

Many of those who had not signed the 1934 books had merely postponed calling at the sheriff's office to sign their names in the books, but it was reported that a substantial portion of them, including numerous city residents, had not signed the 1934 books because they obtained poll tax re-

INJURIES FATAL FOR AUTO VICTIM

A. W. Patterson Dies; Driver Of Taxicab Charged With Manslaughter

A. W. Patterson, 60, of West Monroe, died at a hospital here yesterday morning of injuries received Wednesday, May 8, when struck by an automobile in West Monroe, and Odell Wilson, 25, West Monroe taxicab driver, accused as being the driver of the car which struck Patterson, was arrested and placed in the parish jail charged with manslaughter.

Wilson's bond was fixed at $1,000.

Patterson was reported to have suffered a fractured skull and fractures of several ribs in the accident. An autopsy in the case was conducted at a funeral home yesterday by Coroner C. L. Mengis, who was assisted by several other physicians. The coroner said he would make a report of the autopsy Monday.

The warrant for Wilson's arrest was sworn out by Z. C. Patterson, son of the fatally injured man. West Monroe police arrested Wilson and transferred him to the sheriff's department.

The accident in which the elder Patterson was injured took place at the west end of the traffic bridge. Mr. Patterson, a carpenter by trade, had been employed for a short time as nightwatchman at a foundry and machine shop in Monroe, and was on his way home at the time.

Movement of traffic at the end of the bridge was handicapped because repair work was in progress, making it difficult for automobiles to pass one another. Details of the accident have not been clearly revealed, but it was reported that Mr. Patterson was cross-

FORTY PASSENGERS OF DERAILED TRAIN MOVED FROM SCENE

SHREVEPORT, La., May 25.—(AP)—Forty passengers aboard the Louisiana and Arkansas Railway train No. 4 were brought here today by bus after derailment of the train one mile south of Chestnut, La., which is 75 miles southeast of Shreveport.

No one was injured and Paul Sipple, assistant to the president of the railroad who was aboard the train, said none of the cars turned over.

"The engine, baggage car and coach ran a short distance and stopped," Sipple said.

The train was on its regular run from New Orleans to Shreveport. Officials were investigating the cause of the derailment.

WHEAT FARMERS VOTE TO RETAIN PROGRAM OF AAA

EARLY COUNT SHOWS BIG MAJORITY FAVORING PLAN

Administration Officials Keep Close Eye On Far Western Ballot

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—The vote in today's referendum on continuation of the wheat production adjustment program of the agricultural adjustment administration, compiled by the Associated Press at 12:15 a. m., eastern standard time, showed growers replying:

Yes 120,378.
No 21,260.

(By Associated Press)

A clear victory for continuance of the AAA's wheat adjustment program in 1936 was indicated on the basis of partial returns from yesterday's referendum of the nation's wheat farmers.

The first fragmentary returns from 22 of the 37 states that fill the nation's bread basket showed a trend of around seven to one in favor of continuance.

Within a few hours after the polls started to close in a westward sweeping wave the total stood 48,376 for and 7,220 against the program.

From the start the trend in favor of the AAA's plan ranged between six to one and ten to one. First returns set the higher figure, with a later slump. Whether the substantial margin would be retained when the ballot count ranged up toward the half million votes expected could not be predicted.

In Washington agricultural adjustment administration officials watched

DATA ON RELIEF PROJECTS ASKED

Municipalities Told To Start Preparing Information On Proposals

Municipalities of Louisiana seeking government aid on public works projects were advised Saturday in a telegram from Orloff Henry, acting state director of the PWA, to begin immediately the preparation of necessary data for submission to the federal public works administration.

The announcement of the acting state director, which was sent to all parts of the state, came to Monroe in the form of a telegram addressed to the press, and quoted a telegram from C. I. Horatio B. Hackett, assistant administrator of the public works administration at Washington, which reiterated previous announcements of the basis on which combined loans and grants will be made by the government.

Fifty-five per cent of the money required for any acceptable project will be loaned and 45 per cent will be an outright grant, according to the assistant administrator. The rate of interest on loans will be 3 per cent and the present wage scale on PWA projects will prevail.

The telegram from Acting State Director Henry follows:

"The following message from Col. Horatio B. Hackett, assistant administrator of the public works administration, Washington, just received,

Negotiations Are Launched To Pay For Safe Return

DIONNE BABIES TO CELEBRATE FIRST BIRTHDAY TUESDAY

CALLANDER, Ont., May 25.—(AP)—That hoary old liber that "there's nothing new under the sun" will get the boot next Tuesday when the Dionne quintuplets have a birthday.

A first birthday anniversary for quintuplets is something new under the sun, and the government thinks enough of it to send two of its ministers here for the occasion.

As far as the babies are concerned, however, it will be just another Tuesday. They are still young enough to rate orange juice superior to oratory and sleep more important than speeches.

Present will be David Croll, minister of public welfare, and Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture; Dr. F. C. Routley, of the Red Cross; and Dr. Allan R. Dafoe and Judge J. A. Valen, legal guardians, (with the minister of welfare and the father) of the babies.

Oliva Dionne, father, and Mrs. Elzire Dionne, their mother, have been invited. They have not indicated whether they will attend.

EPPS MAN KILLED IN TRUCK CRASH

George Calvert Dies When Machine Strikes Wagon In West Carroll

EPPS, La., May 25.—(Special)—George Calvert, 35, of Epps, member of a well-known West Carroll parish family, was almost instantly killed at 5:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon when an ERA truck in which he was riding crashed into a wagon about one mile north of Darnell, West Carroll parish.

Calvert sustained a broken neck and died before medical help could reach him. Another man, who was in the truck with him, was unhurt.

The truck, which careened into a ditch after the crash, was almost totally demolished. A wheel was torn off the wagon but it otherwise was undamaged. Occupants of the wagon escaped injury.

According to reports, Calvert attempted to guide the truck between the wagon and an automobile at a high rate of speed, and when he swerved the truck to avoid striking the automobile, it ripped off a wheel on the wagon.

The impact caused him to lose control of the truck and it leaped off the road, turning over several times. Witnesses said it was almost a miracle that the other occupant of the truck, a man by the name of Church, was not killed or injured.

Calvert and his companion were en route from Epps to the ERA headquarters in Tallulah at the time of the accident.

The victim was the son of the late George Calvert, who, at one time, owned all the land on which the community of Epps is situated. The community, at the time of his death, was known as Calvert.

Calvert's survivors could not be learned Saturday night and no arrangements for the funeral had been made.

Will Rogers Says

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 25.—(Special)—Was reading where the Federation of Women's clubs was going to have a hot election, the woman in line for the presidency (she is now first vice-president), they all admit has every qualification, worked up for 30 years in the club. High class, talented, cultured lady, but she is an Indian. You would expect intolerance from some organizations, but not from the most civilized one we have. Even one of the two great uncivilized tribes (the Republicans) elected dear old Charley Curtis. So I don't believe these ladies going to get bias. Course there is some of 'em that would love to meet around the convention campfire and shout "Well, sisters, we scalped another Indian, we have to keep this club 100 per cent American." They can't afford to do that.

Yours,
Will Rogers.

U. S. AGENTS AND POLICE APPARENTLY HOLD ALOOF

Officers Are Reported To Have Given Snatchers Till Monday To Act

TACOMA, Wash., May 25.—(AP)—The wealthy family of nine-year-old George Weyerhaeuser, kidnaped lumber fortune heir held for $200,000 ransom, began negotiations with his abductors tonight for his safe return.

While federal agents and police apparently held aloof, the family had inserted in the classified advertising section of a Seattle newspaper this advertisement:

"Expect to be ready to come Monday. Answer. Percy Minnie." The unusual signature and the cryptic wording of the message were believed to conform to instructions given Mr. and Mrs. John Philip Weyerhaeuser, Jr., parents of George, in a special delivery letter they received last night more than six hours after their son disappeared.

TACOMA, Wash., May 25.—(AP)—A formidable army of federal agents and police was reported marking time tonight to give the abductors of 9-year-old George Weyerhaeuser an opportunity to return him safely to his multi-millionaire parents.

An official source said the mobilized force of authority would give the abductors until Monday to return the boy, who disappeared yesterday while returning home from a public school for lunch.

Appearances tended to support the information that the government's relentless kidnaper chasers and police were standing aside in an effort to effect the return of the young heir unharmed.

SPEED REQUIRED TO END SESSION

Congress Must Quicken Work To Reach Close Early In July

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—With proposals for federal regulation of industry and agriculture to the fore, congressional pilots today decided skillful handling would be necessary if the session's end is to be reached by early July.

Although the bonus shoal was behind—some say definitely for the session, others insisted only temporarily—the leaders agreed more speed would be needed in view of the vast controversial program remaining.

Hints were dropped that some of the legislation may be deferred until next year if it appears the session may run far into the summer. In this connection, sections of the omnibus banking bill, centralizing credit control in the federal reserve board, were mentioned.

Administration forces insisted NRA extension, public utility holding company regulation and the social security bills must pass, together with the few remaining regular appropriation measures.

House leaders have cleared the way

DRIVE IS STARTED TO REHABILITATE FLOOD DISTRESSED

ALEXANDRIA, La., May 25.—(AP)—With reports that flood waters were still on a gradual rise in northwest Louisiana, though apparently at a standstill in the central part of the state, American Red Cross officials today began a drive to rehabilitate some 2,500 families made homeless in the flooded areas of the Red and Atchafalaya rivers.

Red Cross officials estimated here today that a fund of $30,000 was needed to begin construction of homes and shelter for families who fled the inundation caused by heavy rains. The Red Cross estimated it was caring for 2,525 families in the disaster area.

The Alexandria Town Talk and the Red Cross launched a campaign to raise funds for relief work by contributions from citizens of the state.

ARMED HENCHMEN SURROUND DICTATOR AS PAYROLL BOYS OBEY ORDERS AND CHEER

Scene At New Orleans Recalls Era Of Nero In Ancient Roman Days

(By Special Staff Correspondent)

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 25.—In the days of ancient Rome, it is written that "the tyrant Nero employed official applauders for his plays." Death was the penalty for those who refused to applaud the entry of the dictator Nero.

Huey P. Long, self-styled kingfish of Louisiana politics, took the cue from his predecessor of another era today, and rolled into the Louisville and Nashville station from Washington amidst the applause, cheering and blare of trumpets in the hands of purchased hirelings. Political death was the penalty for those who refused to applaud the entry of the modern dictator Long.

Word was passed down the line 48 hours before the arrival of Senator Long that everybody should be at the railroad station Saturday morning.

John Fush, who does the hiring and firing on the New Orleans dock board, at the dictate of Long, was present an hour before the arrival of the train. He checked, rechecked and doublechecked the payroll boys who reported in person to him. They made up the bulk of the crowd of approximately 2,000 persons which was on hand to participate in the instructed applause to Long.

Lined up alongside the train tracks were 100 of New Orleans' uniformed police. They were in personal command of Superintendent of Police George Reyer. Reyer is the same chief of police who was accused by Long last year of accumulating $65,000 in graft. He was in the opposition camp then. Today he is supporting Long, is a member of the Long-controlled police board and was on hand to greet the dictator. Captain Henry Lennie and 12 motorcycle policemen were also assigned by Reyer as an escort for Long.

The crowd was augmented by about 50 members of the state's secret "Cossack" forces who mingled in the mob. Among the better known of the "Cossacks" who serve as personal guards for

PAPER MILL WILL IMPROVE GROUNDS

New Warehouse, Shed And Park Among Projects Now Under Way

A $12,000 warehouse, a new lumber shed, a garage for employes' automobiles, a beautified park and flower garden and an improved baseball park are among improvements now under way at the Brown Paper mill, it was announced Saturday by mill officials.

Work will be started within the next few days on the new warehouse. The building will be 36 by 108 feet and will be fireproof. Plans call for a concrete foundation, marble floors, steel framework and roofing and sides of corrugated transite material. It will be located behind the mill.

The new lumber shed is being constructed at the car shop for storing timber for that department. It is of frame construction, 69 by 18 feet, and will have a concrete foundation. A 24-foot space will be reserved for the installation of a new saw.

The large area along the highway in front of the mill is being made into a park which will be sodded and landscaped with shrubbery and flowers. Buildings formerly located on the grounds have been moved and a garage for employes' cars will be built near the mill.

When the route for the paved road by the mill is announced, an ornamental fence will be erected to fully enclose the mill property.

A seven-foot fence has been erected around the ball park and a roof built over the grandstand. Dugouts for the ball players have been installed and the park fence painted.

A man is kept at work on the grounds constantly, going over the sod with a roller and keeping the grass mowed.

Each will receive an associate in arts degree.

TO PUSH C. OF C. DRIVE MONDAY

Many New Members Added To Chamber Of Commerce During Campaign

The final day of the first week's campaign for membership in the chamber of commerce ended Saturday with all of the workers enthusiastic over the showing thus far. Many new members have been added, and with the campaign to continue through this coming week, there is every indication that the final results will be highly encouraging, those engaged in the campaign asserted.

One encouraging feature has been disclosed through the canvass. This is that there are far more persons employed by stores and business houses at this time than was the case a year ago. This is true of both Monroe and West Monroe, President Jack Rogers said.

With improved business conditions existing, workers are pointing out the need for representation in the chamber of commerce in order to better foster their interests and to cooperate more thoroughly with all movements that are for community progress.

On Monday, workers will continue their efforts in the present campaign with renewed interest, anticipating a successful windup when the week comes to a close.

SAFETY FIRST IS URGED IN TALKS

Speakers Enjoin More Care In Preventing Accidents

The "safety first" movement was given added impetus at the regular meeting of the Illinois Central Booster club Thursday night. The session was held at the home of the Columbus Social club, and R. C. St. John, president, presided.

Mr. St. John emphasized safety first for children and urged parents in general to caution about crossing railroads and passing through railroad yards in careless manner.

E. L. Wright, Ouachit parish probation officer, in a short talk, further enjoined upon parents their duty to protect thei rchildren, and said that he would like to see "safety" incorporated into school curriculums as a part of the educational program.

Entertainment features included F. G. Butcher's band of small boys and girls, 27 in number. Eddie Van was present with his entertainers in a well appreciated series of numbers. Misses Clarice and Goldah Roan, with a dancing class, presented several numbers, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Earl Mattox. Still another entertainer was Mrs. C. J. Entrician with guitar selections, while Mrs. Ivy Thompson played and sang several numbers.

The event closed with a dance for which music was furnished by the Wilson band.

Winnsboro

With many officials of the organization in attendance at the home of the president, Mrs. Allen Price in Winnsboro, the P.-T. A. of that town held an informal meeting Thursday climaxed by a school of instruction Guests of honor present were Mrs. Albert L. Smith, of Winnfield, most highly esteemed state president, Mrs. Carl Couch, of Monroe, district director, and Mrs. Parker McComb, also of Monroe, editor of the Louisiana P.-T. A. Bulletin.

The wonderful personality of the state president made instant friends and her presence proved an inspiration to all in attendance. An informal coffee hour was highly appreciated and served as a fitting prelude to the program that was later presented.

Following the welcome and introduction of officers and chairmen by Mrs. Allen Price, president of the Winnsboro P.-T. A., Mrs. Couch gave a most interesting talk on "The Relationship of the Local Unit to the District, State and National Organizations." Mrs. Smith, state president, talked on "The Duties of Local Officers and Chairmen," which was highly inspirational. Mrs. W. B. Glover, secretary of the Winnsboro P.-T. A., talked on "Requirements for Standard and Superior Association."

The luncheon hour at Hotel Franklin was a lovely affair, with color scheme of pink and green and with attractive place cards. Charming corsages of sweet peas were presented to Mesdames Smith, McComb, Couch, Price and Walker, the last named as past president of the Winnsboro unit, presiding at the luncheon. Several beautiful piano solos were rendered on the piano by Harry Richardson, Edna Coulter, Millicent Lampe, and there was also a reading by Elizabeth Ann Cash.

Greetings from the State Bulletin and from the state P.-T. A. were brought at the afternoon session by Mrs. Parker McComb and Mrs. Albert Smith respectively. A round-table discussion led by Mrs. B. S. Landis, Jr., concluded the session.

WAR VETERANS' SERVICE HELPS

(Editor's note: The following article is one of a series released by H. B. McClendon, Ouachita parish service officer, for publication in the Sunday Morning World. The articles explain benefits available to United States veterans of wars in which this country has participated, and discuss compensations, pensions, hospitalization, funeral expenses and other benefits.)

Where the mother or father of a deceased World war veteran files claim for monthly pensions from the veterans administration, a certified copy of birth record of the veteran must be furnished. Where the record of birth cannot be secured, the mother or father should write the state board of health, new Courthouse building, Royal and Conti streets, New Orleans, for a form in order to record the birth of their child.

In the event the veteran was born in another state, and a certified copy of the public record cannot be secured, the veterans administration will then accept the baptismal record. However, if no record can be secured from the state board of health and no church record can be found, the affidavits of two responsible citizens, certifying to the fact that the claimants are the parents of the veteran giving the date and place of the veteran's birth) and the reasons why they know that the claimants are the parents of the deceased veteran, will be accepted by the veterans administration.

Before the affidavits are accepted, however, evidence must be furnished showing an effort was made to obtain records from the state board of health and from the church where the veteran was baptized. This evidence may be in the form of a letter from the state board of health advising that no record exists, and a letter from the minister or priest to the effect that there is no baptismal record. If the veteran was never baptized, the father or mother should make an affidavit to this effect.

Where the widow of a veteran files claim for benefits, she must furnish a certified copy of her marriage certificate, certified to by the clerk of court.

Further information may be secured by writing the local service officer.

LAXATIVE BREAD NOW MADE HERE

Popular New Loaf Contains Raw Carrots, Figs, Honey And Bran

A new health bread, delightfully palatable and containing all health-giving minerals and vitamins of fruits and vegetables, has been placed on sale at grocery stores here and in northeast Louisiana, and has been made available at restaurants.

Although this latest creation of the science of nutrition has been on the market in this section for only a few days, it has already earned a widespread popularity, and indications are that it will become one of the most popular loaves in homes and restaurants of this area.

Made by the City Bakery, 320 North Fifth street, the oldest establishment of its kind in northeast Louisiana, an establishment which has been a pioneer in the field of greater baking service, the unique new bread is known as "Dr. Ownens' Original Laxative Health Bread." Dr. Ownens is an international food expert and dietitian.

Dr. Ownens reached out into a new field of baking science in his formula, through which loaves of the bread bearing his name are made containing raw carrots, figs, bran, honey and many other health giving minerals and vitamins.

Because of its laxative qualities, as well as its nutritive qualities, the new bread is heralded as the successor of whole wheat and cracked wheat bread.

In a campaign of education of the public to the palatability, nutritive and laxative qualities of this new bread, the City Bakery has adopted the slogan: "Two slices a day keeps constipation away."

Noted physicians, as well as consumers of the bread, has attested to the value of the bread as a health food.

means committee Monday. He added the hope for resolution would be approved Monday.

If so, Speaker Byrns and Chairman O'Connor of the house rules committee, another Democratic leader, said debate Tuesday would be limited to a "maximum of four hours." Byrns asked Representative Boland of Pennsylvania, house Democratic whip, to keep members on the floor so the measure could be passed and sent to the senate around 8 or 9 o'clock Tuesday night.

Some changes in the originally planned extension resolution were agreed to by the conferees. Robinson advised house committeemen to "watch their step," warning trouble would follow any attempt to do more than extend the NRA for 8 1-2 months, limit it strictly to interstate commerce, and forbid price fixing.

Chairman Harrison of the senate finance committee sent over word that the house members should keep to a minimum their amendments to the senate's 9 1-2 months resolution. He added that "whatever the house does the senate will pass on, and the bill will not go to conference."

Nevertheless, house Democratic chiefs forecast privately their bill would include:

1. A two year NRA extension;
2. Provisions allowing code application to businesses "substantially affecting" interstate commerce.
3. A section allowing price-fixing for the prevention of monopolies.

One leader described these sections as the "minimum" program acceptable to the administration.

closely for the first returns from the far west, where Washington and Oregon rank high in production, to determine if the early midwestern trend would hold good there.

In the midwest it was noted early that some of the largest producing states were running in a trend of more than ten to one, with the average pulled down by some of the smaller producers.

For instance, in Kansas, where roughly one-fifth of the nation's wheat is produced, an early tabulation showed 24,296 farmers voting "yes," as compared with 2,872 "noes." At the same time Oklahoma was running 10,810 for and 1,671 against, and Nebraska 5,911 for and 1,747 against. Other states, however, showed a much lower percentage.

SON OF WEALTHY MAN IS KIDNAPED

interests was said to total $5,000,000, was described as willing to meet the ransom demand, reputedly $200,000.

From the palatial lumber baron's home a white bedsheet flapped significantly as if serving as a signal. Its appearance was not explained.

More and more of the details of the kidnaping note leaked through the heavy ranks of authority. It was learned the note instructed the family to address their answer to "Percy Minnie" through the advertising columns of a newspaper.

Previously the family apparently had started to comply but was reported to have refrained on the advice of federal agents.

Among other things it was learned that the writer signed himself "The Egoist," that the envelope bore a scrawled, youthful signature, presumably that of little George.

It contained a threat of death to the little victim if the authorities interfered.

Police began a hunt for an automobile reportedly seen containing two men and a boy near the scene of George's disappearance yesterday. The car was described as having California license plates.

Some of the revealing things about the kidnap note were:

It was written on a common type of note paper such as a woman would choose.

The note and its threat of death did not reach the family until three hours after police and federal agents had started work on the case.

It had been mailed in the Tacoma postoffice about 6 p. m., yesterday, some six hours after George vanished. Being a special delivery letter, it was delivered 34 minutes after mailing time.

The six-hour lapse between the disappearance and the mailing of the letter offered a possible clue to the distance of the abductor's hideout from the scene of the crime.

Everybody officially connected with the immediate phases of the case maintained a rigid silence. Except for the fluttering bedsheet that could be seen for a long distance over Puget Sound there were no signs of anything unusual at the Weyerhaeuser home.

Although the window blinds were drawn, George's little sister, Elizabeth, 2, was allowed the freedom of the lawn and her 13-year-old sister, Ann, appeared once in a riding habit. Her face showed anxiety and she soon withdrew to avoid the gaze of curious persons in the street.

The home appeared not to be guarded.

Justice department agents in Washington remained as uncommunicative as those on the job. There were 15 "G" men in the case within a few hours and more were reported on the way.

Some of the bradavo of the ransom note writer appeared in one phrase of the letter which said:

"A slip will mean a slip. We don't want to hurt anyone."

The boy disappeared some time after 11:50 a. m. yesterday when he left Lowell grade school to walk to the Annie Wright seminary, where he was to have met his sister, Ann. The two were to have been driven to the Weyerhaeuser home by the family chauffeur.

He left the school with a chum, Bruce Bowman, and was last seen by young Bowman, son of Claire Bowman, former director of the state department of labor and industry.

The parents became alarmed when he failed to come home and told his teacher at the Lowell school.

At 2 p.m. police aid was enlisted and a search began of the gullies near the Weyerhaeuser home.

The lad wore brown cords, tennis shoes and a white sweat shirt with green stripes. He has dark brown curly hair, brown eyes and is of slender build.

The elder Weyerhaeuser returned only yesterday morning from Rock Island, Ill., where he had gone with the body of his father, the late J. P. Weyerhaeuser, Sr., who died here May 16.

The mother of the boy was reported prostrated by grief and worry.

$98,306 IN 'BACK TAXES' SOUGHT ON TIMBER HOLDINGS

URANIA, La., May 25.—(AP)—A demand has been made upon the Urania Lumber company of which former State Senator Henry E. Hardtner is president, for back taxes on its timber lands in the sum of $98,306.83, according to Q. T. Hardtner, member of the firm and brother of the president of the lumber company.

This demand is in pursuance of a plan which it is said has been inaugurated by Senator Huey P. Long, who has entered into an agreement with the Louisiana Tax commission to collect back taxes which they claim is due by Louisiana companies upon which demands have been made for the collection of taxes. By the terms of the agreement Senator Long is to receive 33 1-3 per cent of the amount so collected as attorney for the plaintiff in these cases.

Q. T. Hardtner announced this afternoon that his company would resist the payment of these taxes.

HONOLULU, May 25.—(AP)—Completing the notable mass naval aircraft operations in mid-Pacific, a squadron of ten fighting planes arrived here at 3:20 p. m., (8:50 p. m., eastern standard time) from French Frigate Shoals, 500 miles out. The flight required seven hours.

An uneventful trip was reported by the fliers, who were commanded by Lieutenant Commander R. D. Lyon. The unit returned to the Pearl Harbor base after participating in the great operations that began May 9 with a mass flight from here to Midway Island, 1,223 miles out in the Pacific.

Thirty other planes, including the famous distance Squadron VP-10, returned to Pearl Harbor yesterday and last night, in the van of the entire fleet which moved toward Honolulu to test the feasibility of attempting en masse anchorage in Pearl Harbor.

will be glad news to all communities in Louisiana which are contemplating availing themselves of the administration's efforts to promote public works programs of construction in order to take men off the relief rolls and place them on payrolls.

"'Loan and grant applications acceptable for examination; basis of 55 per cent loan and 45 per cent grant, both based on cost of project to government. Three per cent interest rate. Wages same as now effective PWA projects. Await detailed instructions and application blanks, which will be forwarded earliest possible moment.'

"It is urged that all communities which are contemplating applying for funds for public works projects begin the preparation of necessary data as outlined by the assistant administrator, so that as soon as the blanks are in hand the application can be prepared and rushed to the office of the state director. It is to be noted that the new setup is much more liberal than heretofore, both as to the amount of grant and interest rate.

STATE SENATOR IS HURT IN ACCIDENT; PUT UNDER ARREST

HOMER, La., May 25.—(AP)—State Senator M. S. Hollingshead of Ruple, La., representing the 27th district, is suffering from fracture of two ribs due to an accident today when his automobile struck a warehouse building.

Night Marshal J. G. Oakes arrested Hollingshead, placed him in the Homer jail, where he remained about four hours, until he furnished bond of $50.

Hollingshead was scheduled for trial today for alleged drunken driving, Marshal Oakes reported but, due to a doctor's certificate that the defendant was unable to attend court, the trial was postponed until next Tuesday.

Hollingshead is a former minister and once he announced for congress but withdrew before the election.

at Ualual "the signal bell * * * which imposes on fascist Italy the fulfillment of an inescapable duty."

The premier, mapping the course of European events during recent months, said only one problem—Austria—stands between Italy and Germany.

Germany's unilateral repudiation of the armaments clauses of the Versailles treaty, even though it "suddenly cut in two" the "normal development of the European situation," he dismissed with this phrase:

"To make recriminations is useless, even as it is useless to speak again of disarmament."

"It is extremely difficult," he continued, "for us to believe in the possibility of the limitation of armaments or in the prohibition of some methods of warfare.

"Nevertheless, if something concrete could be done it is not from our side that difficulties would be interposed."

While he declared the Italo-Franco-British solidarity achieved at the Stresa conference in May "effective, constant and omnipresent" Il Duce directed severel keen shafts at European critics of his East African policy, among them France and England.

(French and British pressure at Geneva Friday was credited with inducing Mussolini to accept arbitration of the dispute).

ceipts last year, and were of the erroneous opinion that they are already qualified to vote in the local, state and national elections next year.

The sheriff's office will be open up to and including Thursday, from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. On Friday, the last day of the month and the closing date of the poll registration for 1934, the office will remain open until midnight.

While calling at the sheriff's office to sign their names in the poll books for 1934, voters may also sign their names in the poll books for 1935. The latter books will not be closed until December 31 of this year.

innumerable others. All were heavily armed.

The American Legion band was on hand under John J. Maxwell, erstwhile bitter opponent of Long. Members of the legion were scattered in the crowd. Several members of the Veterans of Foreign wars wore overseas caps and Spanish-American war campaign hats. Ellie Schill, head of the Veterans of Foreign wars, was at Long's side.

Some veterans carried printed placards condemning the veto of the bonus and expressing admiration for Long.

"The V. F. W. backs a fighter," read one of the placards.

Senator Long did not serve in the World war but was exempted because he claimed he was a notary public. He is not a veteran of any war in which his country fought, although he was eligible for the World war.

Cloth signs announced that the parade was a protest against the veto of the bonus.

Forming at the railroad station, the group marched with Senator Long to the Roosevelt hotel, where they were greeted by Seymour Weiss, Long henchman, under indictment for violation of his income tax returns. Monte Hart, who is interested with Weiss in the operation of the Roosevelt hotel, was at the train to greet the returning dictator.

Immediately after his arriving at the Roosevelt, Long conferred with some of his political supporters. Lieutenant-Governor James A. Noe, under investigation by U. S. government for his income tax returns, was also there. He then left for Baton Rouge, where he is to conduct the hearing of the public service commission.

Long's entry into New Orleans was a typical Long reception and disinterested parties who witnessed the exploitation of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign wars, the Disabled American veterans, and other patriotic organizations, stood aghast and wondered "what would the dictator try next for self aggrandizement."

Nero never had a thing on Long when it came to staging a tumultous reception in his own honor.

Surviving relatives are the following: The widow; three sons, Jimmie Patterson, of Beaumont, Texas; Z. C. Mr. Patterson resided at 403 Linderman avenue, West Monroe.

Funeral services will be held at 7:15 o'clock this morning at the Mulhearn Funeral home. Rev. L. T. Hastings, pastor of the Monroe First Baptist church, will officiate. The funeral cortege will travel by highway to DeQuincy, La., where interment will be made.

TELEPHONE RATE HEARING IS CONTINUED AT CAPITAL

BATON ROUGE, La., May 25.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long returned to Louisiana today and resmued his fight for lower public utility rates at hearings in his militia-ruled "Little District of Columbia."

The Senator spent most of the morning in district court before Judge W. Carruth Jones arguing against the appeal of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company from lower service rates put into effect by the Louisiana public service commission. The case was continued to Aug. 8.

The next case on docket was a resumption of the public service commisison hearing on rate reductions for electricity in New Orleans, the city whose administration Long is striving to seize from his political enemy Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley.

PEASANT EMBRACES HER KING

Though a clique of army officers had plotted to take over the government, King Boris of Bulgaria, who assumed dictatorship to thwart them, received this touching demonstration that the rebels did not represent all the people. Mingling with a throng of his subjects in Sofia, Boris was enthusiastically hugged by a white-haired peasant woman.

and felt it necessary again to interfere.

A stiff political battle in the chamber apparently faces the premier in his demand for powers paralelling those granted Premier Raymond Poincare in 1926, when he stabilized the sinking franc.

Some deputies predict the government's overthrow within two weeks if Flandin persists in his deflationary policy.

Friends of the towering premier urge patriotic union in the face of the crisis.

The bank's action Thursday in boosting the discount rate one-half per cent served fleetingly to strengthen the franc against other currencies out the dollar and the pound quickly resumed their upward march.

In view of Flandin's fractured arm, suffered in an automobile accident, Minister of Finance Louis Germain-Martin is expected to go before the chamber's finance committee Wednesday, soon after parliament reconvenes, to explain the financial and economic situation and the government's program.

SPEED REQUIRED TO END SESSION

to consider next week an NRA bill which, from all indications, will clash with the 9 1-2-month extension passed by the senate.

A compromise probably will result. But senate Democratic chiefs today informed the house group considering the legislation that changes in the senate resolution must be kept to a minimum if legislation is to be enacted before NRA expires June 16.

While the house tackles this controversy, the senate on Monday will start its long-awaited battle over the bill to broaden the agricultural adjustment act.

Some of the opposition had been removed by substitution of a house bill with milder licensing provision. Consequently, senate leaders believe these amendments which caused such a rumpus last session will be approved in a couple of days.

The holding company bill is next on the list, to be followed by the old-age pension, unemployment-insurance measure. Both will entail long debate.

The senate then will be faced with the bank bill so bitterly opposed by a long list of banker and business men witnesses. The banking subcommittee headed by Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, is scheduled to close its extended hearings on the measure next week.

POSTAL WORKERS GIVE BARBEQUE

Two Retired Members Of Staff Here Are Honored On Saturday

With an attendance of more than 150, comprising employes of the Monroe and West Monroe postoffice staffs, a barbecue to do honor to two recently retired members was held at Leon Fife's place on the Dixie-Overland highway, six miles from West Monroe, Saturday afternoon and night.

The men who have recently been retired from the Monroe postoffice force with pensions are Andrew Carter and Joe Goodwin. Mr. Carter was appointed as clerk in the Monroe postoffice Sept. 23, 1908, and was made assistant postmaster Nov. 23, 1913. He continued to serve in this capacity until he was retired because of physical disability on Jan. 31, 1935.

Mr. Goodwin was appointed clerk in the office here July 29, 1918, and was pensioned and retired, also because of physical disability, on Jan. 7, 1935.

A great supply of barbecued meats and all other things that are required for a successful event of this nature was prepared. Grounds were strung with electric lights and a radio furnished music.

Several short talks were made, and both Mr. Carter and Mr. Goodwin were the recipients of presents as a testimonial from their former fellow employes.

WISNER WINS AGAIN

WISNER, La., May 25.—(Special)—Members of the Wisner 4-H club again won honors in Winnsboro Saturday of last week. Bill Harris and Virgil Watson won first place in hot bed instruction. Betty Laughlin, Aillene Spann and Jessie Grayson took second place in canning discussions.

A well-bred hen that is given expert care will lay from 250 to 300 eggs annually, according to poultry records.

DOG TICKS CATTLE TICKS POLITICKS

Old Uncle Ned had no eyes for to see;
He had no teeth for to chew the corn cake,
So he had to let the corn cake be.

The story is going the rounds that I would make a splendid Street Commissioner if not too old—something like the old circuit preacher who was canned on account of his advanced years. The younger preacher who got his job preaching asked the old colored servant who opened the gate for him how the white folks liked his preaching, and the colored man replied, "The white folks thinks you is too young and not much 'sperienced."

Now, let's diagnose this old age political knock. In the 15-year column of the News-Star I noticed that 15 years ago last September I shot 44 clay pigeons out of a possible 50. Just this last September, 1934, I made the same identical score—not a very good score, and not so bad. At any rate showing my eyesight is not impaired. I am still using the same set of teeth my mother gave me, proving I have beaten Uncle Ned's time as to decay of body or weakness of mind—Going some.

Will Rogers says a man is just getting right at 40—and Will knows some things, without reading the newspapers.

Well, I arrived in Monroe at the earliest possible moment, and expect to remain until there is a flat rate of 4c per kilowatt to poor people who cannot afford an electric refrigerator. How can two grades of electricity be manufactured at a municipally owned power plant and be squirted around about town unless the wires be crooked? Children and old folks tell the truth; it is possible that I might let the cat out of the bag, or spill the beans.

This Street Commissioner's job hinges on eleven dollars a day,—a free automobile, free gasoline, free electric juice, free water, are the trimmings included according to my guess, which is as good as any when it hits. If elected, six dollars a day goes into my pocket; five dollars a day to the shell shocked boys of France—to the support of a charity hospital, and others down but not out. Fade me for a thousand dollars and if elected I will split the $2,000.00 50-50 with the kiddies who have no pa or ma on Christ's birthday and I will not give a dime or promise a job for all the votes in Monroe.

Politically purchased jobs often call for a slight of hand rebate after being elected.

Some people, good, polite, hat-tipping officeholders, too, who wear boiled shirt fronts, look neat and nice, good citizens in every sense of the word, like to hold office so well that they would serve a lifetime, AND DIE IN A POLITICAL COFFIN, but such is life and hinges on the lust for money, and not the odor of honest sweat from the horny-handed man's body.

If I am selected as the workingman and poor people's candidate for Commissioner of Streets and Parks, by your heartfelt desire, all's well and good. My donations, if elected, will be as certain as death.

I must say honestly and fairly, your tax money is the most sacred of all moneys, and should be handled with gloves, spent judicially, showing dollar for dollar face value in return received. My good people, it's all up to you whether I will be a candidate and be elected or hung on election day. I do not prefer to be electrocuted by the kind of electricity the rich man uses in his refrigerator.

Cats open their eyes in nine days; some people in nine years—and when you do open them, you will find 10 hours is a day's work at about 25c per hour, bread and water your rations with 10% refund for boomerang "political" power. It gives a mule or a negro the headache to think, and I fear it's contagious with some white folks.

As to Sharing the Wealth, I am a hundred per cent—if we just had work so we could all earn this day our daily bread. We are not looking for Santa Claus—his whiskers or presents. The hoarding of money—the medium of exchange—in the hands of a few does not buy a new frock for the baby nor pay for the one he now wears. Empty stomachs, a dissatisfied people, some times lead to a revolution. At daggers points one with another certainly is not good Jeffersonian democracy.

Assuring the public that all kussing and discussing as to my candidacy will be appreciated. I am yours truly,

J. G. (Short Pencil) Bell

'MAID OF MIST' PRIMPS FOR HONEYMOONERS

The Honeymoon Special, the famed Maid of the Mist, again will ply the waters at the base of Niagara Falls this summer, victor over the fire that badly damaged the craft in drydock last February. Repair work is being rushed, as shown in this picture, new boilers and engines being installed, new planking laid, and a larger and more modern cabin being built while Niagara roars an accompaniment to the hammers.

Old Map

Spells 'Ouachita' With A 'W' And Gives New Orleans As Capital

"Ouachita" was spelled "Wachita" in 1851, in Monroe's Geography, a copy of which is owned by G. W. Small, of Monroe.

Farmerville was spelled "Farmersville."

Natchitoches was "an old French town, formerly the center of trade with Mexico, on the Red River above Alexandria."

Shreveport was "a landing place on the Red River, at the foot of the Great Raft, which formerly choked the river for a space of 160 miles, but which is now removed.

New Orleans was the state capital, and the present capital, Baton Rouge, was "a post of the United States army, with an aresenal on the Mississippi river."

The population of New Orleans, according to the 1840 census, had grown from 10,000 in 1802 to 100,000. The population of the entire state, according to the 1840 census, was 352,000.

Oklahoma, the maps revealed, was the "Indian Territory." Texas had only a few counties marked on the map, and they were located along the state's eastern border and the gulf coast. Dallas and Fort Worth were not shown on the map.

The far west was generally designated as New Mexico, and the entire west coast was generally designated as California.

The geography text stated that Texas had declared its independence from Mexico in 1835, and was admitted to the union in 1845.

Monroe was indicated on the maps but no comment upon the city was made in the text. For the place on the map where Bastrop is located, the map bore the letters "C. H." The letters were an abbreviation for courthouse.

Pictures accompanied most of the texts regarding the states. The picture for the text on Louisiana depicted a crevasse on the Mississippi river.

The geography is in an excellent state of preservation. In dimensions it is 10 by 12 inches.

REVENUE DODGERS WARNED BY JUDGE

Dawkins To Increase Penalty To 18 Months For Liquor Law Violation

Sentences of 18 months in jail or the penitentiary will be meted out to persons found guilty of violating the federal liquor revenue law when federal court convenes in Monroe in October, according to an announcement made Saturday.

Warning that he would impose this heavy penalty was made by Judge Ben C. Dawkins in open court at Opelousas this week, according to word received here.

But until the court convenes in Monroe, the present rule of giving six month jail sentences to persons who plead guilty and 12 month sentences to those who stand trial and are convicted will continue, Judge Dawkins is quoted as saying.

A term of federal court will be held in Shreveport beginning June 17, according to Philip W. Mecom, United States attorney of Shreveport. A large number of liquor cases are docketed for trial.

LEGION POST TO ATTEND SERVICE

Members Will Hear Memorial Sermon At Grace Church

L. B. Faulk post, American Legion, and its auxiliary, will attend the annual memorial service at Grace Episcopal church at 11 a.m. today. Members will be attired in their caps and will march from the legion home to the church.

A church call will be sounded at the door of the edifice by a bugler. The choir will sing the processional, "Onward Christian Soldiers," to the strains of which the legion men with their post standards will proceed down the main aisle of the church.

The rector, Rev. E. F. Hayward, will read the names of the men from the post who have died the past year, and a bugle will sound as the list is concluded, after which special prayers will be offered by the rector. The sermon will be suited to the occasion.

On leaving the church the choir will sing the processional, "America," and will divide in such manner that the legion men can pass between the lines of the choir.

The program for the services has been prepared with care and it is expected to prove unusually impressive.

Circle one of the Methodist Missionary society met with Mrs. D. H. Allen on Monday afternoon for a program from the "World Outlook" under the leadership of Mrs. T. W. Jones. A reading, "Worship," by Mrs. J. L. Coleman was followed by a talk by Mrs. Bryan Foster on "The Gospel for the Slaves." Mrs. I. N. Heflin spoke on "The Gospel of Today for Two Races." Those present were Mrs. T. W. Jones, Mrs. J. E. Bethea, Mrs. T. H. Goza, Mrs. J. L. Coleman, Mrs. A. B. Kelly, Mrs. Charles Coltharp, Mrs. D. Fortner, Mrs. M. L. Piper, Mrs. D. H. Allen, Mrs. Jeannette Yerger, Mrs. Bryan Foster and Mrs. Fred Naylor.

Mrs. R. C. Walker entertained the members of her circle of the Baptist Missionary society at her home on Monday with Mrs. H. R. Post, Mrs. L. B. Collins and Mrs. A. J. Boswell taking part in a program on "Personal Service." During the social period the hostess served refreshments to Mesdames H. B. Day, H. R. Post, A. J. Boswell, Albert Bunch, L. B. Collins, W. R. Hatchell, R. C. Walker, L. A. Bankston and Knox Overstreet.

The May meeting of the American Legion auxiliary was held at the community club building on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. R. N. Ware presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. R. T. Campbell. Mrs. George Webb read an article on "Poppy Day," and plans were made for the sale of poppies here. An exhibition by the local girl scouts under the direction of Mrs. Hugh Montgomery, was enjoyed. An encouraging report on child welfare work was given by Mrs. L. Z. Naylor. During the social period which followed the hostesses, Mrs. Webb and Mrs. Steve Voelker, served delicious cake and tea. Among those in attendance were Mesdames Fred McDuff, George Webb, Steve Voelker, Harry Anderson, R. K. Boney, R. N. Ware, W. G. Goza, L. Z. Naylor, Henry Sevier, A. Van Zelfden, Herman Lancaster, Tom Fortner and Hugh Montgomery.

The annual birthday party, as observed by the women of the Southern Presbyterian church, was the feature of the meeting of the local auxiliary. The gathering took place at the home of Miss May Holmes last week. The offering this year is for Golden Castle college in Japan and a Japanese theme was attractively carried out in lavish floral decorations, Japanese lanterns, fans and screens. A program on the college was given and Alice Gilber tand Effie Ketchum, as students of the college, in native costume, entered and through their interpreter, Mrs. Boney, told of their college life and experiences. An art exhibit of Japanese prints added much interest to the occasion. Tea and cookies were served at the close of the session to the guests: Mesdames Jean Ayres, Arthur Crump, Gammon, Henry Sevier, J. S. Agee, W. C. Malone, J. H. Collins, John Nesbit, Balhouser, A. L. Sevier, R. E. Gilbert, George Ketchum, W. T. Fairly, R. K. Boney, George Eggleston and Miss Amy Holmes.

An expert at fish catching, the heron once was believed to attract the fish with its legs, and old angling books advised the use of marrow from the thighbone of a heron as bait.

Rev. Hastings Is Outdoor Man; Likes To Swim, Fish

Says Life On Farm As A Youth Caused Him To Appreciate Open Spaces

REV. HASTINGS

Rev. L. T. Hastings, pastor of the Monroe First Baptist church, was outdoors when he was asked to name his hobbies, his recreations and diversions, the things he likes to do as a man.

"I like the outdoors," he answered. "I was born indoors, but they turned me outdoors at an early age. Ever since that time I have liked the great outdoors."

There was a twinkle in his eyes, and he gave vent to his contagious laugh.

"I lived and worked hard on a farm until I was 20 years of age," he said. "I thought, then, that if I could just get an easy job in town, a job like jerking sodas, that kind of life would be something like heaven.

"Now, however, I am pleased that I worked hard as a boy and young man, because the work gave me strength and an appreciation of the outdoors."

Reared on a farm about five miles from Nashville, Tenn., Rev. Hastings has a physique and personal carriage which bear evidence of his youthful manual pursuits. In manhood, however, his duties as a minister of a church have left him little time for outdoor pursuits.

Nevertheless, he enjoys working in his family flower garden and puttering about the yard. A beautiful view of the Ouachita river and LaZarre's point is available from his rear yard. Sometimes he makes an interesting trip to a distant city where he delivers a sermon or address, or attends a convention.

Reverend Hastings was standing outdoors, on the second floor of the educational building of the Monroe First Baptist church, now under construction, when interviewed. Construction of the building, which has progressed by stages as finances were made available, doubtless is one of his major interests.

Using a small camera, he made two snapshots of the stage to which the construction had progressed. The two pictures were to be taken to his son, Brownlow Hastings, who is to graduate this week from Mars Hill Junior college, Mars Hill, N. C. Reverend and Mrs. Hastings are to leave here tomorrow for Mars Hill to attend the graduation ceremony, and will present the photographs to Brownlow, so that he will not have to wait until his return to Monroe to form an idea as to the stage of the construction, which is being given new impetus at this time. This shows that one of Reverend Hastings' great interests is that of a father.

Reverend Hastings is a good swimmer, but has not been swimming for several years. Until 10 years ago, when he came to Monroe, he had no experience in fishing. Now, he goes fishing occasionally.

One of his most interesting pursuits is studying, the acquiring of knowledge. His studies are not confined to the Bible, histories of Biblical times, or the many studies associated with the acquiring of knowledge of especial interest to a man of his calling. He pursues a broad field of study, and keeps posted on current events and world trends.

He is fond of music, both vocal and instrumental. In former years, he played the violin, base viol, guitar, baritone and reed organ. Rarely does he play one of those instruments now, but he sings often.

He enjoys radio programs. His favorite humorous characters are "Lum and Abner," the "Arkansas hicks."

CAPTAIN EASY
SOLDIER OF FORTUNE
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

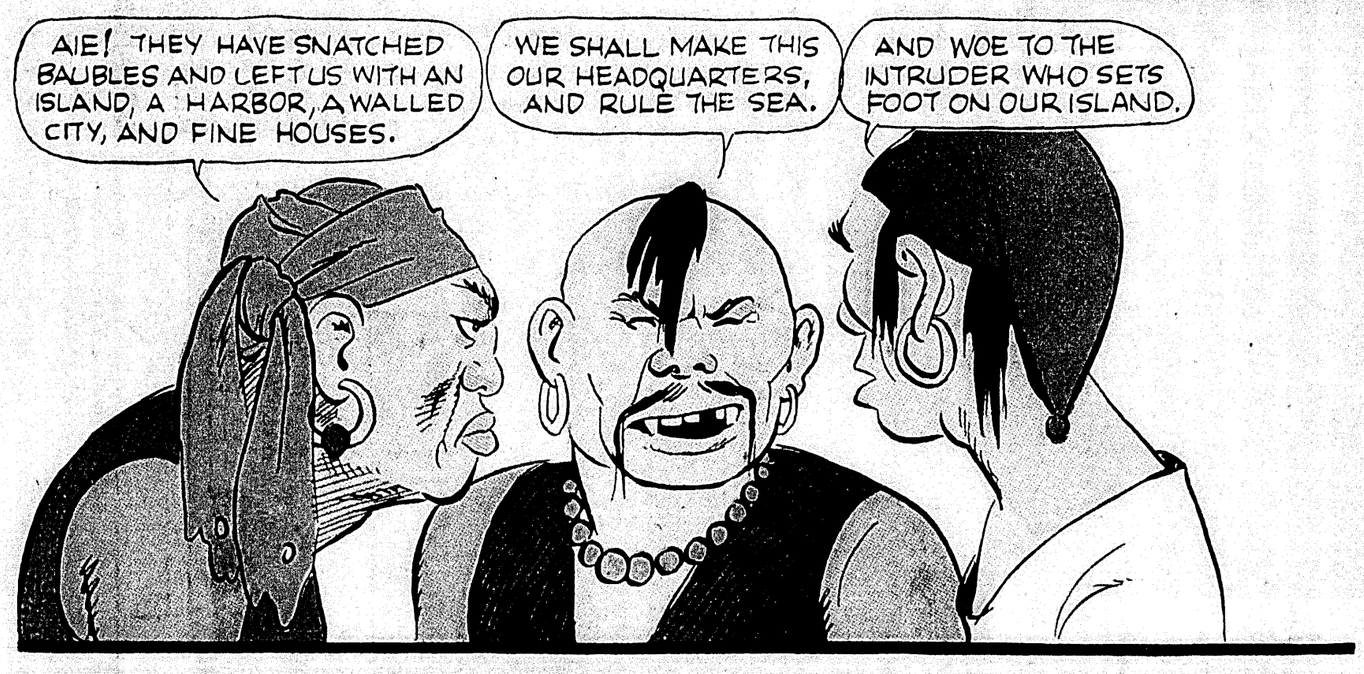
by ROY CRANE

FOR TWO DAYS AND NIGHTS THE PIRATE CAPTAINS FIGHT LIKE ALLEY CATS OVER THEIR ILL-GOTTEN LOOT.

AIE! THEY HAVE SNATCHED BAUBLES AND LEFT US WITH AN ISLAND, A HARBOR, A WALLED CITY, AND FINE HOUSES.

WE SHALL MAKE THIS OUR HEADQUARTERS, AND RULE THE SEA.

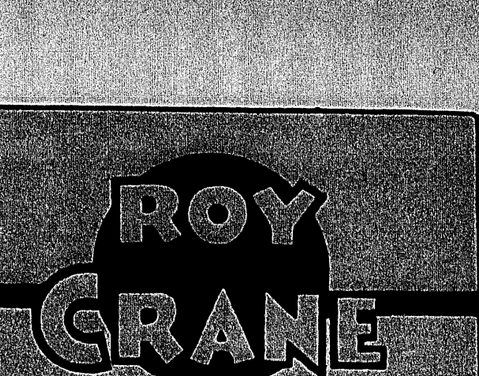
AND WOE TO THE INTRUDER WHO SETS FOOT ON OUR ISLAND.



THEN, TIRING OF DRINKING AND FIGHTING, FOUR OF THE ROGUES TAKE THEIR SHARE OF PLUNDER AND SAIL AWAY.

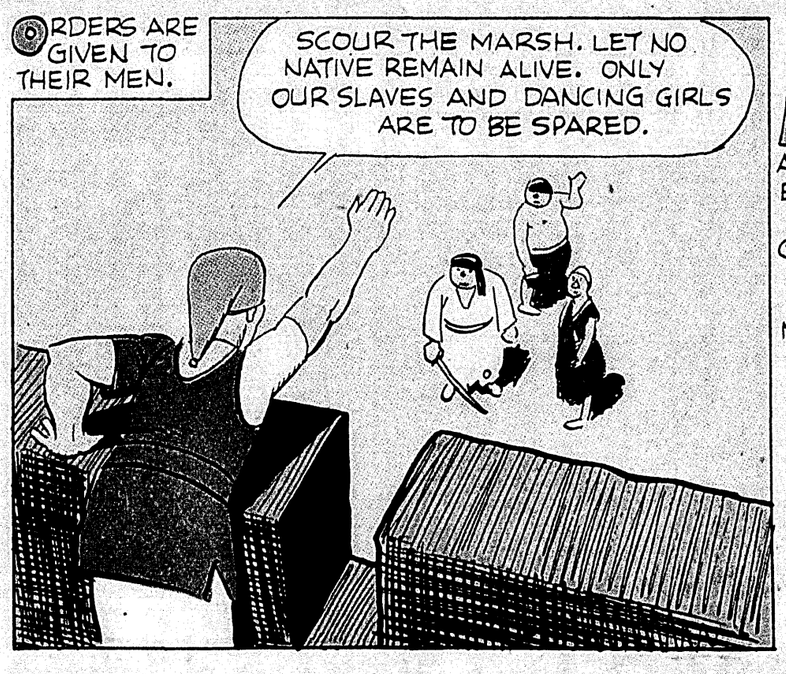
GUNNING, BULL-NECKED SING PONG AND THE REMAINING CAPTAINS CHUCKLE.

HO! THEY ARE FOOLS, THOSE OTHER CAPTAINS.



ORDERS ARE GIVEN TO THEIR MEN.

SCOUR THE MARSH. LET NO NATIVE REMAIN ALIVE. ONLY OUR SLAVES AND DANCING GIRLS ARE TO BE SPARED.



MEANWHILE, AIDED BY EASY AND PIPPY, GUM CHEW SAILS FOR THE MAINLAND, JUST IN TIME.

THE SAMPAN IS SMALL. WE CANNOT ALL GO TO THE MAINLAND.

THEN TAKE US ONLY TO THE MIDDLE OF THE MARSH, O WORTHY GUM CHEW, WHERE WE MAY HIDE IN SAFETY.

HE STOPS, HOWEVER TO RESCUE GROUPS OF HIS FELLOW COUNTRYMEN.

RUTH HITS THREE HOME RUNS BUT PIRATES WIN

BAMBINO BACK IN OLD FORM WITH FOUR FOR FOUR

However, Braves Hurlers Can't Hold Bucs, Who Win, 11 To 7

PITTSBURGH, May 25.—(AP)—Rising to the glorious heights of his heydey, Babe Ruth, the sultan of swat, crashed out three home runs against the Pittsburgh Pirates today but they were not enough and the Boston Braves took a 11 to 7 defeat before a crowd of 10,000.

Babe Ruth

The stands rocked with cheers for the mighty Babe as he enjoyed a field day at the expense of pitchers Red Lucas and Guy Bush, getting a single besides the three circuit blows in four times at bat and driving in altogether six runs.

Ruth left the game amid an ovation at the end of the Braves' half of the seventh inning and after his third home run—a prodigous clout that carried clear over the right field grandstand, bounded into the street and rolled into Schenley park. Baseball men said it was the longest drive ever made at Forbes field.

In his first appearance at the plate the Bambino drove the ball into the stands, scoring Urbanski ahead of him. Lucas was the victim. Again in the third, while Guy Bush was pitching, the Babe found his eye and smashed one that landed on top of the stands. Mallon was on base at the time. In the seventh Ruth lined out a single to score Mallon again. His last home run drove Bush out of the box and Waite Hoyt finished the game.

The Pirates pecked away freely at the offerings of three Boston pitchers and managed to keep up with the Babe's tremendous pace in so far as scoring runs was concerned.

The Pirates sewed up the game with Tommy Thevenow's double, coming with the bases loaded in the seventh while Ben Cantwell was pitching for the Braves. Pep Young, rookie third baseman, subbing for ailing Pie Traynor, hit a home run earlier for the Pirates.

SPORTS Chatter

BY GEO. V. LOFTON

Those psalm singers who were chanting a dirge over the grand old game of baseball a couple of years back had better change their tune, for America's national pastime is staging a grand comeback.

As late as last year, the boys were painting a black picture, asserting that decreased crows indicated decline of the game, and that it was only a matter of a few years when baseball would fold its tent and bow to another sport as the favorite of the nation.

Big league magnates bumped their noggins together in numerous conferences.. Various and sundry were the schemes concocted to lure John Pfann into the gate. Night baseball was suggested. It was adopted in the National league as an experiment, each team being allowed seven games during the season.

Each major league club endeavored to add clorful players to its roster in an effort to pull gates similar to those nifluenced by the mighty Bambino.

But outside of the Dean boys, none as colorful as Ruth appeared, and when it was announced he was through as a player, and would be sent to the Boston Braves, an early demise of the American league was predicted.

But look, you gloomy Gussies—

The Giants and Cards play to a crowd of 41,000 on a week-day! Attendance of every major club, with the possible exception of the St. Louis Browns, and the two Philadelphia clubs, is soaring above the 1934 mark. Nearly 50,000 seats have been sold for the All-Star game in Cleveland!

MINORS FEEL REVIVAL, TOO

Not only is this revived interest felt in the majors, but all over the bushes the fans are packing the stands.

As an example, in the American association, St. Paul already has played to more than half the total attendance of 1934, and the season is less than a third over.

In the Southern association, club owners are asserting definitely that prosperity is back. All around the loop attendance is increasing.

In the first eight days of the season, Atlanta drew 45,000, more than double the amount of people drawn in during the same period last year.

More surprising than the Crackers' showing, however, is that of Birmingham. The Barons, reported hardest hit during the depression, drew 30,000 for home games during the first three weeks of the season, double the 1934 figure.

The Pacific Coast league is experiencing a revival, although it is not so marked as that in the Southern wheel.

There is no doubt that the game is gaining strength, and the reason can be tacked onto several factors.

In the majors, it's the surprising strength of heretofore weak sisters. The transition of the White Sox and Red Sox in the American league, and the absolute astounding fact that the Brooklyn Dodgers are playing baseball, and the Cincinnati Reds are showing their teeth in the National, have done much to renew interest.

DEAN BOLSTERED NATIONAL

Then, it cannot be questioned that the rise to stardom of Dizzy Dean has done wonders in the old circuit. Dizzy's dizzy declarations regarding his prowess, and his backing up his statements with convincing performances on the hill, were enough to rouse even the most skeptical fan into fanatical interest.

The host of young stars who jumped into sudden fame this season has drawn out the bugs, too. Pitchers like Cy Blanton of the Pirates; Clydell Castleman of the Giants; the White Sox's Johnny Whitehead; and the Tigers' Joe Sullivan have intrigued the populace with their pitching performances.

Add to the attraction of star performers is the fact that the boys are all showing the old fight. Feuds have sprouted up between the Indians and Tigers; Giants and Brooklyn; Giants and Phillies; Yankees and Senators; and several other clubs.

They're playing the old ball game with tooth and nail this year—and who wouldn't pay to see a good fight?

DO YOU REMEMBER?

One year ago today—The U. S. soccer team was defeated by Italy, 7-1, in the world championship matches in Rome.

Five years ago today—An American women's golf team, headed by Glenna Collett, defeated a French squad, led by Mlle. Simone Thion de la Chaume, at St. Germain-en-Laye, France.

Ten years ago today—H. E. Morriss' Manna won the Epson Derby with Steve Donoghue up.

VAUGHAN HOLDS NATIONAL LEAD

However, Pepper Martin And Terry Threaten His Leadership

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—The consistently good hitting of Pepper Martin, the versatile St. Louis third sacker, and Bill Terry, New York Giants' manager, took the spotlight away from the amazing all-around stick-work of Arky Vaughan as the three fought it out for National league batting honors during the sixth week of the season.

Vaughan went on at his usual clip during the week which ended with Friday's games, adding four points to his average to bring it back above the .400 mark after it had dropped below for the first time and consolidating his hold on the general slugging leadership. But Martin and Terry added to their averages in a way that amounted to outright defiance of the rules in a week which saw the general run of batting marks drop sharply.

Martin made 27 trips to the plate and hit safely on 13 of them, getting "two out of four" in nearly every game, to lift his second-place mark 31 points to .385. Terry picked up 20 points for a .344 average with eleven blows in 26 attempts.

Vaughan, meanwhile, hit safely ten times in 24 trips to the plate to lift his average to .402. These ten blows gave him a total of 53, one more than his teammate, Lloyd Waner, and included his eighth home run of the season, putting him into a tie with Mel Ott of the Giants for the league lead. In addition he batted in eight runs for a total of 31 and a lead of two over Linus Frey of Brooklyn, the former leader, and Ott.

Martin retained first place in doubles with eleven to ten for Gus Suhr of Pittsburgh while Paul Waner of the Pirates, Phil Cavarretta of Chicago and Ralph Boyle of Brooklyn wound up in a triple tie with four three-baggers each. Billy Myers of Cincinnati forged ahead in the base stealing race with six thefts to five for Frenchy Bordagaray of Brooklyn.

Clydell Castleman, New York's 20-year-old rookie moundsman, took the undisputed lead in the elbowing department when he rang up his fourth victory without a loss while Tex Carleton of Chicago, who had been tied with him, suffered his first defeat. Second place went to another Giant, Roy Parmelee, with five victories and only one setback.

Biff, 14-1 Shot, Wins Rich Chicago Handicap

CHICAGO, May 25.—(AP)—A 14-to-1 shot in the betting named Biff, a busy but successful campaigner on the winter tracks, surprised 18,000 spectators today by winning the $5,000 added Chicago handicap, opening the 31-day meeting at Washington park.

The four-year-old son of Broadside-Wildwood, the entry of an obscure owner, F. Ianni, proprietor of a restaurant in Dallas, Texas, zig-zagged through a field of the finest sprinters in America, to conquer Wise Daughter by a length and a half, with Isaiah third. Some Pomp was fourth in the field of 14.

The winner ran the six furlongs in 1:11 3-5.

Overlooked in the betting, Biff paid $30.24 to win, $10.36 to place and $6.14 to show. The place price on Wise Daughter, running as an entry with Whereaway for Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago was $3.34 and $2.60 to show. The show price on Isaiah was $4.88.

OMAHA DEFEATED IN WITHERS MILE

Derby And Preakness Winner Runs Poor Second To Rosemont

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—William Woodward's Omaha, winner of the Kentucky derby and Preakness, suffered his first major defeat of the season today when he finished second to William duPont's Rosemont in the 60th running of the Withers mile at Belmont park. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Plat Eye was third in the field of nine.

Omaha, made the 1 to 2 choice of the crowd of 20,000, closed fast through the stretch after trailing for the first half mile but at the finish he still was one and one-half lengths back of Rosemont, which paid 8 to 1. The Woodward colt beat Plat Eye a half length for the place.

Rosemont, meeting Omaha for the first time, stepped off the mile in the fast time of 1:46 3-5 to earn the purse of $11,250. Omaha's second netted $1,000 and boosted his earnings for the year to $67,600 and $71,450 for his entire career.

Mrs. Whitney's colt whipped Psychic Bid four lengths for the place.

The leaders were trailed in order by Mrs. Whitney's Gillie, winner of the Santa Anita derby, Nautch, Special Agent, Mrs. James H. Austin's Sound Advice and E. D. Shaffer's St. Bernard.

Ross Picked To Regain His Welterweight Title

Barney Should Beat McLarnin In Third Meeting, Says Grayson

By Harry Grayson
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, May 23.—I have an idea that Barney Ross decisively will outpoint Jimmy McLarnin in their third 15-round match at the Polo Grounds on May 28, but my prediction is not based on the fact that the welterweight champion appears lackadaisical in workouts.

McLarnin is almost as deceptive in training as Max Baer.

Jimmy has prepared for most of his important starts without worthwhile sparring partners, yet repeatedly has turned in blazing battles after protracted layoffs.

I pick Ross because I believe he has the greater urge, and because I thought he was entitled to the decision that went the other way when they met last September.

It is because so many considered Ross shortchanged the last trip that the Chicagoan is likely to enter the ring as challenger a slight favorite.

McLarnin says he is 26, which makes him only one year older than Ross, but the Irishman has been around much longer than the Jewish clouter. McLarnin has been boxing 11 years against Ross' six, and a fighter's enthusiasm does not increase with seniority stripes.

McLarnin has all the money he ever should need, and contemplates matrimony. Lillian Cupit, Vancouver school teacher, is the girl.

If Ross was not confident that he could repel McLarnin, he hardly would have vacated the lightweight championship for the privilege of meeting the British Columbia Bomber for the third time. Ross still can do 135 pounds without difficulty.

Ross either takes a solid smack better than those who were bowled over by McLarnin or the latter has lost some of his punching power. The Lollapaloosa of the Loop was nailed more than once in 30 rounds with McLarnin, but nothing much happened.

Indeed, McLarnin saw fit to switch his style in their second encounter, after striving earnestly to blast Ross from the scene in their first excursion, Jimmy reverted to the boxing methods he employed during his fly, bantam, and featherweight days. It was Barney who lugged the trouble and took the chances.

While, as related in the foregoing, McLarnin repeatedly has done mighty well after long layoffs, the three bouts that Ross has put under his belt since Jimmy took the debatable decision from him last fall are points in his favor. His contests with Bobby Pacho in Cleveland, Frankie Klick in Miami, and Henry Woods in Seattle have kept Ross in touch with the game.

Ross scaled a trifle over 140 pounds when he last met McLarnin. That was more than he ever weighed for a fight, and was partly due to the several postponements. The increased poundage deprived Barney of some of his speed. He'll have all of his get-up and go this time, when he will come in at not more than 138 pounds.

McLarnin will scale about 145 pounds, and the pull in weight would be important if Ross had not already demonstrated that he is capable of spotting Jim a handicap of the kind.

If McLarnin was superstitious, he might object to boxing at the Polo Grounds. Jimmy has lost only three fights in New York, and two of the reverses were suffered in the home of the New York Giants. The other saw him shellacked by Billy Petrolle at Madison Square Garden.

Sammy Mandell cuffed McLarnin's ears at the Polo Grounds in 1928, and Lefty Lou Brouillard butted and pounded him there three years ago.

But Jimmy McLarnin is much more concerned about Ross falling for a feint than he is about any jinx.

BIG CROWD SEEN

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—The opening gun of what should be one of boxing's greatest seasons of outdoor warfare will be fired in the Polo Grounds Tuesday night with Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver striving to stave off the bid of Barney Ross of Chicago for the welterweight championship.

There probably will be 35,000 people in the National league ball park, and there are expectations that $200,000 worth of customers, if the weather is pleasant, will launch the new 20th Century Sporting club on its fistic way.

The greatest threat to Madison Square Garden's supremacy in the big time fight field since Humbert Fugazy fought a losing battle for control with Tex Rickard finds Bill Carey, former garden president, lined up against his old associates as head of the new organization that controls boxing at both the Polo Grounds and Yankee stadium.

On the night of June 13, in the bowl on Long Island, the garden pits Max Baer against Jimmy Braddock in defense of his heavyweight title. After that the new opposition takes the field again with a heavyweight match between Primo Carnera and the latest negro sensation, Joe Louis, from Detroit. All three of the big features are scheduled for 15 rounds.

Ross is an 8 to 5 favorite.

Henry Picard Wins In Metropolitan Tourney

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—A spectacular finish gave Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., professional, the Metropolitan open championship today with a winning total of 284, eight strokes under par for the Lakeville course.

Trailing him closest was Sid Brews, former South African open champion, who kept pace with Picard on the last nine holes to snatch second place away from Charley Lacey, home-club professional, and Willie MacFarlane, former national open champion.

TIGERS WIN ODD GAME OF SERIES WITH BOSTON, 3-2

Bridges Holds Red Sox To Seven Hits, Greenberg Provides Punch

BOSTON, May 25.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers made it two out of three over the Boston Red Sox today, winning the odd game of their first visit to Boston by a 3-2 margin. Hank Greenberg, slugging first baseman for the Tigers, pounded out his ninth home run of the season in the sixth inning with a mate on base, chasing home what proved to be the winning run.

Tommy Bridges

Tommy Bridges, clever Detroit flinger, held the Red Sox to seven scattered hits and chalked up his fifth consecutive victory. To date he has won six and lost three.

Fred "Fritz" Ostermueller, starting Red Sox pitcher, was struck in the face in the fourth inning by a line drive off Greenberg's bat. At first Ostermueller was thought to be seriously injured, but an x-ray showed no broken bones. One stitch was taken below his left eye and his upper lip was badly lacerated. He will remain at the hospital overnight, where another x-ray will be taken tomorrow.

In the first inning "Dib" Williams, who started at second base for the Sox, pulled up with a sprained ankle when he overran third base and made a sudden attempt to get back to the bag. He was replaced by Max Bishop.

CHISOX WALLOP NATS

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—Behind the six-hit pitching of Carl Fischer, the Chicago White Sox coasted to an 8 to 3 victory over Washington today when four Senator pitchers threw them 14 solid base hits.

Chubby Ed Linke, whose arm mysteriously went dead last season, started for Washington but lasted only long enough to serve up three successive hits and a base on balls. Before Pettit, hitherto the Senators' most successful relief hurler, could retire the side, four Sox runs had been scored.

Strategy---And No Sixes---Sarazen's Idea Of What It'll Take To Win Open

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Strategy—and no sixes—will win the national open golf championship at Oakmont, says Gene Sarazen, the mighty little man who unquestionably will stride to the starting tee rated as "the man to beat."

"Give me a card without a six on it," says Gene, "and I'll win it myself."

A concensus of the experts, most of whom have played historic Oakmont and its narrow fairways many times, shows that few of them expect 300 to be broken in the big show next month, but Sarazen figures the winner's score will be between 296 and 398.

"Oakmont has them all scared Stiff," Sarazen chuckled. "Sure, it's a tough course. It's the only layout where 300 hasn't been broken in National open championship play. In 1927 Tommy Armour and Harry Cooper tied for first at 301, and the weather was perfect.

"But I don't see any sense in approaching it like an unarmed man would a flock of wildcats. Nothing in golf can be that bad.

'Know When To Miss'

"Strategy—and no sixes—will win at Oakmont. By strategy, I mean that you have to know when to miss and when not to miss. There are five holes at Oakmont where you don't dare miss, where the slightest error is liable to blow you right out of cont

IN NEW YORK, a newspaper man, discussing "love and marriage," before an important group of business women, nearly all under thirty, and beautiful, told them it was their duty to marry and have children, not fewer than six for each mother.

Miss J. S., business woman, suggests "perhaps business women might not meet many men whom they could hold in such high personal esteem as to consider them fitted for the paternity of the six children they might very much like to have." Miss J. S. intimates that what business women see of men in business hours inclines them to remain single. A matter of duty, not of choice, is involved, and, besides, the inferior qualities of a man are not important. It is the mother and HER qualities that count.

NAPOLEON'S FATHER did not amount to much, nor Lincoln's father. But those two mothers, the broad-hipped Corsican woman and the tall, Nancy Hanks, amounted to a great deal. One freed the slaves, the other made kings ridiculous. It is the duty of Miss J. S., beautiful and young, to marry and have children, and it need not interfere with her business. Sarah Bernhardt had children.

GREAT BUSINESS MEN in America will sympathize with a female rabbit, something they did not expect.

"Fan-tail" pigeon, the sort that spreads its tail out like a fan, was driven from its nest, by the smoke and flame of a New Jersey forest fire. It flew to a barnyard, near a hutch in which a mother rabbit was raising young ones. Knowing nothing about the difference between birds and mammals, the pigeon instantly took charge of the young rabbits, drove away the mother with pecks and wing flapping, spread her wings over the rabbit babies at night, cooed hard at them, during the day.

NOW THE MOTHER rabbit dares not go near the hutch. The rabbit owner, interested, puts lettuce leaves near the young rabbits, the fan-tail

FRANCE WAGING MONEY BATTLE

Bank Of France Boosts Discount Rate In Move To Crush Speculation

PARIS, May 25.—(AP)—France tonight was fighting to head off the flight from the franc while Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin prepared to ask the chamber of deputies for dictorial powers to balance the budget.

The Bank of France today boosted its discount rate to 4 per cent effective Monday in another effort to crush what it called "speculation" against French currency. Thursday's increase from 2 1-2 to 3 per cent failed to halt drainage of gold from its vaults.

Currency in circulation is 97 per cent covered by gold, but the bank obviously is disturbed at the loss of 3,000,000,000 francs worth of gold (about $200,000,000) in seven weeks.

MAN IS HELD FOR ASSAULT ON YOUNG SHREVEPORT GIRL

SHREVEPORT, La., May 25.—(AP)—Police announced this afternoon they had arrested a man named Tobe T. Poole for investigation in connection with an alleged criminal assault on a 15-year-old girl late last night.

No charges have yet been filed against the 19-year-old man, apprehended by Detectives Howard Wimberly and Charles Crabtree upon his return to the city.

Poole was named by the alleged victim's mother who said her daughter did not tell her until today of the assault, alleged to have been committed last night in the rear of Poole's delivery truck after they attended a movie.

MOBILIZATION CALL WILL AFFECT 20,000 SOLDIERS

People Are Told Not To Count Too Much On Conciliation Attempts

ROME, May 25.—(AP)—Orders for the mobilization of thousands of officers and technical experts of the class 1912 tonight followed Benito Mussolini's assertion before the chamber of deputies that Italy "is ready to assume all, even the supreme, responsibility," in East Africa.

Military sources estimated unofficially the mobilization order would affect upward of 20,000 trained subalterns and technicians.

A decree published in the official Gazette required "subalterns and all troops of limited classes (experts)" to present themselves immediately.

In an address to the senate May 14, Il Duce said "we shall maintain under arms for all time necessary three classes, 1911, 1913 and 1914, and moreover one class—1912—in reserve."

Today he told the cheering deputies that only enemies of fascist Italy "can pretend to be stupefied or simulate protests for military measures which we have taken or for those which we shall take."

SWISS CONSIDERING PROTESTING FLIGHTS OF GERMAN AIRSHIPS

BERNE, Switzerland, May 25.—(AP)—Switzerland considered tonight protesting to Berlin against what it regards as violation of her territory by flights of German aerial squadrons over the frontier.

Authorities are awaiting the outcome of an investigation by customs officials of the planes' identities. The customs officers complained that Switzerland's territory had been violated twice this week.

Four Nazi planes, they said, flew over Gottlieben and there was no question of their identity, but eight monoplanes which passed over Schaffhouse three days ago were so high their license numbers could not be read.

Only recently Switzerland protested strongly to Berlin against violation of her territory in the alleged kidnaping of Berthold Jacob, anti-Nazi journalist, by Germans. Berlin agreed to submit the case to arbitration. The incident aroused much resentment here.

WOMAN AVIATOR IS FORCED DOWN

Laura Ingalls Fails In Non-Stop Hop Because Of Leaking Oil Line

INDIANAPOLIS, May 25.—(AP)—A leaking oil line forced Laura Ingalls to land at the municipal airport here this evening on her attempt to set a non-stop trans-continental flight from California to New York.

Miss Ingalls landed here at 5:45 p.m. She said she made the trip from Los Angeles to Wichita, Kas., in five hours and 45 minutes, and first began to notice trouble after passing over Kansas City.

She expressed the belief she was "on the threshold of making good" when the oil line trouble developed.

"I had been making between 220 and 235 miles an hour to Wichita," she said.

"After I passed Kansas City the oil trouble started, and my speed was cut down considerably. When I came to Indianapolis I thought it would be very foolish to try and continue in the face of the low oil pressure."

Miss Ingalls said she will make another attempt to set a new record for the flight, but added, "I think I'll try it the other way the next time."

"You know no one has ever set a record from east to west," she added.

CRUELTY CHARGED TO PICTURE STAR IN DIVORCE SUIT

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—(AP)—Charging cruelty and habitual intemperance, Dolores Costello Barrymore, blonde former movie actress, sued her handsome-profiled actor husband, John Barrymore, for divorce today.

Mrs. Barrymore asked custody of their two children, $1,000 a month for their support and $2,000 a month alimony for herself.

For the past several months Barrymore has completely neglected to provide for his wife and their children, Dolores, 5, and John Blyth, Jr., 3, and the burden of supporting herself and the children has been entirely on her, Mrs. Barrymore's complaint said.

LEADERS SCHEME TO HAMMER NRA THROUGH HOUSE

Doughton Admits Extension Resolution Was Drafted At Secret Meet

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—Congressional and administration chiefs in secret conference today mapped NRA strategy they hoped would push through the house Tuesday and into the senate's lap Wednesday a measure extending the recovery unit's life for two years.

What would happen after the bill was returned to the senate was problematical but few of the conferees today doubted but that in the end President Roosevelt would get almost everything he wanted.

Participants in the two-hour meeting included Donald R. Richberg, NRA chief; Speaker Byrns, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader; Chairman Doughton and Representative Samuel B. Hill, Democrat, Washington, Vinson, Democrat, Kentucky and Cooper, Democrat, Tennessee, of the house ways and means committee.

Sturdy, 72-year-old Doughton left the meeting to tell waiting newspapermen, "there isn't a bit of news." But after questioning he said an NRA extension resolution was being drafted for presentation to the ways and

13,549 Signatures Are Written In Records At Sheriff's Office

With only five days remaining for poll registration for last year, 13,549 signatures of voters had been written in the poll books of Ouachita parish when the sheriff's office closed late yesterday.

There were some duplications in the total figure, caused by persons having registered for 1934 in their respective precincts earlier in the year, and having later registered for the same year at the sheriff's office on the first floor of the courthouse.

Also, some citizens over 60 years of age had registered in the poll books.

Under an amendment to the state constitution passed last year, all residents of the state between the ages of 21 and 60 must sign their names in the new poll books in order to be eligible to vote. Citizens over 60 years of age, though not required to sign their names in the books, must be properly registered with their parish registrar of voters in order to be eligible to vote.

It was estimated yesterday that a considerable number of residents of the parish who are of the ages required for the registration, have not yet signed their names in the books.

Some of the persons who had not signed their names in the 1934 poll books were prominent city residents and others were rural residents.

Many of those who had not signed the 1934 books had merely postponed calling at the sheriff's office to sign their names in the books, but it was reported that a substantial portion of them, including numerous city residents, had not signed the 1934 books because they obtained poll tax re-

INJURIES FATAL FOR AUTO VICTIM

A. W. Patterson Dies; Driver Of Taxicab Charged With Manslaughter

A. W. Patterson, 60, of West Monroe, died at a hospital here yesterday morning of injuries received Wednesday, May 8, when struck by an automobile in West Monroe, and Odell Wilson, 25, West Monroe taxicab driver, accused as being the driver of the car which struck Patterson, was arrested and placed in the parish jail charged with manslaughter.

Wilson's bond was fixed at $1,000

Patterson was reported to have suffered a fractured skull and fractures of several ribs in the accident. An autopsy in the case was conducted at a funeral home yesterday by Coroner C. L. Mengis, who was assisted by several other physicians. The coroner said he would make a report of the autopsy Monday.

The warrant for Wilson's arrest was sworn out by Z. C. Patterson, son of the fatally injured man. West Monroe police arrested Wilson and transferred him to the sheriff's department.

The accident in which the elder Patterson was injured took place at the west end of the traffic bridge. Mr. Patterson, a carpenter by trade, had been employed for a short time as nightwatchman at a foundry and machine shop in Monroe, and was on his way home at the time.

Movement of traffic at the end of the bridge was handicapped because repair work was in progress, making it difficult for automobiles to pass one another. Details of the accident have not been clearly revealed, but it was reported that Mr. Patterson was cross-

FORTY PASSENGERS OF DERAILED TRAIN MOVED FROM SCENE

SHREVEPORT, La., May 25.—(AP)—Forty passengers aboard the Louisiana and Arkansas Railway train No. 4 were brought here today by bus after derailment of the train one mile south of Chestnut, La., which is 75 miles southeast of Shreveport.

No one was injured and Paul Sipple, assistant to the president of the railroad who was aboard the train, said none of the cars turned over.

"The engine, baggage car and coach ran a short distance and stopped," Sipple said.

The train was on its regular run from New Orleans to Shreveport. Officials were investigating the cause of the derailment.

EARLY COUNT SHOWS BIG MAJORITY FAVORING PLAN

Administration Officials Keep Close Eye On Far Western Ballot

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—The vote in today's referendum on continuation of the wheat production adjustment program of the agricultural adjustment administration, compiled by the Associated Press at 12:15 a. m., eastern standard time, showed growers replying:

Yes 120,378.

(By Associated Press)

A clear victory for continuance of the AAA's wheat adjustment program in 1936 was indicated on the basis of partial returns from yesterday's referendum of the nation's wheat farmers.

The first fragmentary returns from 22 of the 37 states that fill the nation's bread basket showed a trend of around seven to one in favor of continuance.

Within a few hours after the polls started to close in a westward sweeping wave the total stood 48,376 for and 7,220 against the program.

From the start the trend in favor of the AAA's plan ranged between six to one and ten to one. First returns set the higher figure, with a later slump. Whether the substantial margin would be retained when the ballot count ranged up toward the half million votes expected could not be predicted.

In Washington agricultural adjustment administration officials watched

DATA ON RELIEF PROJECTS ASKED

Municipalities Told To Start Preparing Information On Proposals

Municipalities of Louisiana seeking government aid on public works projects were advised Saturday in a telegram from Orloff Henry, acting state director of the PWA, to begin immediately the preparation of necessary data for submission to the federal public works administration.

The announcement of the acting state director, which was sent to all parts of the state, came to Monroe in the form of a telegram addressed to the press, and quoted a telegram from Col. Horatio B. Hackett, assistant administrator of the public works administration at Washington, which reiterated previous announcements of the basis on which combined loans and grants will be made by the government.

Fifty-five per cent of the money required for any acceptable project will be loaned and 45 per cent will be an outright grant, according to the assistant administrator. The rate of interest on loans will be 3 per cent and the present wage scale on PWA projects will prevail.

The telegram from Acting State Director Henry follows:

"The following message from Col. Horatio B. Hackett, assistant administrator of the public works administration, Washington, just received,

DIONNE BABIES TO CELEBRATE FIRST BIRTHDAY TUESDAY

CALLANDER, Ont., May 25.—(AP)—That hoary old liber that "there's nothing new under the sun" will get the boot next Tuesday when the Dionne quintuplets have a birthday.

A first birthday anniversary for quintuplets is something new under the sun, and the government thinks enough of it to send two of its ministers here for the occasion.

As far as the babies are concerned, however, it will be just another Tuesday. They are still young enough to rate orange juice superior to oratory and sleep more important than speeches.

Present will be David Croll, minister of public welfare, and Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture; Dr. F. C. Routley, of the Red Cross; and Dr. Allan R. Dafoe and Judge J. A. Valen, legal guardians, (with the minister of welfare and the father) of the babies.

Oliva Dionne, father, and Mrs. Elzire Dionne, their mother, have been invited. They have not indicated whether they will attend.

EPPS MAN KILLED IN TRUCK CRASH

George Calvert Dies When Machine Strikes Wagon In West Carroll

EPPS, La., May 25.—(Special)—George Calvert, 35, of Epps, member of a well-known West Carroll parish family, was almost instantly killed at 5:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon when an ERA truck in which he was riding crashed into a wagon about one mile north of Darnell, West Carroll parish.

Calvert sustained a broken neck and died before medical help could reach him. Another man, who was in the truck with him, was unhurt.

The truck, which careened into a ditch after the crash, was almost totally demolished. A wheel was torn off the wagon but it otherwise was undamaged. Occupants of the wagon escaped injury.

According to reports, Calvert attempted to guide the truck between the wagon and an automobile at a high rate of speed, and when he swerved the truck to avoid striking the automobile, it ripped off a wheel on the wagon.

The impact caused him to lose control of the truck and it leaped off the road, turning over several times. Witnesses said it was almost a miracle that the other occupant of the truck, a man by the name of Church, was not killed or injured.

Calvert and his companion were en route from Epps to the ERA headquarters in Tallulah at the time of the accident.

The victim was the son of the late George Calvert, who, at one time, owned all the land on which the community of Epps is situated. The community, at the time of his death, was known as Calvert.

Calvert's survivors could not be learned Saturday night and no arrangements for the funeral had been made.

Will Rogers Says

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 25.—(Special)—Was reading where the Federation of Women's clubs was going to have a hot election, the woman in line for the presidency (she is now first vice-president), they all admit has every qualification, worked up for 30 years in the club. High class, talented, cultured lady, but she is an Indian. You would expect intolerance from some organizations, but not from the most civilized one we have. Even one of the two great uncivilized tribes (the Republicans) elected dear old Charley Curtis. So I don't believe these ladies going to get bias. Course there is some of 'em that would love to meet around the convention campfire and shout "Well, sisters, we scalped another Indian, we have to keep this club 100 per cent American." They can't afford to do that.

Yours,
Will Rogers.

U. S. AGENTS AND POLICE APPARENTLY HOLD ALOOF

Officers Are Reported To Have Given Snatchers Till Monday To Act

TACOMA, Wash., May 25.—(AP)—The wealthy family of nine-year-old George Weyerhaeuser, kidnaped lumber fortune heir held for $200,000 ransom, began negotiations with his abductors tonight for his safe return.

While federal agents and police apparently held aloof, the family had inserted in the classified advertising section of a Seattle newspaper this advertisement:

"Expect to be ready to come Monday. Answer. Percy Minnie." The unusual signature and the cryptic wording of the message were believed to conform to instructions given Mr. and Mrs. John Philip Weyerhaeuser, Jr., parents of George, in a special delivery letter they received last night more than six hours after their son disappeared.

TACOMA, Wash., May 25.—(AP)—A formidable army of federal agents and police was reported marking time tonight to give the abductors of 9-year-old George Weyerhaeuser an opportunity to return him safely to his multi-millionaire parents.

An official source said the mobilized force of authority would give the abductors until Monday to return the boy, who disappeared yesterday while returning home from a public school for lunch.

Appearances tended to support the information that the government's relentless kidnaper chasers and police were standing aside in an effort to effect the return of the young heir unharmed.

SPEED REQUIRED TO END SESSION

Congress Must Quicken Work To Reach Close Early In July

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—With proposals for federal regulation of industry and agriculture to the fore, congressional pilots today decided skillful handling would be necessary if the session's end is to be reached by early July.

Although the bonus shoal was behind—some say definitely for the session, others insisted only temporarily—the leaders agreed more speed would be needed in view of the vast controversial program remaining.

Hints were dropped that some of the legislation may be deferred until next year if it appears the session may run far into the summer. In this connection, sections of the omnibus banking bill, centralizing credit control in the federal reserve board, were mentioned.

Administration forces insisted NRA extension, public utility holding company regulation and the social security bills must pass, together with the few remaining regular appropriation measures.

DRIVE IS STARTED TO REHABILITATE FLOOD DISTRESSED

ALEXANDRIA, La., May 25.—(AP)—With reports that flood waters were still on a gradual rise in northwest Louisiana, though apparently at a standstill in the central part of the state, American Red Cross officials today began a drive to rehabilitate some 2,500 families made homeless in the flooded areas of the Red and Atchafalaya rivers.

Red Cross officials estimated here today that a fund of $50,000 was needed to begin construction of homes and shelter for families who lost in the inundation caused by heavy rains. The Red Cross estimated it would cost $20 for each family in the affected area.

The Alexandria Town Talk and the Red Cross launched a campaign to raise funds for relief work, soliciting contributions from

Scene At New Orleans Recalls Era Of Nero In Ancient Roman Days

Attendants Include Leaders Under Indictment And Investigation

(By Special Staff Correspondent)

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 25.—In the days of ancient Rome, it is written that "the tyrant Nero employed official applauders for his plays." Death was the penalty for those who refused to applaud the entry of the dictator Nero.

Huey P. Long, self-styled kingfish of Louisiana politics, took the cue from his predecessor of another era today, and rolled into the Louisville and Nashville station from Washington amidst the applause, cheering and blare of trumpets in the hands of purchased hirelings. Political death was the penalty for those who refused to applaud the entry of the modern dictator Long.

Word was passed down the line 48 hours before the arrival of Senator Long that everybody should be at the railroad station Saturday morning.

John Fush, who does the hiring and firing on the New Orleans dock board, at the dictate of Long, was present an hour before the arrival of the train. He checked, rechecked and doublechecked the payroll boys who reported in person to him. They made up the bulk of the crowd of approximately 2,000 persons which was on hand to participate in the instructed applause to Long.

Lined up alongside the train tracks were 100 of New Orleans' uniformed police. They were in personal command of Superintendent of Police George Reyer. Reyer is the same chief of police who was accused by Long last year of accumulating $65,000 in graft. He was in the opposition camp then. Today he is supporting Long. Is a member of the Long-controlled police board and was on hand to greet the dictator. Captain Henry Lennie and 12 motorcycle policemen were also assigned by Reyer as an escort for Long.

The crowd was augmented by about 50 members of the state's secret "Cossack" forces who mingled in the mob. Among the better known of the "Cossacks" who serve as personal guards for Long were Paul Voitier, who was arrested last year when the city police caught Long supporters in the registration office of Orleans parish; Louis Jones, Baton Rouge slugger, who drew a reprieve from his coat pocket and presented it in court when he was convicted of slugging a man on the capitol steps; Joe Messina, who is under charges of slugging Leon Trice, news photographer, with a blackjack; Bill Stillson, long one of the dictator's bodyguards, and

LITTLE WINS SECOND BRITISH AMATEUR CROWN

DEFENDING CHAMP BEATS TWEDDELL IN CLOSE MATCH

U. S. Star Puts Sensational Finish To 1-Up Victory In Final

By Gayle Talbot
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

ST. ANNE'S-ON-THE-SEA, Eng., May 25. — William Lawson Little, Jr., the colossus from California, fixed the mantle of golfing greatness more firmly on his shoulders today when he defeated Dr. William Tweddell, a 38-year-old British physician, one up, in 36 holes, and won the British amateur golf championship for the second straight time.

Thus the burly, 24-year-old San Francisco shotmaker became the first player in history to win three consecutive national amateur golf crowns and the third man ever to register a "double" in the 50 years of this championship.

During a sensational struggle which saw the husky holder of the British and American simon-pure titles three up at the end of the morning round, only to be brought back on even terms with six holes to go in the home stretch, Little played some of the grandest golf in his career. He withstood paralyzing pressure over the final, windswept passage to subdue Tweddell, the winner of the 1927 championship, who made a bold bid on the last nine holes.

Desperately needing a four on the final hole to assure victory, the American skillfully got off one of the most testing shots of the tournament, hemmed in on three sides by a gallery of almost 10,000 which had verged on riotous conduct over the prospect of witnessing Little's downfall.

Standing on the 36th tee, Little was dormie one. Tweddell, having the honor by virtue of winning the previous hole, divided the fairway with a 250-yard drive. Earlier in the day Little had been belting the ball from the tees fairly consistently about 300 yards. Down the stretch, he was hard pressed and sacrificed accuracy for distance. He sliced his drive into a swarm of spectators standing in the rough and the ball settled on a bare spot.

His caddy, with a stick flying an American flag, rushed to the spot and fell on all fours, animal-like, to prevent the rampaging spectators from trampling on the ball. Little slowly ambled up to the ball and with characteristic impassiveness, viewed the situation without a sign of emotion. One hundred yards distant was the green, with two yawning traps in between. It took the marshals fully five minutes to move the crowd back to permit Little to get a free swipe at the ball. He chose a spade mashie, lobbed the pellet beautifully to clear the traps and it came to rest on the green 28 feet from the hole. Tweddell planted his approach three feet inside Little's.

That recovery had a revitalizing effect on the champion. For the first time during the final match he smiled. He took less time than usual in lining up the putt and then rolled the ball "stone dead" for a sure four, putting the pressure on Tweddell and, as it turned out, blighting the challenger's hopes. Facing the most difficult operation of his career, the medico saw his 25-foot putt, which made, would have taken the match at least an extra hole, slide past the cup. Ruefully but grinning, Tweddell tapped Little's ball into the cup and conceded defeat.

The gallery, which had cheered Tweddell's magnificent uphill fight, cheered equally loud for the victorious Californian.

If there was any one winning shot in the entire match, however, it was on the 32nd, where Little's second shot nestled in a bunker beside the green while Tweddell was lying close to the hole for a sure four. Little whaled the ball with all the might of his brawny shoulders, and brought it out in a cloud of sand 15 feet from the cup and then sank the putt for a half in 4s to become dormie two.

Little's victory today made it the fourth time in the 50 years history of the tournament the title has been captured by Americans. Jesse Sweetser did it in 1926 and Bob Jones turned the trick in 1930. The only other players besides Little to score "doubles" were H. G. Hutchinson in 1867-87, and Harold Hilton in 1900-01.

SCORES 'DOUBLE'

Lawson Little, above, won his second consecutive British amateur golf championship yesterday in a stirring 1-up victory in 36 holes.

LEGION JUNIORS TRIM PELS AGAIN

L. T. I. Makes 14 Errors And Juniors Win Third Straight Victory

Mixing nine hits with 14 errors, made by the Pelicans, the American Legion junior club won their third straight victory over Louisiana Training institute yesterday, 16 to 1.

The Pelican infielders were way off form and their misplays gave the Juniors plenty of scoring chances. Only two outfield errors were made by the Pels, the other 12 being chalked up against infielders.

Ed Stroud and Britton Horton hurled fine ball for the American Legion team, allowing but four hits between them. Fontana also took a turn on the hill for the Juniors and fared equally as well. Horton struck out seven Pelicans and Stroud and Fontana two each.

Fontana led the legion batting attack with two hits, both of them doubles. Horton, Hyde and Stroud also hit doubles, as did Takewell for the Pelicans. Bice got two singles for L. T. I.

JOHNNY MORRIS WINS GOLF FINAL

Former Monroe Player Beats Gene Vinson In Montgomery Meet

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 25.—(AP)—The sensational young shot maker, Johnny Morris of Birmingham, today wrote his name among the winners of the historic invitation tournament of the Montgomery Country club, by beating Gene Vison of Meridian, Miss., another youthful golf star, 4 and 2.

It was Morris' accuracy around the greens and in splitting the fairway with his drives that gave him the edge needed to stand off Vinson's determined rally, after losing the first three holes of the match.

A gallery, said by observers to be the largest that ever followed a match here, trailed, and gasped on No. 14, as Morris' six iron shot on the 140-yard hole rolled dead to the pin and stopped just short of an ace. Vinson, unperturbed, dropped his twelve-foot putt to match the birdie two.

The Mississippian's usually reliable driver began failing him on the fifteenth and he dropped successive two holes because of a faltering long game.

Monroe Monarchs Off On Long Road Jaunt

Having defeated the Little Grays, 6-0, last Sunday as their final gesture to local fans the Monroe Monarchs, local negro team, left for an extended trip through the north, east and middle west. Seventeen players pulled out from Casino Park at 4 o'clock this morning. Their first stop will be at Clarksdale, Miss., today. They will meet the Omaha, Neb., Tigers there this afternoon in a single contest. The team will probably be on the road for three months, it was said.

Having made a fine spring record, winning 17 out of 20 games, the Monarchs, on their second invasion of the north, will present the best team that has ever represented Monroe, it was said.

The team will play successive games in the following cities this week: Clarksdale, Miss.; Jonesboro, Ark., Osceola, Ark., Louisville, Ill., Hannibal, Mo., Mt. Vernon, Ill., St. Louis and Chicago.

Players making the trip were Manager Frank Johnson; Catchers Harry Else and Ernest Smith; Infielders Johnny Washington, Andrew Henderson, Clarence Lamar, Jiggs Maxwell; Outfielders Otis Henry, Jack Moore, Booker Harmon; Pitchers Hilton Smith, Barney Morris, J. B. Griffin, Arthur Johnson, Leland Foster, Hugh Little and Homer Allen.

All Indianapolis Track Record-Holders Entered In 500-Mile Automobile Classic Next Saturday

By Claude H. Wolff
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

INDIANAPOLIS, May 25.—(AP)—Holders of every track record for the Indianapolis speedway will be there stamping on the gas for further glory in this year's 500-mile auto race May 30.

They are Wild Bill Cummings and Leon Duray of Indianapolis, Kelly Petillo, Fred Frame and Babe Stapp of Los Angeles; Mauri Rose of Dayton, O.; and Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Cal.

Cummings set the track record for 500 miles last year, averaging 104.863 miles per hour. Duray drove the fastest single lap in the 26 years the track has been in use when he circled the 2 1-2 mile oval at 124.018 in 1928.

Duray also whipped the supercharger-equipped car around the course four times at an average speed of 122.391.

Petillo holds the 25-mile record of 119, also the single lap mark for two-passenger cars of 122. He made them last year. Duray rode alone when he made his records.

Frame Starred In '32, '33

Frame, winner in 1932, has four speedway marks to his credit—112 average for 100 miles, 111 for 125 miles, 110 for 175 miles and 110 for 200 miles (eliminating fractions in each case). All were made in the 1933 race. Motor trouble forced Frame out at 212 miles.

In the same race, Stapp set five records—111 for 150 miles, and 109 miles an hour for 225, 250, 275, 300 miles. He also failed to finish.

Meyer, the only driver of the present day group of stars to win the classic twice, roared around the rough brick track in 1933 to set four records He gave the drivers something to shoot at when he drove 107 for 325 and 350 miles; 104.458 for 375 and 104.677 for 400 miles. Meyer won in 1928 and 1933.

Rose, second last year, hung up a record for 425 miles, averaging 104.828.

Cummings Set 500-Mile Mark

Cummings, in winning in 1934, set new speed records of 105 for 450 and 475 miles, and 104.863 for the whole distance.

Drivers say their cars will be faster throughout the entire range this year than ever before and believe a flock of track records will be established.

Cummings, the national champion; Phil (Red) Shaffer of Des Moines, Ia., Deacon Litz of Dubois, Pa., and Wilbur Shaw—all veterans of speedway racing—share that view.

Cummings does not look for tremendous speed at the outset, as has been the case in most races in recent years, but he does believe the ultimate winner will average around 110 miles per hour for the distance.

Fuel and oil limitations will be in effect again. Each car will be allowed only 32 1-2 gallons of gasoline and six gallons of oil. Last year, when a limit was put on gasoline for the first time, 45 gallons were allowed.

In winning last May, Cummings nursed his car over the distance on 35 1-2 gallons, averaging about 15 miles. Not a car which started was eliminated because of fuel exhaustion.

Drivers say the track, always rough and full of dips, is no worse this year than it was twelve months ago. It has to be driven as no other course is driven. The veterans have found what they call a grove high on the course, and cutting sharply down track on the turns, but it can be found and held only by experts.

SUIT FILED TO STOP AUTO RACE

Neighbor Says Speed Test Is Nuisance; Williams Crashes Up

INDIANAPOLIS, May 25.—(AP)—Skids and legal threats marked the resumption today of qualifying trials for the 500-mile race to be run May 30 at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

A pilot tuning up for the trials wrecked his car on one of the treacherous turns and a householder living just across the road from the big track threatened through court action to ditch the entire race, contending that it is a public nuisance and a dangerous event.

The mishap occurred to the car driven by Merrill (Doc) Williams of Anderson, Ind. He was speeding at 100 miles an hour when his car suddenly scooted toward the outside retaining wall, rammed it and caromed to the inside wall. Williams escaped the fate of two drivers and a mechanic who died in similar accidents last Tuesday. Thrown clear of the machine as it skidded, he apparently suffered only a fractured ankle and bruises.

Bret Harte Billings filed the suit to halt the race and all future qualifying trials. At the request of Paul Y. Davis, speedway attorney, Judge Joseph R. Williams continued until Monday a hearing on Billing's petition.

Billings alleged that the speedway endangers the lives of persons on adjoining property as well as the lives of the drivers. His suit recalled the accident several years ago in which a four-year-old boy, playing in the yard of his home near the track, was killed by a wheel from a wrecked racing machine.

Billings further contended that the noise and "obnoxious odors" from the track are annoying.

Four games are scheduled today in the City loop. The Sav-Mors play two games at Neville high school diamond, meeting the strong National Guard club in the opener and tangling with the league-leading Publishers in the second contest. The Transients also will play a double header, meeting the Phi-Kappa ten in the first tilt at Plum street and following it was a battle with the Monroe Hardware company team.

Another Monday game is on the schedule, the National Guard club tying up with the heavy hitting Delta Sigmas at Neville high school Monday afternoon.

PENN CREW DEFEATS NAVY IN CLOSE RACE

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 25.—(AP)—In a gallant battle to a finish so close that the last pull of the Quaker oarsmen settled the issue, Pennsylvania's smooth-sweeping varsity crew earned a scant two-foot triumph over Navy on the Severn river today to win the Adams cup race as President Roosevelt looked on.

The Quaker and Sailor eights fought down the stretch on such near even terms that the Pennsylvanians, with a mighty sweep of their oars, drove across the end of the mile and three-quarters course with a mere fraction of a length edge.

Pennsylvania's time in winning this informal eastern spring championship was 8:58.6, while the Sailors were but a tenth of a second slower. Harvard, rowing strongly but clearly out of the race before the halfway mark, finished a length and a half back of Navy in 9:03.1.

This was the first defeat of the season for Navy and left Pennsylvania unbeaten at the top of the eastern shells, along with Syracuse, victor in single races with Cornell, Harvard and M. I. T. The Quakers' triumph was so slim, however, that the Sailors will rank along with Penn as a threat in the big Poughkeepsie race.

The president, in a speed boat with Referee Charles Francis Adams, former secretary of the navy and donor of the Adams cup won by Navy in 1933 and Penn last year, followed the shells closely.

LAKESIDE FINAL SCHEDULED TODAY

Touchstone And Harberson Meet Again For Handicap Prize

H. K. Touchstone and Dr. R. T. Harberson will resume their battle for the championship of the annual spring handicap tournament at Lakeside Country club today. An 18-hole match is scheduled.

Last Sunday the two finalists tangled in a 36-hole battle and when it was all over, they were all square. However, they hope to settle the issue this afternoon.

Last Sunday Touchstone took a comfortable lead as a result of a "hot" first 18 holes, but his game went to pieces on the second 18, while Harberson's play improved and they finished on even terms.

Touchstone won the first flight of the tourney and Harberson took the second.

Another interesting championship match is scheduled for this week between Mrs. W. H. Roemer and Mrs. H. H. Reardon, who meet for the women's title. Mrs. Roemer defeated Miss Violet Meyer, 8 and 7, in one semi-final match last week and Mrs. Reardon triumphed over Mrs. C. C. Boardman, 5 and 4, in the other.

Both Mrs. Roemer and Mrs. Reardon are playing excellent golf and a close match for the title is expected.

OAK GROVE CLUB REPLACES MONROE IN VALLEY LEAGUE

Lions Play First Game At Brown Paper Mill This Afternoon

Oak Grove, which for the past several years sponsored a team in the Big Six league, has replaced Monroe as a member of the Ouachita Valley league, President Dent announced yesterday.

The Lions will get their first taste of Ouachita Valley baseball this afternoon when they meet the league-leading Brown Paper mill club at Brownville. The game will start at 3:30 o'clock.

"Mule" Fryer, veteran Big Six player, is manager of the Oak Grove team, which is sponsored by the E. L. Bruce Lumber company. The Lions have been playing independent ball so far this season.

The Brown club was scheduled to play the Monroe club at Forsythe park today and thus the game would have been transferred to Oak Grove, but the Oak Grove management agreed to go to Brownville in return for a later Sunday date at Oak Grove.

Oak Grove will assume Monroe's standing in the league. They are tied for third place with Fairbanks, with three victories and four defeats.

The Monroe club had been having difficulties under the management of Nick Bruscato and a week and a half ago direction of the cuub was taken over by Charlie Bruscato. Last week, however, Nick Bruscato asked that the club be turned back to him and his brother relinquished all interest in it. The surrender of the Monroe franchise followed. President Dent said yesterday that several Monroe players probably would join the Oak Grove club.

Manager Cary Phillips of the Brown team said either Nolan or Fields would pitch for the Safety Firsts today. There is no admission charge at the Brown park and the public is invited to witness the game.

Other Ouachita Valley league games today will find Ruston at Fairbanks and Sterlington at Swartz. The Ruston club has shown an improved brand of ball lately and may hand Fairbanks a surprise. Manager Fox's team won their first victory at the expense of Fairbanks and chalked up their second win against Monroe last Wednesday.

Swartz also has a chance to improve its standing by knocking off the Sterlington Engineers. If both Fairbanks and Oak Grove lose and Swartz wins, the Carbon Blackers will take undisputed possession of third place. Manager Bagwell has two promising young hurlers in Pittard and New to send against the Engineers.

ROSE BOWL FILM WILL BE SHOWN

Tulane-Southern Cal. Pictures To Feature Alumni Meeting Here

A feature of the meeting of the Tulane Alumni association here next Sunday night will be the showing of a feature-length picture of the Tulane-Southern California Rose Bowl game, it was announced yesterday by Dr. D. T. Milam, president of the district association.

Charlie Rucker, general manager of the Tulane association, who will accompany Dr. Wilbur Smith, athletic director, and other Tulane officials here, advised Dr. Milam that he would bring the film with the party if arrangements could be made to show it. Dr. Milam said it is probably that the picture will be shown at a local theater following the regular Sunday night program. However, arrangements for the affair have not been completed.

The Tulane party will be entertained with a barbecue early Sunday evening, Dr. Milam said. A committee has been appointed to make plans for the party and also to contact Tulane alumni throughout the fifth district in an effort to assure a large attendance. All former Tulane men are urged to attend.

Dr. Smith will head a party of five or six Tulane officials, it was said. Ted Cox, head football coach, and several other athletic notables probably will be included in the party.

Arrangements for the barbecue and theater party will be announced within the next few days, Dr. Milam said.

PAPER MILL WILL IMPROVE GROUNDS

New Warehouse, Shed And Park Among Projects Now Under Way

A $12,000 warehouse, a new lumber shed, a garage for employes' automobiles, a beautified park and flower garden and an improved baseball park are among improvements now under way at the Brown Paper mill, it was announced Saturday by mill officials.

Work will be started within the next few days on the new warehouse. The building will be 36 by 108 feet and will be fireproof. Plans call for a concrete foundation, marble floors, steel framework and roofing and sides of corrugated transite material. It will be located behind the mill.

The new lumber shed is being constructed at the car shop for storing timber for that department. It is of frame construction, 69 by 18 feet, and will have a concrete foundation. A 24-foot space will be reserved for the installation of a new saw.

The large area along the highway in front of the mill is being made into a park which will be sodded and landscaped with shrubbery and flowers. Buildings formerly located on the grounds have been moved and a garage for employes' cars will be built near the mill.

When the route for the paved road by the mill is announced, an ornamental fence will be erected to fully enclose the mill property.

A seven-foot fence has been erected around the ball park and a roof built over the grandstand. Dugouts for the ball players have been installed and the park fence painted.

A man is kept at work on the grounds constantly, going over the sod with a roller and keeping the grass mowed.

Each will receive an associate in arts degree.

Many New Members Added To Chamber Of Commerce During Campaign

The final day of the first week's campaign for membership in the chamber of commerce ended Saturday with all of the workers enthusiastic over the showing thus far. Many new members have been added, and with the campaign to continue through this coming week, there is every indication that the final results will be highly encouraging, those engaged in the campaign asserted.

One encouraging feature has been disclosed through the canvass. This is that there are far more persons employed by stores and business houses at this time than was the case a year ago. This is true of both Monroe and West Monroe, President Jack Rogers said.

With improved business conditions existing, workers are pointing out the need for representation in the chamber of commerce in order to better foster their interests and to cooperate more thoroughly with all movements that are for community progress.

On Monday, workers will continue their efforts in the present campaign with renewed interest, anticipating a successful windup when the week comes to a close.

Winnsboro

With many officials of the organization in attendance at the home of the president, Mrs. Allen Price in Winnsboro, the P.-T. A. of that town held an informal meeting Thursday climaxed by a school of instruction. Guests of honor present were Mrs. Albert L. Smith, of Winnfield, most highly esteemed state president, Mrs. Carl Couch, of Monroe, district director, and Mrs. Parker McComb, also of Monroe, editor of the Louisiana P.-T. A. Bulletin.

The wonderful personality of the state president made instant friends and her presence proved an inspiration to all in attendance. An informal coffee hour was highly appreciated and served as a fitting prelude to the program that was later presented.

Following the welcome and introduction of officers and chairmen by Mrs. Allen Price, president of the Winnsboro P.-T. A., Mrs. Couch gave a most interesting talk on "The Relationship of the Local Unit to the District, State and National Organizations." Mrs. Smith, state president, talked on "The Duties of Local Officers and Chairmen," which was highly inspirational. Mrs. W. B. Glover, secretary of the Winnsboro P.-T. A., talked on "Requirements for Standard and Superior Association."

The luncheon hour at Hotel Franklin was a lovely affair, with color scheme of pink and green and with attractive place cards. Charming corsages of sweet peas were presented to Mesdames Smith, McComb, Couch, Price and Walker, the last named as past president of the Winnsboro unit, presiding at the luncheon. Several beautiful piano solos were rendered on the piano by Harry Richardson, Edna Coulter, Millicent Lampe, and there was also a reading by Elizabeth Ann Cash.

Greetings from the State Bulletin and from the state P.-T. A. were brought at the afternoon session by Mrs. Parker McComb and Mrs. Albert Smith respectively. A round-table discussion led by Mrs. B. S. Landis, Jr., concluded the session.

SAFETY FIRST IS URGED IN TALKS

Speakers Enjoin More Care In Preventing Accidents

The "safety first" movement was given added impetus at the regular meeting of the Illinois Central Booster club Thursday night. The session was held at the home of the Columbus Social club, and R. C. St. John, president, presided.

Mr. St. John emphasized safety first for children and urged parents in general to caution about crossing railroads and passing through railroad yards in careless manner.

E. L. Wright, Ouachit parish probation officer, in a short talk, further enjoined upon parents their duty to protect thei rchildren, and said that he would like to see "safety" incorporated into school curriculums as a part of the educational program.

Entertainment features included F. G. Butcher's band of small boys and girls, 27 in number. Eddie Van was present with his entertainers in a well appreciated series of numbers. Misses Clarice and Goldah Roan, with a dancing class, presented several numbers, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Earl Mattox. Still another entertainer was Mrs. C. J. Entrician with guitar selections, while Mrs. Ivy Thompson played and sang several numbers.

The event closed with a dance for which music was furnished by the Wilson band.

The play, "A Spanish Wedding," will be given at St. James church, negro, Sixteenth and Adams streets, Monday, May 27, at 8 p.m. It is sponsored by the XYZ club and the King's Daughters. There will be special seats reserved for white patrons.

WAR VETERANS' SERVICE HELPS

(Editor's note: The following article is one of a series released by H. B. McClendon, Ouachita parish service officer, for publication in the Sunday Morning World. The articles explain benefits available to United States veterans of wars in which this country has participated, and discuss compensations, pensions, hospitalization, funeral expenses and other benefits.)

Where the mother or father of a deceased World war veteran files claim for monthly pensions from the veterans administration, a certified copy of birth record of the veteran must be furnished. Where the record of birth cannot be secured, the mother or father should write the state board of health, new Courthouse building, Royal and Conti streets, New Orleans, for a form in order to record the birth of their child.

In the event the veteran was born in another state, and a certified copy of the public record cannot be secured, the veterans administration will then accept the baptismal record. However, if no record can be secured from the state board of health and no church record can be found, the affidavits of two responsible citizens, certifying to the fact that the claimants are the parents of the veteran giving the date and place of the veteran's birth) and the reasons why they know that the claimants are the parents of the deceased veteran, will be accepted by the veterans administration.

Before the affidavits are accepted, however, evidence must be furnished showing an effort was made to obtain records from the state board of health and from the church where the veteran was baptized. This evidence may be in the form of a letter from the state board of health advising that no record exists, and a letter from the minister or priest to the effect that there is no baptismal record. If the veteran was never baptized, the father or mother should make an affidavit to this effect.

Where the widow of a veteran files claim for benefits, she must furnish a certified copy of her marriage certificate, certified to by the clerk of court.

Further information may be secured by writing the local service officer.

Popular New Loaf Contains Raw Carrots, Figs, Honey And Bran

A new health bread, delightfully palatable and containing all health-giving minerals and vitamins of fruits and vegetables, has been placed on sale at grocery stores here and in northeast Louisiana, and has been made available at restaurants.

Although this latest creation of the science of nutrition has been on the market in this section for only a few days, it has already earned a widespread popularity, and indications are that it will become one of the most popular loaves in homes and restaurants of this area.

Made by the City Bakery, 320 North Fifth street, the oldest establishment of its kind in northeast Louisiana, an establishment which has been a pioneer in the field of greater baking service, the unique new bread is known as "Dr. Ownens' Original Laxative Health Bread." Dr. Ownens is an international food expert and dietitian.

Dr. Ownens reached out into a new field of baking science in his formula, through which loaves of the bread bearing his name are made containing raw carrots, figs, bran, honey and many other health giving minerals and vitamins.

Because of its laxative qualities, as well as its nutritive qualities, the new bread is heralded as the successor of whole wheat and cracked wheat bread.

In a campaign of education of the public to the palatability, nutritive and laxative qualities of this new bread, the City Bakery has adopted the slogan: "Two slices a day keeps constipation away."

Noted physicians, as well as consumers of the bread, has attested to the value of the bread as a health food.

BEARDED MATMAN MEETS LARUE IN MAIN EVENT

NO HOLDS BARRED AS ROUGHHOUSE WRESTLERS MEET

Promoter Bruscato Wants Leo Chained When He Leaves Ring

Leo, the bearded House of David matman who showed stadium fans last week a streak of wildness that had never been seen here before, will face the stiffest test of his short career next Wednesday night when he meets Frenchie LaRue in the main event of the weekly wrestling show at Roosevelt stadium.

LaRue is pretty mean himself but he hasn't faced anything like Leo in the local ring. So it may turn out to be a contest to see which can maim the other first.

Promoter Charlie Bruscato said last night that he's going to throw 'em in the ring and let them take care of themselves the best they can. In other words, no holds will be barred.

Leo, who looks and acts like a crazy man, gave several fans quite a scare last week and Promoter Bruscato has wired Art Mondt, Leo's manager, that his charge must be roped or chained when entering or leaving the ring.

"Leo apparently is all right until somebody makes him mad," Bruscato said last night. "However, I'm not taking any chances. For the safety of everyone concerned, Leo will be roped or chained."

Leo lost his match last week when he was disqualified in the second and third falls for continuous violation of the rules. He clubbed Swede Holmberg groggy in both falls and Referee Nick Elitch gave Holmberg the decision.

The House of David entry weighs 240 pounds and sports a bushy beard and long hair. He looks as mean as he acts.

LaRue, however, isn't impressed. When asked to meet Leo, he was warned that the Davidite would prove the wildest foe he'd ever met. Frenchie replied that he didn't care who he wrestled, just so the promoter had the necessary coin to lay on the line. Bruscato agreed to his price, and the match was booked.

"I have wrestled bigger and tougher men than this thing you call Leo," LaRue told Bruscato. "Although I have never seen him in action, I'll wrestle just any way he wants to make it."

Bruscato said he is attempting to book Joe Stecher, who beat Ernest Kelly last week, for the semi-final match. With the two toughies on the main event, the promoter believes the fans would welcome a little straight wrestling for variety's sake.

Both matches will be best two out of three falls, with a two-hour time limit on the main event and the semi-final limited to one hour.

JOHNSON LEADS AMERICAN LOOP

Philadelphia Outfielder Boosts Average To .421 During Week

CHICAGO, May 25.—(AP)—Bob Johnson, Connie Mack's Cherokee Indian home run hitter and fly ball hawk, is leading the American league batting race with hits to spare.

Johnson, a .307 batter for the Athletics last season, hoisted his current hitting mark 30 points during the past week's shelling to the somewhat dizzy heights of .421, unofficial averages through Friday's games revealed today. His lead was 36 points over Gerald Walker of Detroit last week's leader, whose average fell 48 points during the same period to .385. Most of the leaders suffered during the week.

Next to Johnson, who also tied with his teammate, Jimmie Foxx, in home run production at nine each, and Walker came these leaders: Foxx, .376; Gehringer, Detroit, .354; Roy Johnson, Boston, .345; Vosmik, Cleveland, .342; West, St. Louis, .330; Radcliff, Chicago, .325; Bell, St. Louis, .322, and Hayes, Chicago, .321.

Hank Greenberg of Detroit drove in nine more runs during the week to run his leading total in that department to 35, while Gehringer cracked out nine more hits to top the league with 46. Five were tied for the lead in doubles production at nine each. Manager Joe Cronin of Boston led with five triples and Almada of Boston had 10 stolen bases to his credit. Zeke Bonura of White Sox topped the circuit in runs scored with 28.

Although near the American league bottoms, the Athletics led the circuit in team hitting with a mark of .287, Detroit led in fielding at a .984 clip.

Four pitchers remained in the undefeated class during the week, Johnny Whitehead of the White Sox topped them by winning another for his sixth straight. Johnny Allen of the Yankees had a record of four straight while Vito Tamulis, Yankee freshman southpaw, and Jack Knott of the Browns each had three wins and no defeats. Tommy Bridges led in strikeouts with 38, a gain of five during the week.

Warfare Against Deans Becomes Serious Affair

National League Players Now Include Daffy In Arguments

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, May 25.—Circling the bases: The warfare against the celebrated Dean brothers around the National league is no press-agent affair. Rival jockeys have been "riding" the Cardinal pitching aces ever since the spring training season, although it is only recently that Paul or Daffy Dean has joined Dizzy as the target for the sharpshooters of opposing clubs. Al Todd, the big Philadelphia catcher, was all set to add the younger Dean to his knockout list after being "dusted off" in St. Louis. . . . Al connected with a haymaker and floored Dizzy Dean when they were playing in the Texas league. . . . Pepper Martin kept Todd from doing the same thing to Daffy. . . .

The fining of Catcher Bill Delancey of the world champions this week recalls his run-in with Umpire Brick Owens during the fifth game of the world series at St. Louis last fall. . . . Delancey was fined $50 by Commissioner Landis for using abusive language in disputing Brick's decision behind the plate. . . . Before taking disciplinary action Landis called in the principals. . . . First he listened with shocked ears to Owens' report. . . . Then he called in the Cardinal backstop and asked him if it was true. . . . "Sure, Judge," replied Delancey, "I said it, but I didn't mean anything personal" . . .

Matty Geis, Princeton's track coach, thinks either Jack Lovelock of New Zealand or Glenn Cunningham of Kansas, the past and present world record holders, may have to reel off the mile in 4.05 to be sure of beating Tiger Bill Bonthron in the forthcoming "race of the century." . . . Bonthron has returned to his alma mater to train for the event, scheduled June 15 as the feature of Princeton's second annual invitation meet. . . . Geis predicts Bill will again show the form that gave him three decisions in five races with Cunningham last year. . . .

Southern delegates are bringing heavy pressure on the U. S. L. T. A. to name Bryan (Bitsy) Grant on this year's European Davis cup jaunt. . . . The tennis moguls may not be fond of Grant socially but he's demonstrated he is a fighter, when the competition is keen, and he can hardly be as disappointing as some of our highly-touted stars have been abroad during the past half-dozen years. . . . He's entitled to a chance, whether or not he gets one of the favored assignments. Besides, the Wimbledon galleries would welcome Bitsy's antics. . . .

The New York Giants have yet to win the opening game of any series played so far this season on enemy ground. . . . They have been whipped on their first appearances so far in Boston, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Chicago. . . . One of the Dean boys may make it unanimous tomorrow. . . . Chuck Klein, reputed to be for sale by the Cubs, cost $125,000 in cash money when he was separated from the Phillies two years ago.

MICHIGAN WINS BIG TEN CROWN

However, Jesse Owens Steals Show By Breaking 3 World Marks

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 25.—(AP)—Jesse Owens, spectacular Ohio State negro, gave one of the most amazing demonstrations of versatility in track and field history today as he shattered three world's records and equalled a fourth to dominate the 35th annual western conference meet.

Michigan won its fourteenth team championship, but instead of a runaway as had been expected, had to battle Owens and Ohio State down to the last event for the decision. The Wolverines amassed 48 points to 43 1-2 for the Buckeyes.

Owens climaxed his great afternoon's performance with a leap of 26 feet 8 1-4 inches in the broad jump, a new world mark.

Even without the astonishing leap which set him off in a class by himself as the all-time greatest broad Score:

jumper, the incomparable 21-year-old sophomore still would have turned in an almost matchless day.

Before surpassing the accepted world record of 26 feet, 2 1-8 inches for the jump, set by Chuhei Nambu of Japan in 1931, Owens tied Frank Wykoff's world 100-yard dash standard of 9.4 seconds.

After his jump he raced to spectacular world record-smashing triumphs in the 220-yard dash and the 220-yard low hurdles. Running by himself after the first few strides, he finished the furlong in 20.3 seconds. The performance was three-tenths of a second under Roland Locke's world record, shaded Locke's American mark of 20.5, and beat Ralph Metcalfe's collegiate mark of 20.4 seconds.

Apparently just as fresh as when he started, Owens completed his conquest of records by winning the low hurdles in 22.6 seconds, four-tenths of a second under the listed world standard held jointly by Charles Brookins of Iowa and Norman Paul, Southern California ace.

Owens' records will be offered for adoption as world marks. He did not use starting blocks, and the wind, brisk at first, died down.

Tulane-Georgia Game Is Switched To New Orleans

triumphed 3 to 2 to take the series 2-1.

It was the third series of the western tour which they had won after spotting the home team the first victory.

Joe Moore's ninth inning homer provided the actual margin of victory which nullified a Chicago run in the last half of the inning on Augie Galan's double and two outs after the Giants had held a 2-1 lead through the early part of the argument.

While Phil Cavaretta, young Chicago first sacker, nullified two early Giant threats with great stops, the Cubs got the first run in the third inning. Kiki Cuyler led off with a double and scored on outs by Billy Jurges and Warneke. The Giants came right back with two in the fourth and never were headed.

MILEY, ROGERS MEET FOR TITLE

Betty Jameson And Dorothy Kirky Lose Tourney Semi-Finals

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 25.—Miss Marion Miley of Lexington and Miss Mary Rogers of Jacksonville, Kentucky and Florida state champions, today went into the finals of the Women's Southern Golf tournament.

Betty Jameson, 16-year-old defending champion from Dallas, Texas, lost her lucky rabbit's foot and was defeated 6 and 5 by Miss Miley.

Dorothy Kirby, Atlanta's 15-year-old former state champion, lost 3 and 2 to Miss Rogers over the 18-hole route of the Louisville Country club course.

Misses Miley and Rogers will meet for the championship at 36 holes tomorrow. Eighteen holes will be played beginning at 9:30 a.m., central standard time, and the other eighteen will start at 1:30 p.m.

Miss Jameson, who defeated Miss Miley, one up, in a 19-hole semi-final match of the Southern at New Orleans last spring, lost the rabbit's foot luck emblem she carried then just before the start of today's match.

"I must have lost it on the practice green this morning," she said.

Her game was ragged and she frequently missed putts that would have kept her in the running.

TIGERS WIN ODD GAME OF SERIES WITH BOSTON, 3-2

Browns in both ends of a doubleheader that brought fourth as great a variety of baseball happenings as any of the 29,098 cash customers could ask. The scores were 3 to 1 and 8 to 7.

The opener was a mound duel between Charley Ruffing and Merritt (Sugar) Cain, who made his first start for the Browns. Cain gave only six hits but lost when three of them were bunched with an error for two runs in the seventh.

Errors also cost the Browns the second game, fought out with home runs. After Johnny Broaca weakened in the ninth and Ed Coleman belted his second homer of the game with the bases full in the ninth to give St. Louis a 7-6 lead, the Yanks scored two in the ninth with the aid of misplays to win.

TRIBE, A'S DIVIDE

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—(AP)—The Athletics, with Jimmy Foxx returned to his old post at first base, broke their losing streak by dividing a double-header with the Cleveland Indians today. The A's won the second game, 6 to 1, after the Tribe trounced them 9 to 6 in 10 innings.

Cleveland came from behind to win out in the opening tussle. In the tenth the Redskins leaped on Relief Pitcher Joe Cascarella for five hits and batted around to come through with the winning runs.

Bill Dietrich broke the Mack losing dash of four straight by letting the visitors down with seven hits in the night-cap, besting Willis Hudlin.

means committee Monday. He added the hope for resolution would be approved Monday.

If so, Speaker Byrns and Chairman O'Connor of the house rules committee, another Democratic leader, said debate Tuesday would be limited to a "maximum of four hours." Byrns asked Representative Boland of Pennsylvania, house Democratic whip, to keep members on the floor so the measure could be passed and sent to the senate around 8 or 9 o'clock Tuesday night.

Some changes in the originally planned extension resolution were agreed to by the conferees, Robinson advised house committeemen to "watch their step," warning trouble would follow any attempt to do more than extend the NRA for 8 1-2 months, limit it strictly to interstate commerce, and forbid price fixing.

Chairman Harrison of the senate finance committee sent over word that the house members should keep to a minimum their amendments to the senate's 9 1-2 months resolution. He added that "whatever the house does the senate will pass on, and the bill will not go to conference."

Nevertheless, house Democratic chiefs forecast privately their bill would include:

1. A two year NRA extension;
2. Provisions allowing code application to businesses "substantially affecting" interstate commerce.
3. A section allowing price-fixing for the prevention of monopolies.

'QUEEN MARY'S' BOW TO TRADITION

The "Queen Mary," Britain's challenge for supremacy of merchant shipping, follows the tradition of English ships by having a sharp knife-like bow instead of a bulbous streamlined one like her speedy rivals, the Rex, Europa and Normandie. closely for the first returns from the far west, where Washington and Oregon rank high in production, to determine if the early midwestern trend would hold good there.

In the midwest it was noted early that some of the largest producing states were running in a trend of more than ten to one, with the average pulled down by some of the smaller producers.

For instance, in Kansas, where roughly one-fifth of the nation's wheat is produced, an early tabulation showed 24,296 farmers voting "yes," as compared with 2,872 "noes." At the same time Oklahoma was running 10,810 for and 1,671 against, and Nebraska 5,911 for and 1,747 against. Other states, however, showed a much lower percentage.

SON OF WEALTHY MAN IS KIDNAPED

interests was said to total $5,000,000, was described as willing to meet the ransom demand, reputedly $200,000.

From the palatial lumber baron's home a white bedsheet flapped significantly as if serving as a signal. Its appearance was not explained.

More and more of the details of the kidnaping note leaked through the heavy ranks of authority. It was learned the note instructed the family to address their answer to "Percy. Minnie" through the advertising columns of a newspaper.

Previously the family apparently had started to comply but was reported to have refrained on the advice of federal agents.

Among other things it was learned that the writer signed himself "The Egoist," that the envelope bore a scrawled, youthful signature, presumably that of little George.

It contained a threat of death to the little victim if the authorities interfered.

Police began a hunt for an automobile reportedly seen containing two men and a boy near the scene of George's disappearance yesterday. The car was described as having California license plates.

Some of the revealing things about the kidnap note were:

It was written on a common type of note paper such as a woman would choose.

The note and its threat of death did not reach the family until three hours after police and federal agents had started work on the case.

It had been mailed in the Tacoma postoffice about 6 p. m., yesterday, some six hours after George vanished. Being a special delivery letter, it was delivered 34 minutes after mailing time.

The six-hour lapse between the disappearance and the mailing of the letter offered a possible clue to the distance of the abductor's hideout from the scene of the crime.

Everybody officially connected with the immediate phases of the case maintained a rigid silence. Except for the fluttering bedsheet that could be seen for a long distance over Puget Sound there were no signs of anything unusual at the Weyerhaeuser home.

Although the window blinds were drawn, George's little sister, Elizabeth, 2, was allowed the freedom of the lawn and her 13-year-old sister, Ann, appeared once in a riding habit. Her face showed anxiety and she soon withdrew to avoid the gaze of curious persons in the street.

The home appeared not to be guarded.

Justice department agents in Washington remained as uncommunicative as those on the job. There were 15 "G" men in the case within a few hours and more were reported on the way.

Some of the bradavo of the ransom note writer appeared in one phrase of the letter which said:

"A slip will mean a slip. We don't want to hurt anyone."

The boy disappeared some time after 11:50 a. m. yesterday when he left Lowell grade school to walk to the Annie Wright seminary, where he was to have met his sister, Ann. The two were to have been driven to the Weyerhaeuser home by the family chauffeur.

He left the school with a chum, Bruce Bowman, and was last seen by young Bowman, son of Claire Bowman, former director of the state department of labor and industry.

The parents became alarmed when he failed to come home and told his teacher at the Lowell school.

At 2 p.m. police aid was enlisted and a search began of the gullies near the Weyerhaeuser home.

The lad wore brown cords, tennis shoes and a white sweat shirt with green stripes. He has dark brown curly hair, brown eyes and is of slender build.

The elder Weyerhaeuser returned only yesterday morning from Rock Island, Ill., where he had gone with the body of his father, the late J. P. Weyerhaeuser, Sr., who died here May 16.

The mother of the boy was reported prostrated by grief and worry.

SQUADRON OF TEN FIGHTING PLANES BACK IN HONOLULU

HONOLULU, May 25.—(AP)—Completing the notable mass naval aircraft operations in mid-Pacific, a squadron of ten fighting planes arrived here at 3:20 p. m., (8:50 p. m., eastern standard time) from French Frigate Shoals, 500 miles out. The flight required seven hours.

An uneventful trip was reported by the fliers, who were commanded by Lieutenant Commander R. D. Lyon. The unit returned to the Pearl Harbor base after participating in the great operations that began May 9 with a mass flight from here to Midway Island, 1,223 miles out in the Pacific.

Thirty other planes, including the famous distance Squadron VP-10, returned to Pearl Harbor yesterday and last night, in the van of the entire fleet which moved toward Honolulu to test the feasibility of attempting en masse anchorage in Pearl Harbor.

$98,306 IN 'BACK TAXES' SOUGHT ON TIMBER HOLDINGS

URANIA, La., May 25.—(AP)—A demand has been made upon the Urania Lumber company of which former State Senator Henry E. Hardtner is president, for back taxes on its timber lands in the sum of $98,306.83, according to Q. T. Hardtner, member of the firm and brother of the president of the lumber company.

This demand is in pursuance of a plan which it is said has been inaugurated by Senator Huey P. Long, who has entered into an agreement with the Louisiana Tax commission to collect back taxes which they claim is due by Louisiana companies upon which demands have been made for the collection of taxes. By the terms of the agreement Senator Long is to receive 33 1-3 per cent of the amount so collected as attorney for the plaintiff in these cases.

Q. T. Hardtner announced this afternoon that his company would resist the payment of these taxes.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 25.—(AP)—The cotton market took its lead again today from Washington and advanced 3 to 13 points net on advices that the Bankhead act would be extended through 1936.

While there had been little doubt in the trade that this step would follow, the official confirmation afforded prices a little stimulus when they advanced on light buying orders.

The 12-cent loan problem was left still hanging in the balance. While one report stated that senators had agreed to the extension of the act only on condition that the 12-cent loan be continued, President Roosevelt denied this at a press conference after his meeting with agricultural chiefs.

At the first call today active figures were 3 to 15 points higher, but part of the gains were wiped out when July closed at 11.94, Oct. at 11.76, Dec. at 11.82, and March at 11.91.

The first day's trading in May, 1936, found that position changing hands at 11.91. Trading was comparatively active.

Cotton futures closed steady at net advances of 3 to 13 points.

Reports that an agreement between southern congressional leaders and the administration to press for an extension of the Bankhead act for another year attracted some local support. July was under pressure and closed only 2 points net higher, while later positions were 14 to 15 points net higher.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—Europe's gold standard troubles put a damper on stock market bullishness today and prices staged an orderly retreat. A few issues bucked the trend, but the list closed easy. Transfers approximated 550,000 shares.

Action of the Bank of France in boosting its discount rate from 3 to 4 per cent—it was raised Thursday from 2 1-2 to 3—tended to confuse traders, many of whom decided to adjourn to the sidelines pending further indications as to whether the gold bloc is nearing a collapse.

The franc responded to the efforts of the French authorities to stem the ebbing gold bullion tide by a sharp rally. It later yielded most of its advance, however. At the same time sterling suffered a technical reaction, although it later received support. The other gold currencies were heavy.

Cotton recovered briskly on expectations of a renewal of government loans to growers. Grains were in a declining mood as more favorable weather reports appeared. Bonds were irregular. Imported bar silver in New York was reduced 5-8 of a cent an ounce to 75 1-2 cents.

Among specialty shares that managed to buck the trend with moderate gains were Wilson and company, Eastman Kodak, Congoleum and Glidden. A fairly steady tone was exhibited by General Motors, Consolidated Gas, Southern Pacific, Sears Roebuck and American Tobacco "B." Issues about unchanged to off a point or so included American Telephone, Case, Deere, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Seaboard Oil, U. S. Steel, American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Westinghouse, Chrysler and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

In some quarters it was felt that if continental nations shelve the gold base American markets might be temporarily shaken. On the other hand, money market commentators believe this development will be inherently bullish as it will force leading nations to get together quickly on an international currency stabilization agreement. In addition, the more optimistic envisaged a flight of European funds to American securities as a result of the tottering gold bloc.

INDUSTRIAL--REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

NEW TIRE STORE IS OPENED HERE

J. G. Eberts Heads Twin City Tire Store At Hall And Harrison

The Knowles-Elliott Tire company has announced the opening of the Twin City Tire Store. This new venture gives Monroe and North Louisiana the largest, most complete and most modern tire rebuilding plant in this section.

The plant, which is located at Hall and Harrison streets in Monroe, will be under the personal supervision and direction of J. G. Eberts, who is widely known throughout the entire south as an authority on matters pertaining to tires. For the last 15 years he has served as field representative for the United States Rubber company, the world's largest producer of rubber. His association and experience with this large manufacturer qualifies him as an expert in solving tire troubles.

Mr. Eberts says that opportunities for development and growth which are so apparent in Monroe and North Louisiana, prompted him to come to the Twin Cities to go into business for himself. He is associated with Knowles-Elliott Tire company of West Monroe, who operate the only other complete and modern tire rebuilding plant in Monroe.

Knowles-Elliott Tire company, who introduced retreading to the car and truck owners of Monroe and vicinity, state that they are gratified by the whole-hearted support that they have received from their customers.

"It is a source of a great deal of satisfaction," says Mr. Elliott, "that the confidence placed in us by our customers has been amply justified by the performance of the tires which we have retreaded. When one considers that retreading was absolutely unknown in this section until introduced by Knowles-Elliott Tire company, it is astonishing that so many people have been willing to accept our word for it, that retreading is safe, economical, and entirely satisfactory."

Knowles-Elliott Tire company are serving nearly every user of fleets of trucks and cars in Monroe, as well as other towns in north Louisiana. "We sincerely thank our customers, and assure them that their interests will always be given careful attention by both Knowles-Elliott Tire company and the Twin City Tire Store," Mr. Elliott said.

LOCAL TIRE STORE EXECUTIVES

SORORITY INITIATES 12 CANDIDATES HERE

Twelve candidates for membership in the Delta Beta Sigma here, a sorority composed of girls of high school ages, were initiated yesterday morning on downtown streets. The candidates danced and skipped along the sidewalk, made speeches on "soap boxes," washed clothes, cut out paper dolls, attempted to sell rocks as rock candy, worked as hair dressers among themselves on the streets, and went about wishing the public a "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year."

FIRE INSURANCE BOARD HELPFUL

Industry Renders Useful Service To All Property Owners

About all the average person knows of the fire insurance industry is that it issues policies protecting homes, factories, farms and other physical property against the ravages of fire. But what is not commonly known is that the industry, through the National Board of Fire Underwriters, carries on other activities which are of inestimable benefit to the industries and individuals of the nation, according to Downes Brokerage, Inc., local insurance agents.

The national board periodically inspects all cities and towns above a certain size, and prepares exhaustive reports upon their water supplies fire departments, and fire alarm systems, pointing out defects and aiding in their correction. It likewise furnishes able and impartial engineering service to municipalities. Work such as this saves thousands of lives and millions of dollars worth of property that would otherwise be sacrificed to fire.

One of the most important of the board's activities, and one which directly effects practically every person, is the underwriter's laboratories. This organization conducts tests of building materials and supplies to determine how well they resist fire and prevent its spread. Machinery that presents a fire hazard is studied and classified. Fire extinguishing equipment is subjected to exhaustive performance tests. Such common household articles as electric irons, toasters, heaters and other electrical and gas devices are also studied in the laboratories, and, if found safe, are given a seal of approval which wise buyers always look for in purchasing equipment of that nature.

Services such as these, developed and continued by stock fire insurance, mean not only dollars in our pockets, but safer and more comfortable living for us all.

TESTS TO PROVE CHEVROLET COOL

New Turret Top Provides Both Comfort And Safety For Owners

Chevrolets that are cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter, as compared with previous models, are promised by the findings of official observers of the A. A. A. in which Master de luxe cars with solid steel turret tops were subjected to temperature tests in comparison with fabric roofed bodies. The tests were conducted under the tropical sun at Key West, Fla., the southernmost city of the United States. Serving with the members of the contest board of the American Automobile association as an assistant was Kaye Don, British sportsman who has set numerous speed records on land and water.

The test consisted of making simultaneous temperature records of interiors of turret-top cars under a blazing sun. All windows and ventilators were closed tight during the tests.

According to the findings of the testers, a Chevrolet announcement says, the steel top cars are slower to warm up when standing in the sun with all windows and ventilators closed, and are quicker to cool off after the ventilators are opened.

Slower heating is credited to three factors: First, the highly polished surface of the steel top deflects the heat rays; second, heat absorbed by the top is rapidly distributed over a great area by conduction, and dissipated by the cooling effect of areas not receiving the full heat of the sun; third, the special corrugated and checkered quarter-inch felt insulation, and the dead air space between this insulation and the headlining, effectively prevent the transmission of heat from the roof to the interior space.

The effect of the insulation in barring outside heat will apply similarly in cold weather to prevent the loss of heat from inside the car, so that the car that is cooler in the summer will be warmer in the winter.

PRIZES AWARDED TO ALL WINNERS OF BIG CONTEST

KENOSHA, Wis., May 18.—(Special)—Winners of the Nash-LaFayette retail salesmen's Demonstration Campaign contest recently conducted though the entire Nash distributing organization divided a total of more than 300 cash prizes.

Prizes were awarded by the factory for the largest number of demonstrations given during an established 21-day period. Cash bonuses, in many instances as high as $100, were given to salesmen making the greatest number of demonstrations in each of five sales divisions. Every salesman who scored 60 demonstrations during the 21-day period received a prize of at least $10.

Synchronized springing, an exclusive feature on Nash and LaFayette cars, was featured in every demonstration ride given during the contest.

PONTIAC SAFETY DRIVE SUCCESS

Questioned about the value of the Pontiac safety drive which he has carried on during the months of April and May, Mr. Harbour, service manager of Union Motors, Inc., yesterday pronounced it an unqualified success.

"We were unquestionably able to help many automobile owners," he said in a brief interview. "Not only did we succeed in making owners conscious of the fact that a safe car was essential to safe driving, but we also were able to point out how easy it is to drive safely.

"I liked the idea of the Pontiac safety drive, but I have impressed on our men that safety is not a subject that can be emphasized for two months of the year and then forgotten for the rest of the time.

"Safety is not a matter of a campaign or drive, but a matter of forming correct driving habits and maintaining cars in proper operating order at all times."

STORES WILL CLOSE EARLY ON JUNE 10

The 5 p.m. closing hour for members of the retail merchants' division of the chamber of commerce will not go into effect until June 10, it was announced Saturday by E. Jack Selig, chairman.

The date was originally set for June 3, but at the time it was not known that the graduation exercises of the Neville High school would not be held until June 7.

PRESENTED WITH BAG

FARMERVILLE, La., May 25.—(Special)—C. C. Murphy, principal of Farmerville high school, was presented with a gladstone bag by members of the faculty of the institution at the commencement exercises for the school Thursday night. It was given to him as a token of appreciation for his work in behalf of the school.

HASTE CAUSE OF MANY ACCIDENTS

Fluker Agency Urges Care In Attempting To Save Few Seconds

"Haste," according to the Fluker Insurance agency, "causes nine out of ten automobile accident deaths."

There are various forms of hasty driving—all of them reprehensible, all generally unnecessary. Exceeding the speed limit is the most common form—and is the most important single cause of fatal accidents. Reckless driving—such as cutting in and out of traffic, passing on hills and curves, etc.—is another form. So is driving on the wrong side of the road. So is usurping the right-of-way—which is an especially prolific source of accidents, serious and minor, in towns and cities.

Last year haste in its many forms was the direct cause of about 30,000 deaths, to say nothing of hundreds of thousands of injuries, and property damage running into the millions. At best, those hasty drivers might have saved a few seconds or a few minutes by being reckless—they might have reached some distant objective half an hour sooner than if they had driven carefully. What a price they and their innocent victims paid for that potential saving in time.

For every driver who is hasty because of a genuine need to get somewhere in a hurry, a hundred drivers are hasty for no sound reason at all—because they are congenitally careless, irresponsible or incompetent. How long are we going to permit these drivers to sacrifice thousands of lives a year on the altar of recklessness?

Thirty-six mothers of Kneiting, Central Babaria, who have produced a total of 301 children, one having 16 offspring, have just been given the new Nazi "honor card" for women who present the state with five or more children.

DATA ON RELIEF PROJECTS ASKED

will be glad news to all communities in Louisiana which are contemplating availing themselves of the administration's efforts to promote public works programs of construction in order to take men off the relief rolls and place them on payrolls.

"Loan and grant applications acceptable for examination; basis of 55 per cent loan and 45 per cent grant, both based on cost of project to government. Three per cent interest rate. Wages same as now effective PWA projects. Await detailed instructions and application blanks, which will be forwarded earliest possible moment.

"It is urged that all communities which are contemplating applying for funds for public works projects begin the preparation of necessary data as outlined by the assistant administrator, so that as soon as the blanks are in hand the application can be prepared and rushed to the office of the state director. It is to be noted that the new setup is much more liberal than heretofore, both as to the amount of grant and interest rate.

(Signed) "ORLOFF HENRY,
"Acting State Director PWA."

STATE SENATOR IS HURT IN ACCIDENT; PUT UNDER ARREST

HOMER, La., May 25.—(AP)—State Senator M. S. Hollingshead of Ruple, La., representing the 27th district, is suffering from fracture of two ribs due to an accident today when his automobile struck a warehouse building.

Night Marshal J. G. Oakes arrested Hollingshead, placed him in the Homer jail, where he remained about four hours, until he furnished bond of $50.

Hollingshead was scheduled for trial today for alleged drunken driving, Marshal Oakes reported but, due to a doctor's certificate that the defendant was unable to attend court, the trial was postponed until next Tuesday.

HAUPTMANN'S CASE IN BULK

These four packing cases give an idea of the task confronting the New Jersey high court which is scheduled on June 20 to hear Bruno Hauptmann's appeal from conviction and death sentence for the Lindbergh kidnaping. C. Lloyd Fisher (left) and Frederick A. Pope are shown with the 210 volumes of defense evidence they brought to the state house at Trenton. And that doesn't include the state's counter-evidence.

innumerable others. All were heavily armed.

The American Legion band was on hand under John J. Maxwell, erstwhile bitter opponent of Long. Members of the legion were scattered in the crowd. Several members of the Veterans of Foreign wars wore overseas caps and Spanish-American war campaign hats. Ellie Schill, head of the Veterans of Foreign wars, was at Long's side.

Some veterans carried printed placards condemning the veto of the bonus and expressing admiration for Long.

"The V. F. W. backs a fighter," read one of the placards.

Senator Long did not serve in the World war but was exempted because he claimed he was a notary public. He is not a veteran of any war in which his country fought, although he was eligible for the World war.

Cloth signs announced that the parade was a protest against the veto of the bonus.

Forming at the railroad station, the group marched with Senator Long to the Roosevelt hotel, where they were greeted by Seymour Weiss, Long henchman, under indictment for violation of his income tax returns. Monte Hart, who is interested with Weiss in the operation of the Roosevelt hotel, was at the train to greet the returning dictator.

Immediately after his arriving at the Roosevelt, Long conferred with some of his political supporters. Lieutenant-Governor James A. Noe, under investigation by U. S. government for his income tax returns, was also there. He then left for Baton Rouge, where he is to conduct the hearing of the public service commission.

Long's entry into New Orleans was a typical Long reception and disinterested parties who witnessed the exploitation of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign wars, the Disabled American veterans, and other patriotic organizations, stood aghast and wondered "what would the dictator try next for self aggrandizement."

Nero never had a thing on Long when it came to staging a tumultous reception in his own honor.

PEASANT EMBRACES HER KING

Though a clique of army officers had plotted to take over the government, King Boris of Bulgaria, who assumed dictatorship to thwart them, received this touching demonstration that the rebels did not represent all the people. Mingling with a throng of his subjects in Sofia, Boris was enthusiastically hugged by a white-haired peasant woman.

at Ualual "the signal bell • • • which imposes on fascist Italy the fulfillment of an inescapable duty."

The premier, mapping the course of European events during recent months, said only one problem—Austria—stands between Italy and Germany.

Germany's unilateral repudiation of the armaments clauses of the Versailles treaty, even though it "suddenly cut in two" the "normal development of the European situation," he dismissed with this phrase:

"To make recriminations is useless, even as it is useless to speak again of disarmament."

"It is extremely difficult," he continued, "for us to believe in the possibility of the limitation of armaments or in the prohibition of some methods of warfare.

"Nevertheless, if something concrete could be done it is not from our side that difficulties would be interposed."

While he declared the Italo-Franco-British solidarity achieved at the Stresa conference in May "effective, constant and omnipresent" Il Duce directed severel keen shafts at European critics of his East African policy, among them France and England.

(French and British pressure at Geneva Friday was credited with inducing Mussolini to accept arbitration of the dispute).

The sheriff's office will be open up to and including Thursday, from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. On Friday, the last day of the month and the closing date of the poll registration for 1934, the office will remain open until midnight.

While calling at the sheriff's office to sign their names in the poll books for 1934, voters may also sign their names in the poll books for 1935. The latter books will not be closed until December 31 of this year.

Surviving relatives are the following: The widow; three sons, Jimmie Patterson, of Beaumont, Texas; Z. C. Patterson, of West Monroe, and George Patterson, of the United States navy, stationed at San Diego, Calif.; one daughter, Mrs. Jewel Powell, of Monroe; two stepbrothers, Fred and Frank Bentley, of Shreveport.

Mr. Patterson resided at 403 Linderman avenue, West Monroe.

Funeral services will be held at 7:15 o'clock this morning at the Mulhearn Funeral home. Rev. L. T. Hastings, pastor of the Monroe First Baptist church, will officiate. The funeral cortege will travel by highway to DeQuincy, La., where interment will be made.

TELEPHONE RATE HEARING IS CONTINUED AT CAPITAL

BATON ROUGE, La., May 25.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long returned to Louisiana today and resmued his fight for lower public utility rates at hearings in his militia-ruled "Little District of Columbia."

The Senator spent most of the morning in district court before Judge W. Carruth Jones arguing against the appeal of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company from lower service rates put into effect by the Louisiana public service commission. The case was continued to Aug. 8.

The next case on docket was a resumption of the public service commisison hearing on rate reductions for electricity in New Orleans, the city whose administration Long is striving to seize from his political enemy Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley.

and felt it necessary again to interfere.

A stiff political battle in the chamber apparently faces the premier in his demand for powers paralelling those granted Premier Raymond Poincare in 1926, when he stabilized the sinking franc.

Some deputies predict the government's overthrow within two weeks if Flandin persists in his deflationary policy.

Friends of the towering premier urge patriotic union in the face of the crisis.

The bank's action Thursday in boosting the discount rate one-half per cent served fleetingly to strengthen the franc against other currencies out the dollar and the pound quickly resumed their upward march.

In view of Flandin's fractured arm, suffered in an automobile accident, Minister of Finance Louis Germain-Martin is expected to go before the chamber's finance committee Wednesday, soon after parliament reconvenes, to explain the financial and economic situation and the government's program.

SPEED REQUIRED TO END SESSION

to consider next week an NRA bill which, from all indications, will clash with the 9 1-2-month extension passed by the senate.

A compromise probably will result. But senate Democratic chiefs today informed the house group considering the legislation that changes in the senate resolution must be kept to a minimum if legislation is to be enacted before NRA expires June 16.

While the house tackles this controversy, the senate on Monday will start its long-awaited battle over the bill to broaden the agricultural adjustment act.

Some of the opposition had been removed by substitution of a house bill with milder licensing provision. Consequently, senate leaders believe these amendments which caused such a rumpus last session will be approved in a couple of days.

The holding company bill is next on the list, to be followed by the old-age pension, unemployment-insurance measure. Both will entail long debate.

The senate then will be faced with the bank bill so bitterly opposed by a long list of banker and business men witnesses. The banking subcommittee headed by Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, is scheduled to close its extended hearings on the measure next week.

Bastrop

Gorgeous nasturtiums and larkspur in pastel shades were artistically arranged throughout the lounge of the Morehouse Country club Thursday, when Mesdames R. E. Holladay, Barham Conger, J. B. Tisdale and F. L. Billington, were hostesses at the regular meeting of the Ladies auxiliary of the club.

After the serving of luncheon, games of bridge and golf were enjoyed by the members and their guests. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Fred Coats, Mrs. George T. Madison, Mrs. Charles Snyder and Mrs. D. M. Quinn for high score, low score, little slam and consolation in the bridge games, with Mrs. C. N. Dalton winning the prize on the links.

The members present were Mesdames Ferd Wolff, George T. Madison, R. H. Williams, G. H. Beckman, J. B. Bennett, Fred Coats, Barham Conger, C. N. Dalton, W. P. Douglass, F. V. Garnier, E. L. Gladney, W. B. Gladney, C. J. Goodwin, George H. Goodwin, R. E. Holladay, Leland Howard, George Khourt, E. V. Loftin, James Madison, Arthur Ross, H. I. Seligman, Charles Snyder, Leo Terzia, J. B. Tisdale, A. C. Volk, H. Webb Madison, F. K. Pettiss, D. M. Quinn, F. L. Billington and J. C. Young and Misses Tina Collins and Hazel Little. The guest list included Mesdames John Coats, C. A. Colburn, Jake Kern and T. A. Murchie.

Miss Tina Collins acted as hostess in the home of Mrs. Chas. Kroemer to the Ladies' Altar society of the Catholic church when they met on Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was opened with a prayer by Father Martin Walsh. Reports were heard from the various committees. The members presented Mrs. C. L. Mengis, who is moving to Monroe, with a beautiful piece of tapestry as a remembrance. A delicious confectionery course was served to Mesdames C. C. Davenport, F. K. Perry, C. L. Mengis, J. L. Alverson, Y. Scheidt, Chas. Kroemer, Miss Tina Collins, Annie Domino and Rev. Father Martin Walsh.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Murchie in Jefferson street was the scene of two delightful affairs last week, when they entertained in honor of their niece, Miss Mildred Batchelder of Los Angeles.

Monday evening's compliment was a bridge party with Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Billington, Mr. and Mrs. Bowman Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Pettiss, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Kern, Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Seligman, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Spier, Mr. and Mrs. John Coats, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Loftin, Miss Margaret Colburn, Mr. W. B. Mrs. Seligman was presented with a colorful match clusters for low score and Mr. F. K. Pettiss, who also held low score, received a group of ash trays.

Tuesday afternoon was made pleasant for Miss Batchelder when Mrs. Murchie arranged a party for both the Tuesday and Wednesday bridge clubs and added extra guests. The reception suite was beautifully decorated with a profusion of sweet peas and waxen lilies, and tables were covered in crisp pastel linen covers.

Mrs. Murchie presented Mrs. W. M. Meeks with guilt-edged bridge cards for high score and Mrs. H. I. Seligman with a lovely imported vase for second high score. Mrs. Archie Bain McBride was given a set of crystal coasters as a consolation prize.

A delicious ice course was served on daintily appointed trays to Mesdames J. W. McFadden, W. V. Garnier, Arthur Ross, Fannie Taylor, F. L. Billington, Charles Snyder, Ferd Wolff, Charles Kroemer, W. Of interest to their many friends is the marriage of Miss Willie C. Johnston to Mr. Murphy Oliver, which was solemnized Saturday, March 9, in Hamburg, Ark. Announcement of the wedding was withheld until last week.

Miss Johnston is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben C. Johnston of this city and Mr. Oliver is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Oliver of Douglasville, Texas. The young couple are now residing at the home of Mrs. A. D. Buford in North Washington street, where they are receiving the felicitations of their friends.

Mrs. Chas. Snyder will entertain Thursday, May 30, from 4 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon at a garden party, honoring Miss Shirley Haas of Monroe. Miss Haas' marriage to Mr. David Snyder, Mrs. Snyder's youngest son, on June 12, will be a notable event.

A STAMPING CORNER

By W. J. KIRBY

"Our readers have been using their microscopes on the new Connecticut stamps," says Linn's Weekly Stamp News, "for one wag insists that he has found the Democratic donkey perched up in the branches of the tree, while a lady reader insists there is a Democratic rooster sticking his head out of the bushes behind the tree."

Father Jose de Anchieta, "the Apostle of the New World," has been honored with a new set of four values issued by Brazil. Anchieta, son of a banished Spanish nobleman, not only rates this commemoration because of his religious work among the Indians of South America. At one time the Tamoya Indians attacked the Portuguese, and utter defeat seemed inevitable. Anchieta journeyed alone to the camp of the Indian chief, where he persuaded them to consent to a truce, offering himself as a hostage to guarantee that terms of the truce would not be broken by his countrymen. He lived with the Indians for three years, until the terms of the truce were all fulfilled. The design is very simple, showing the missionary, with a large cross in his hand, at the head of a group of Indians. Values in the set are: 200 reis, yellow brown; 300 reis, purple; 700 reis, blue; 1000 reis, green.

To commemorate the flight of the first air-train, Miami to Havana to Miami, a new air-mail stamp has been issued by Cuba. The design is the same as the regular Cuban air-mail stamp, except that the color was changed to red, and the stamp overprinted in black:

PRIMER TREN AERO
INTERNACIONAL. 1935
O'Meara y duPont 10 cts.

The stamp was issued both perforate and imperforate, only a limited number being printed. The Cuban authorities are to be commended for this change of color, as this will no doubt prevent unscrupulous persons faking the overprint.

The grebe makes love to its mate by presenting her with nesting material.

CENSUS TAKERS ARE NAMED HERE

Will Start Saturday, June 1, To Canvass Entire Parish

Names of enumerators for the quadrennial census to be taken in Ouachita parish during the month of June, were announced Saturday at the office of T. O. Brown, Ouachita parish school superintendent. All enumerators, as required by law, hold teachers' certificates. The enumerators and the wards in which they are to make the enumeration are as follows:

Ward 1, Ben Rush; ward 2, J. E. Sapp; ward 3, Leo Hartman, J. F. Craig, Roy Nichols; ward 4, Clifford Roberts; ward 5, G. W. Welch, Charles Eby, E. H. Williamson; ward 6, G. S. Manning, L. D. Willis; ward 7, S. M. Rutledge; ward 8, J. W. Rutledge; ward 9, C. W. Krumm; ward 10, George Roser, Harry Brown.

Four negro teachers are assisting. They are R. H. Miles, Henry Carroll, W. H. Howell and James Patterson.

All persons from birth to 18 years of age are to be listed in the census and special pains will be taken to make it a complete record, it was stated. It is expected that the canvassing period will not require more than 10 to 15 days' time.

A meeting of canvassers was held Saturday morning in the offices of Superintendent Brown where Mrs. Chrissie Williams, supervisor of parish elementary education, explained the work and assigned blank forms to all who are to be engaged in the work which will start on Saturday, June 1.

Similar census work will be conducted in all parishes of the state under the direction of T. H. Harris, state superintendent of education.

HUNDREDS HOMELESS IN LOUISIANA FLOOD

7 JURORS NAMED IN CARTER TRIAL

First State Witnesses In 'Legs Murder' May Be Heard On Monday

LAUREL, Miss., May 25.—(AP)—Under the judicial lash of Judge W. Joe Pack, selection of a jury began to take shape today in the trial of W. M. Carter, 67-year-old Laurel business man, charged with the murder of Mrs. Daisy Keeton, Laurel widow and victim in the famous "legs murder case."

The judge told contending counsel that there would be no recess of court before midnight unless a jury was selected to try the case.

After that admonition seven jurors were selected and the examination and acceptance of jurors went forward at a rapid pace.

If the jury is completed tonight the first state witnesses are to take the stand in circuit court Monday.

Three days have been spent in the selection of a jury from a special venire of 200 in a grind of questioning in an effort to find 12 men who have agreed that they are unbiased, have no fixed opinion about the guilt or innocence of the accused man and have no conscientious scruples against the infliction of the death penalty "in proper cases."

Many of the veniremen were excused by the court for cause, after either volunteering opinions, or after admissions of "prejudgment" had been elicited by defense or state's attorneys.

The state today issued subpoenas for 42 witnesses, practically all of whom testified at the trial of Ouida Keeton, 33, who was convicted of murder at the February term of court and sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary. She is now awaiting the outcome of an appeal of her case to the state supreme court. Ouida is the daughter of Mrs. Keeton.

The comely Ouida, apparently much recovered after what her attorneys termed a physical and mental breakdown at her own trial which she attended in a wheel chair, is expected to take the stand against her former employer, the elderly Carter, with whom she admitted intimate friendship. At her trial the state introduced in evidence an oral statement attributed to the then mute Ouida, who pleaded insanity as a defense, in which she said that Carter killed her mother, and disposed of the major portion of the mutilated body. Officers said Ouida declared her mother had been killed so she and Carter might "enjoy more privileges."

Total expenditures of the entire household of Henry VIII for food and drink amounted to a sum equivalent in modern currency to about $1,750,000 annually.

STATE SPECIALIST ATTENDS MEET OF HOME CLUBS HERE

A demonstration in selecting flowers and vegetables and arranging flowers for entering in a vegetable and flower show to be held here June 8, was conducted at a meeting of the Ouachita Parish Home Demonstration council yesterday afternoon at the courthouse by Miss Bertha Lee Ferguson, state garden specialist.

Eleven home demonstration clubs of the parish are to enter booths in the show, which is sponsored by the Ten-Year club of the parish home demonstration clubs, with the cooperation of the Monroe Kiwanis club. Each club will also enter two decorated automobiles in a parade in connection with the opening of the show.

The council selected June 13 as the date for its annual "Achievement Day" picnic, and appointed a committee to select the location for holding the picnic. Members of the committee are Mrs. J. B. Landreaux, of Claiborne, Mrs. Sidney Stewart, of Calhoun, and Mrs. L. J. Bowen, of the Colony community.

Further plans for conducting the flower and garden show were discussed by the council.

At the close of the meeting, flowers used in the demonstration were sent to relatives of the council members who are ill at St. Francis sanitarium. Friday, Miss Ferguson conducted a similar demonstration at Rayville for Richland parish home demonstration clubs. She also attended a meeting of the clubs' nutrition leaders. Annual reports of the leaders were rendered.

M'GEE DECISION SLATED MONDAY

Governor To Decide Whether Mary McElroy's Kidnaper Must Hang

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 25.—(AP)—Governor Guy B. Park announced tonight that he will release Monday his decision as to whether Walter McGee must hang for kidnaping Mary McElroy—and in Kansas City McGee prayed long in his cell.

Announcement of the decision was planned today, but an attack of indigestion confined the governor to his bed.

McGee's attractive victim, Miss McElroy, daughter of H. F. McElroy, city manager of Kansas City, pleaded recently with the governor to commute his sentence to life imprisonment after he had exhausted every recourse to the courts.

"I was so nervous last night," McGee said when informed of the delay. "Then I thought about praying. I prayed all night long. Say, I sure hope the governor doesn't put that rope around my neck." He is scheduled to die May 31.

McGee's brother, George, who guarded Miss McElroy while she was a prisoner for 9 hours in a basement in May, 1933, is serving a life term. Clarence Click, another member of the kidnap gang, was sentenced to eight years.

McGee was the first kidnaper ever sentenced to death for such a crime in this country.

Unique Negro Community Thrives In This Parish

Mineral Springs Settlement Is Free Of Debt; No Relief Needed

There is a little-known community in Ouachita parish where the people own their homes and are not in debt; where they have been successful in putting into operation a live-at-home program; where they have learned to cooperate for the good of all the people in the community.

And this community is entirely populated by negroes!

It is the Mineral Springs community for negroes, located in the western part of Ouachita parish.

It has an ideal school, a grist mill, a cooperative truck farm, a church and comfortable homes.

Learning to do by doing and putting into actual practice what they have learned is bringing success and recognition to the community.

But let no less an authority than T. H. Harris, state superintendent of education, who recently visited the community, tell about it. Mr. Harris declares that he is inclined to rank it among the foremost communities of its kind in the state.

"It would be fortunate indeed if the conditions found in this school and this school community could prevail in all parts of the state," Mr. Harris said.

"The principal of the school, Samuel Emanuel, is a graduate of Southern university agricultural department.

"The school has 10 grades and the boys in the upper grammar and the high school grades study agriculture. The principal discusses with these boys in their class work the various problems of agriculture in which they demonstrate at home the agricultural principles learned in the classroom," the superintendent continued.

"Each has an agricultural enterprise which he carries through his school courses. Some choose poultry; others, hogs; others, farm crops, etc. In school they learn what they can concerning these agricultural enterprises, and on their farms or in their gardens they put into actual practice what they have learned. In other words, they are learning to do by doing.

"The teacher of home economics has been trained in that field and she does for the girls what the teacher of agriculture does for the boys, and the girls also put into practice at home what they learn in school.

"The Mineral Springs school is in the center of a negro community. Practically all the people for several miles around are negroes. I was told that eighty per cent of these negroes own their homes and that their homes are free of mortgage. I was told further that nobody in that community is on relief and that throughout the depression only two persons in the community have been on relief, and one of these was selected by mistake," Mr. Harris pointed out.

"The men of the community have an organization, the purpose of which is to promote the best interests of this farming population. The women have an organization with the same purpose in view.

"Both organizations met at the school while I was there and representatives of both made reports. These reports represented about the best speeches that I have heard in many, many a day.

"Their substance was: These people have learned to live at home. They raise the corn, potatoes, chickens, eggs, hogs, vegetables, etc., needed for their table use. They do not have to buy any of these things.

"They can large quantities of berries, fruits, meats and vegetables, and the result of all this is that there is never any danger of hunger in the families living in the community. They fared very well during the hard times and there has been little or no suffering among them."

POSTAL WORKERS GIVE BARBEQUE

Two Retired Members Of Staff Here Are Honored On Saturday

With an attendance of more than 100 comprising employes of the Monroe and West Monroe postoffice staffs, a barbecue to do honor to two recently retired members was held at Leon Fife's place on the Dixie-Overland highway, six miles from West Monroe, Saturday afternoon and night.

The men who have recently been retired from the Monroe postoffice force with pensions are Andrew Carter and Joe Goodwin. Mr. Carter was appointed as clerk in the Monroe postoffice Sept. 23, 1908, and was made assistant postmaster Nov. 23, 1913. He continued to serve in this capacity until he was retired because of physical disability on Jan. 31, 1935.

Mr. Goodwin was appointed clerk in the office here July 29, 1918, and was pensioned and retired, also because of physical disability, on Jan. 7, 1935.

A great supply of barbecued meats and all other things that are required for a successful event of this nature was prepared. Grounds were strung with electric lights and a radio furnished music.

Several short talks were made, and both Mr. Carter and Mr. Goodwin were the recipients of presents as a testimonial from their former fellow employes.

DOG TICKS CATTLE TICKS POLITICKS

Old Uncle Ned had no eyes for to see;
He had no teeth for to chew the corn cake,
So he had to let the corn cake be.

The story is going the rounds that I would make a splendid Street Commissioner if not too old—something like the old circuit preacher who was canned on account of his advanced years. The younger preacher who got his job preaching asked the old colored servant who opened the gate for him how the white folks liked his preaching, and the colored man replied, "The white folks thinks you is too young and not much 'sperienced."

Now, let's diagnose this old age political knock. In the 15-year column of the News-Star I noticed that 15 years ago last September I shot 44 clay pigeons out of a possible 50. Just this last September, 1934, I made the same identical score—not a very good score, and not so bad. At any rate showing my eyesight is not impaired. I am still using the same set of teeth my mother gave me, proving I have beaten Uncle Ned's time as to decay of body or weakness of mind—Going some.

Will Rogers says a man is just getting right at 40—and Will knows some things, without reading the newspapers.

Well, I arrived in Monroe at the earliest possible moment, and expect to remain until there is a flat rate of 4c per kilowatt to poor people who cannot afford an electric refrigerator. How can two grades of electricity be manufactured at a municipally owned power plant and be squirted around about town unless the wires be crooked? Children and old folks tell the truth; it is possible that I might let the cat out of the bag, or spill the beans.

This Street Commissioner's job hinges on eleven dollars a day,—a free automobile, free gasoline, free electric juice, free water, are the trimmings included according to my guess, which is as good as any when it hits. If elected, six dollars a day goes into my pocket; five dollars a day to the shell shocked boys of France—to the support of a charity hospital, and others down but not out. Vade me for a thousand dollars and if elected I will split the $3,000.00 50-50 with the kiddies who have no pa or ma on Christ's birthday and I will not give a dime or promise a job for all the votes in Monroe.

Politically purchased jobs often call for a slight of hand rebate after being elected.

Some people, good, polite, hat-tipping officeholders, too, who wear boiled shirt fronts, look neat and nice, good citizens in every sense of the word, like to hold office so well that they would serve a lifetime, AND DIE IN A POLITICAL COFFIN, but such is life and hinges on the lust for money, and not the odor of honest sweat from the horny-handed man's body.

If I am selected as the workingman and poor people's candidate for Commissioner of Streets and Parks, by your heartfelt desire, all's well and good. My donations, if elected, will be as certain as death.

I must say honestly and fairly, your tax money is the most sacred of all moneys, and should be handled with gloves, spent judicially, showing dollar for dollar's face value in return received. My good people, it's all up to you whether I will be a candidate and be elected or hung on election day. I do not prefer to be electrocuted by the kind of electricity the rich man uses in his refrigerator.

Cats open their eyes in nine days; some people in nine years—and when you do open them, you will find 10 hours is a day's work at about 25c per hour, bread and water your rations with 10% refund for boomerang "political" power. It gives a mule or a negro the headache to think, and I fear it's contagious with some white folks.

As to Sharing the Wealth, I am a hundred per cent—if we just had work as we could all earn this day our daily bread. We are not looking for Santa Claus—his whiskers or presents. The hoarding of money—the medium of exchange—in the hands of a few does not buy a new frock for the baby nor pay for the one he now wears. Empty stomachs a dissatisfied people, some times lead to a revolution. At daggers points one with another certainly is not good fellowmans democracy.

Assuring the public that all kneeling and discussing as to my candidacy will be appreciated. I am yours truly,

J. G. (Short Pencil) Bell

'MAID OF MIST' PRIMPS FOR HONEYMOONERS

The Honeymoon Special, the famed Maid of the Mist, again will ply the waters at the base of Niagara Falls this summer, victor over the fire that badly damaged the craft in drydock last February. Repair work is being rushed, as shown in this picture, new boilers and engines being installed, new planking laid, and a larger and more modern cabin being built while Niagara roars an accompaniment to the hammers.

Old Map

Spells 'Ouachita' With A 'W' And Gives New Orleans As Capital

"Ouachita" was spelled "Wachita" in 1851, in Monroe's Geography, a copy of which is owned by G. W. Small, of Monroe.

Farmerville was spelled "Farmersville."

Natchitoches was "an old French town, formerly the center of trade with Mexico, on the Red River above Alexandria."

Shreveport was "a landing place on the Red River, at the foot of the Great Raft, which formerly choked the river for a space of 160 miles, but which is now removed.

New Orleans was the state capital, and the present capital, Baton Rouge, was "a post of the United States army, with an aresenal on the Mississippi river."

The population of New Orleans, according to the 1840 census, had grown from 10,000 in 1802 to 100,000. The population of the entire state, according to the 1840 census, was 352,000.

Oklahoma, the maps revealed, was the "Indian Territory." Texas had only a few counties marked on the map, and they were located along the state's eastern border and the gulf coast. Dallas and Fort Worth were not shown on the map.

The far west was generally designated as New Mexico, and the entire west coast was generally designated as California.

The geography text stated that Texas had declared its independence from Mexico in 1835, and was admitted to the union in 1845.

Monroe was indicated on the maps but no comment upon the city was made in the text. For the place on the map where Bastrop is located, the map bore the letters "C. H." The letters were an abbreviation for courthouse.

Pictures accompanied most of the texts regarding the states. The picture for the text on Louisiana depicted a crevasse on the Mississippi river.

The geography is in an excellent state of preservation. In dimensions it is 10 by 12 inches.

REVENUE DODGERS WARNED BY JUDGE

Dawkins To Increase Penalty To 18 Months For Liquor Law Violation

Sentences of 18 months in jail or the penitentiary will be meted out to persons found guilty of violating the federal liquor revenue law when federal court convenes in Monroe in October, according to an announcement made Saturday.

Warning that he would impose this heavy penalty was made by Judge Ben C. Dawkins in open court at Opelousas this week, according to word received here.

But until the court convenes in Monroe, the present rule of giving six month jail sentences to persons who plead guilty and 12 month sentences to those who stand trial and are convicted will continue, Judge Dawkins is quoted as saying.

A term of federal court will be held in Shreveport beginning June 17, according to Philip W. Mecom, United States attorney of Shreveport. A large number of liquor cases are docketed for trial.

LEGION POST TO ATTEND SERVICE

Members Will Hear Memorial Sermon At Grace Church

L. B. Faulk post, American Legion, and its auxiliary, will attend the annual memorial service at Grace Episcopal church at 11 a.m. today. Members will be attired in their caps and will march from the legion home to the church.

A church call will be sounded at the door of the edifice by a bugler. The choir will sing the processional, "Onward Christian Soldiers," to the strains of which the legion men with their post standards will proceed down the main aisle of the church.

The rector, Rev. E. F. Hayward, will read the names of the men from the post who have died the past year, and a bugle will sound as the list is concluded, after which special prayers will be offered by the rector. The sermon will be suited to the occasion.

On leaving the church the choir will sing the processional, "America," and will divide in such manner that the legion men can pass between the lines of the choir.

The program for the services has been prepared with care and it is expected to prove unusually impressive.

Rev. Hastings Is Outdoor Man; Likes To Swim, Fish

REV. HASTINGS

Rev. L. T. Hastings, pastor of the Monroe First Baptist church, was outdoors when he was asked to name his hobbies, his recreations and diversions, the things he likes to do as a man.

"I like the outdoors," he answered. "I was born indoors, but they turned me outdoors at an early age. Ever since that time I have liked the great outdoors."

There was a twinkle in his eyes, and he gave vent to his contagious laugh.

"I lived and worked hard on a farm until I was 20 years of age," he said. "I thought, then, that if I could just get an easy job in town, a job like jerking sodas, that kind of life would be something like heaven.

"Now, however, I am pleased that I worked hard as a boy and young man, because the work gave me strength and an appreciation of the outdoors."

Reared on a farm about five miles from Nashville, Tenn., Rev. Hastings has a physique and personal carriage which bear evidence of his youthful manual pursuits. In manhood, however, his duties as a minister of a church have left him little time for outdoor pursuits.

Nevertheless, he enjoys working in his family flower garden and puttering about the yard. A beautiful view of the Ouachita river and LaZarre's point is available from his rear yard. Sometimes he makes an interesting trip to a distant city where he delivers a sermon or address, or attends a convention.

Reverend Hastings was standing outdoors, on the second floor of the educational building of the Monroe First Baptist church, now under construction, when interviewed. Construction of the building, which has progressed by stages as finances were made available, doubtless is one of his major interests.

Using a small camera, he made two snapshots of the stage to which the construction had progressed. The two pictures were to be taken to his son, Brownlow Hastings, who is to graduate this week from Mars Hill Junior college, Mars Hill, N. C. Reverend and Mrs. Hastings are to leave here tomorrow for Mars Hill to attend the graduation ceremony, and will present the photographs to Brownlow, so that he will not have to wait until his return to Monroe to form an idea as to the stage of the construction, which is being given new impetus at this time. This shows that one of Reverend Hastings' great interests is that of a father.

Reverend Hastings is a good swimmer, but has not been swimming for several years. Until 10 years ago, when he came to Monroe, he had no experience in fishing. Now, he goes fishing occasionally.

One of his most interesting pursuits is studying, the acquiring of knowledge. His studies are not confined to the Bible, histories of Biblical times, or the many studies associated with the acquiring of knowledge of especial interest to a man of his calling. He pursues a broad field of study, and keeps posted on current events and world trends.

He is fond of music, both vocal and instrumental. In former years, he played the violin, base viol, guitar, baritone and reed organ. Rarely does he play one of those instruments now, but he sings often.

He enjoys radio programs. His favorite humorous characters are "Lum and Abner," the "Arkansas hicks."

Miss Mary Agnes Hamley, Of Lake Providence, Is Joined In Marriage To Mr. James Marion Gilfoil

By EVE C. BRADFORD

The interest of friends in this section of the state is centered in the marriage of Miss Mary Agnes Hamley, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Celestine Hamley of Lake Providence, and Mr. James Marion Gilfoil, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gilfoil of Omega, La., Wednesday morning, May the twenty-second, at St. Patrick's Catholic church, Lake Providence, with Reverend Father Plutz officiating in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives of the couple.

Southern smilax formed a lush, green background for the placement of picturesque branches of pink hydrangea. Pink sweet peas were also massed against the chancel and adorned the altar, where myriad cathedral tapers lighted the dim recesses of the church. The vows were plighted 'neath an arch entwined with waxen magnolia blossoms and centered with a white wedding bell.

A prenuptial concert was rendered by Mrs. B. R. Pinkston, organist, while the guests were being seated. "Lieberstraum," with violin obligato, was beautifully rendered, as was a vocal solo number, "O Promise Me," sung by Mrs. Anna Ransdell Cox. A violin number, "Evening Song," was rendered by Miss Bert Estelle Herzog. Mendelssohn's wedding march was used for the processional and Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus for the recessional.

The bride's attendants included her sister, Miss Anna May Hamley and the bridegroom's two sisters, Miss Elizabeth Gilfoil and Miss Eula Gilfoil. Frocks of pink and green point d'espirit over satin were worn with green velvet sashes and picturesque hats of pink. Sprays of pink gladioli formed the arm bouquets.

Bettye Kaye Gilfoil, niece of the bridegroom, and Marie Hamley, sister of the bride, were the beautiful little flower girls. They wore pink point d'espirit frocks with streamers of pink velvet caught to the shoulders. They carried quaint, old-fashioned nosegays of pink and blue.

Mr. Patrick Burns of Natchez, Miss., a former classmate of Mr. Gilfoil's at Notre Dame university, acted in the capacity of best man. The ushers were Messrs. Harry Devine, Francis Jordon, George Gilfoil and Robert Spinks of Tallulah.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory satin wedding gown of classic simplicity. The sleeves were long and tight-fitting and the skirt, rather full ended in a long train. She wore the conventional veil of illusion caught to the hair with bands of orange blossoms and flaring gracefully to the waist in the back. Her bridal bouquet was a sheaf of gorgeous Calla lilies.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride changed her wedding raiment for a smart navy blue georgette ensemble and left with Mr. Gilfoil on a motor trip.

Among the guests from out of town were noted: Mrs. G. Allenbach, Miss Mary Allenbach and Mrs. J. S. Williamson of New Orleans; Mrs. V. H. Allenbach of Nashville, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gilfoil and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gilfoil of Omega; Mr. and Mrs. John Devine, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Benjamin, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Maxwell, Mrs. William Craig, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Sevier, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. # RUTH HITS THREE HOME RUNS BUT PIRATES WIN

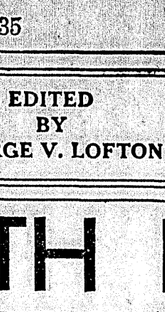
BAMBINO BACK IN OLD FORM WITH FOUR FOR FOUR

However, Braves Hurlers Can't Hold Bucs, Who Win, 11 To 7

PITTSBURGH, May 25.—(AP)—Rising to the glorious heights of his heydey, Babe Ruth, the sultan of swat, crashed out three home runs against the Pittsburgh Pirates today but they were not enough and the Boston Braves took a 11 to 7 defeat before a crowd of 10,000.



Babe Ruth

The stands rocked with cheers for the mighty Babe as he enjoyed a field day at the expense of pitchers Red Lucas and Guy Bush, getting a single besides the three circuit blows in four times at bat and driving in altogether six runs.

Ruth left the game amid an ovation at the end of the Braves' half of the seventh inning and after his third home run—a prodigous clout that carried clear over the right field grandstand, bounded into the street and rolled into Schenley park. Baseball men said it was the longest drive ever made at Forbes field.

In his first appearance at the plate the Bambino drove the ball into the stands, scoring Urbanski ahead of him. Lucas was the victim. Again in the third, while Guy Bush was pitching, the Babe found his eye and smashed one that landed on top of the stands. Mallon was on base at the time. In the seventh Ruth lined out a single to score Mallon again. His last home run drove Bush out of the box and Waite Hoyt finished the game.

The Pirates pecked away freely at the offerings of three Boston pitchers and managed to keep up with the Babe's tremendous pace in so far as scoring runs was concerned.

The Pirates sewed up the game with Tommy Thevenow's double, coming with the bases loaded in the seventh while Ben Cantwell was pitching for the Braves. Pep Young, rookie third baseman, subbing for ailing Pie Traynor, hit a home run earlier for the Pirates.

SPORTS Chatter

BY GEO. V. LOFTON

Those psalm singers who were chanting a dirge over the grand old game of baseball a couple of years back had better change their tune, for America's national pastime is staging a grand comeback.

As late as last year, the boys were painting a black picture, asserting that decreased crows indicated decline of the game, and that it was only a matter of a few years when baseball would fold its tent and bow to another sport as the favorite of the nation.

Big league magnates bumped their noggins together in numerous conferences.. Various and sundry were the schemes concocted to lure John Pfann into the gate. Night baseball was suggested. It was adopted in the National league as an experiment, each team being allowed seven games during the season.

Each major league club endeavored to add clorful players to its roster in an effort to pull gates similar to those nifluenced by the mighty Bambino.

But outside of the Dean boys, none as colorful as Ruth appeared, and when it was announced he was through as a player, and would be sent to the Boston Braves, an early demise of the American league was predicted.

But look, you gloomy Gussies—

The Giants and Cards play to a crowd of 41,000 on a week-day! Attendance of every major club, with the possible exception of the St. Louis Browns, and the two Philadelphia clubs, is soaring above the 1934 mark. Nearly 50,000 seats have been sold for the All-Star game in Cleveland!

MINORS FEEL REVIVAL, TOO

Not only is this revived interest felt in the majors, but all over the bushes the fans are packing the stands.

As an example, in the American association, St. Paul already has played to more than half the total attendance of 1934, and the season is less than a third over.

In the Southern association, club owners are asserting definitely that prosperity is back. All around the loop attendance is increasing.

In the first eight days of the season, Atlanta drew 45,000, more than double the amount of people drawn in during the same period last year.

More surprising than the Crackers' showing, however, is that of Birmingham. The Barons, reported hardest hit during the depression, drew 30,000 for home games during the first three weeks of the season, double the 1934 figure.

The Pacific Coast league is experiencing a revival, although it is not so marked as that in the Southern wheel.

There is no doubt that the game is gaining strength, and the reason can be tacked onto several factors.

In the majors, it's the surprising strength of heretofore weak sisters. The transition of the White Sox and Red Sox in the Amerdan league, and the absolute astounding fact that the Brooklyn Dodgers are playing baseball, and the Cincinnati Reds are showing their teeth in the National, have done much to renew interest.

DEAN BOLSTERED NATIONAL

Then, it cannot be questioned that the rise to stardom of Dizzy Dean has done wonders in the old circuit. Dizzy's dizzy declarations regarding his prowess, and his backing up his statements with convincing performances on the hill, were enough to rouse even the most skeptical fan into fanatical interest.

The host of young stars who jumped into sudden fame this season has drawn out the bugs, too. Pitchers like Cy Blanton of the Pirates; Clydell Castleman of the Giants; the White Sox's Johnny Whitehead; and the Tigers' Joe Sullivan have intrigued the populace with their pitching performances.

Add to the attraction of star performers is the fact that the boys are all showing the old fight. Feuds have sprouted up between the Indians and Tigers; Giants and Brooklyn; Giants and Phillies; Yankees and Senators; and several other clubs.

They're playing the old ball game with tooth and nail this year—and who wouldn't pay to see a good fight?

However, Pepper Martin And Terry Threaten His Leadership

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—The consistently good hitting of Pepper Martin, the versatile St. Louis third sacker, and Bill Terry, New York Giants' manager, took the spotlight away from the amazing all-around stick-work of Arky Vaughan as the three fought it out for National league batting honors during the sixth week of the season.

Vaughan went on at his usual clip during the week which ended with Friday's games, adding four points to his average to bring it back above the .400 mark after it had dropped below for the first time and consolidating his hold on the general slugging leadership. But Martin and Terry added to their averages in a way that amounted to outright defiance of the rules in a week which saw the general run of batting marks drop sharply.

Martin made 27 trips to the plate and hit safely on 13 of them, getting "two out of four" in nearly every game, to lift his second-place mark 31 points to .385. Terry picked up 20 points for a .344 average with eleven blows in 26 attempts.

Vaughan, meanwhile, hit safely ten times in 24 trips to the plate to lift his average to .402. These ten blows gave him a total of 53, one more than his teammate, Lloyd Waner, and included his eighth home run of the season, putting him into a tie with Mel Ott of the Giants for the league lead. In addition he batted in eight runs for a total of 31 and a lead of two over Linus Frey of Brooklyn, the former leader, and Ott.

Martin retained first place in doubles with eleven to ten for Gus Suhr of Pittsburgh while Paul Waner of the Pirates, Phil Cavarretta of Chicago and Ralph Boyle of Brooklyn wound up in a triple tie with four three-baggers each. Billy Myers of Cincinnati forged ahead in the base stealing race with six thefts to five for Frenchy Bordagaray of Brooklyn.

Clydell Castleman, New York's 20-year-old rookie moundsman, took the undisputed lead in the elbowing department when he rang up his fourth victory without a loss while Tex Carleton of Chicago, who had been tied with him, suffered his first defeat. Second place went to another Giant, Roy Parmelee, with five victories and only one setback.

Biff, 14-1 Shot, Wins Rich Chicago Handicap

CHICAGO, May 25.—(AP)—A 14-to-1 shot in the betting named Biff, a busy but successful campaigner on the winter tracks, surprised 18,000 spectators today by winning the $5,000 added Chicago handicap, opening the 31-day meeting at Washington park.

The four-year-old son of Broadside-Wildwood, the entry of an obscure owner, F. Ianni, proprietor of a restaurant in Dallas, Texas, zig-zagged through a field of the finest sprinters in America, to conquer Wise Daughter by a length and a half, with Isaiah third. Some Pomp was fourth in the field of 14.

The winner ran the six furlongs in 1:11 3-5.

Overlooked in the betting, Biff paid $30.24 to win, $10.36 to place and $6.14 to show. The place price on Wise Daughter, running as an entry with Whereaway for Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago was $3.34 and $2.60 to show. The show price on Isaiah was $4.88.

OMAHA DEFEATED IN WITHERS MILE

Derby And Preakness Winner Runs Poor Second To Rosemont

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—William Woodward's Omaha, winner of the Kentucky derby and Preakness, suffered his first major defeat of the season today when he finished second to William duPont's Rosemont in the 60th running of the Withers mile at Belmont park. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Plat Eye was third in the field of nine.

Omaha, made the 1 to 2 choice of the crowd of 20,000, closed fast through the stretch after trailing for the first half mile but at the finish he still was one and one-half lengths back of Rosemont, which paid 8 to 1. The Woodward colt beat Plat Eye a half length for the place.

Rosemont, meeting Omaha for the first time, stepped off the mile in the fast time of 1:46 3-5 to earn the purse of $11,250. Omaha's second netted $1,000 and boosted his earnings for the year to $67,600 and $71,450 for his entire career.

Mrs. Whitney's colt whipped Psychic Bid four lengths for the place.

The leaders were trailed in order by Mrs. Whitney's Gillie, winner of the Santa Anita derby, Nautch, Special Agent, Mrs. James H. Austin's Sound Advice and E. D. Shaffer's St. Bernard.

Ross Picked To Regain His Welterweight Title

Barney Should Beat McLarnin In Third Meeting, Says Grayson

By Harry Grayson
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, May 23.—I have an idea that Barney Ross decisively will outpoint Jimmy McLarnin in their third 15-round match at the Polo Grounds on May 28, but my prediction is not based on the fact that the welterweight champion appears lackadaisical in workouts.

McLarnin is almost as deceptive in training as Max Baer.

Jimmy has prepared for most of his important starts without worthwhile sparring partners, yet repeatedly has turned in blazing battles after protracted layoffs.

I pick Ross because I believe he has the greater urge, and because I thought he was entitled to the decision that went the other way when they met last September.

It is because so many considered Ross shortchanged the last trip that the Chicagoan is likely to enter the ring as challenger a slight favorite.

McLarnin says he is 26, which makes him only one year older than Ross, but the Irishman has been around much longer than the Jewish clouter. McLarnin has been boxing 11 years against Ross' six, and a fighter's enthusiasm does not increase with seniority stripes.

McLarnin has all the money he ever should need, and contemplates matrimony. Lillian Cupit, Vancouver school teacher, is the girl.

If Ross was not confident that he could repel McLarnin, he hardly would have vacated the lightweight championship for the privilege of meeting the British Columbia Bomber for the third time. Ross still can do 135 pounds without difficulty.

Ross either takes a solid smack better than those who were bowled over by McLarnin or the latter has lost some of his punching power. The Lollapaloosa of the Loop was nailed more than once in 30 rounds with McLarnin, but nothing much happened.

Indeed, McLarnin saw fit to switch his style in their second encounter, after striving earnestly to blast Ross from the scene in their first excursion. Jimmy reverted to the boxing methods he employed during his fly, bantam, and featherweight days. It was Barney who lugged the trouble and took the chances.

While, as related in the foregoing, McLarnin repeatedly has done mighty well after long layoffs, the three bouts that Ross has put under his belt since Jimmy took the debatable decision from him last fall are points in his favor. His contests with Bobby Pacho in Cleveland, Frankie Klick in Miami, and Henry Woods in Seattle have kept Ross in touch with the game.

Ross scaled a trifle over 140 pounds when he last met McLarnin. That was more than he ever weighed for a fight, and was partly due to the several postponements. The increased poundage deprived Barney of some of his speed. He'll have all of his get-up and go this time, when he will come in at not more than 138 pounds.

McLarnin will scale about 145 pounds, and the pull in weight would be important if Ross had not already demonstrated that he is capable of spotting Jim a handicap of the kind.

If McLarnin was superstitious, he might object to boxing at the Polo Grounds. Jimmy has lost only three fights in New York, and two of the reverses were suffered in the home of the New York Giants. The other saw him shellacked by Billy Petrolle at Madison Square Garden.

Sammy Mandell cuffed McLarnin's ears at the Polo Grounds in 1928, and Lefty Lou Brouillard butted and pounded him there three years ago.

But Jimmy McLarnin is much more concerned about Ross falling for a feint than he is about any jinx.

BIG CROWD SEEN

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—The opening gun of what should be one of boxing's greatest seasons of outdoor warfare will be fired in the Polo Grounds Tuesday night with Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver striving to stave off the bid of Barney Ross of Chicago for the welterweight championship.

There probably will be 35,000 people in the National league ball park, and there are expectations that $200,000 worth of customers, if the weather is pleasant, will launch the new 20th Century Sporting club on its fistic way.

The greatest threat to Madison Square Garden's supremacy in the big time fight field since Humbert Fugazy fought a losing battle for control with Tex Rickard finds Bill Carey, former garden president, lined up against his old associates as head of the new organization that controls boxing at both the Polo Grounds and Yankee stadium.

On the night of June 13, in the bowl on Long Island, the garden pits Max Baer against Jimmy Braddock in defense of his heavyweight title. After that the new opposition takes the field again with a heavyweight match between Primo Carnera and the latest negro sensation, Joe Louis, from Detroit. All three of the big features are scheduled for 15 rounds.

Ross is an 8 to 5 favorite.

TIGERS WIN ODD GAME OF SERIES WITH BOSTON, 3-2

Bridges Holds Red Sox To Seven Hits, Greenberg Provides Punch

BOSTON, May 25.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers made it two out of three over the Boston Red Sox today, winning the odd game of their first visit to Boston by a 3-2 margin. Hank Greenberg, slugging first baseman for the Tigers, pounded out his ninth home run of the season in the sixth inning with a mate on base, chasing home what proved to be the winning run.

Tommy Bridges

Tommy Bridges, clever Detroit flinger, held the Red Sox to seven scattered hits and chalked up his fifth consecutive victory. To date he has won six and lost three.

Fred "Fritz" Ostermueller, starting Red Sox pitcher, was struck in the face in the fourth inning by a line drive off Greenberg's bat. At first Ostermueller was thought to be seriously injured, but an x-ray showed no broken bones. One stitch was taken below his left eye and his upper lip was badly lacerated. He will remain at the hospital overnight, where another x-ray will be taken tomorrow.

In the first inning "Dib" Williams, who started at second base for the Sox, pulled up with a sprained ankle when he overran third base and made a sudden attempt to get back to the bag. He was replaced by Max Bishop.

CHISOX WALLOP NATS

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—Behind the six-hit pitching of Carl Fischer, the Chicago White Sox coasted to an 8 to 3 victory over Washington today when four Senator pitchers threw them 14 solid base hits.

Chubby Ed Linke, whose arm mysteriously went dead last season, started for Washington but lasted only long enough to serve up three successive hits and a base on balls. Before Pettit, hitherto the Senators' most successful relief hurler, could retire the side, four Sox runs had been scored.

Strategy---And No Sixes---Sarazen's Idea Of What It'll Take To Win Open

By Paul Mickelson
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Strategy—and no sixes—will win the national open golf championship at Oakmont, says Gene Sarazen, the mighty little man who unquestionably will stride to the starting tee rated as "the man to beat."

"Give me a card without a six on it," says Gene, "and I'll win it myself."

A concensus of the experts, most of whom have played historic Oakmont and its narrow fairways many times, shows that few of them expect 300 to be broken in the big show next month, but Sarazen figures the winner's score will be between 296 and 298.

"Oakmont has them all scared Stiff," Sarazen chuckled. "Sure, it's a tough course. It's the only layout where 300 hasn't been broken in National open championship play, in 1927 Tommy Armour and Harry Cooper tied for first at 301, and the weather was perfect.

"But I don't see any sense in approaching it like an unarmed man would a flock of wildcats. Nothing in golf can be that bad.

Clever Sport Frock

Claiborne P.-T. A Names Officers

Dennis, recreation; Mr. Leo Hartman, publicity.

The election of officers was preceded by a short discussion of old business. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Miss Meyer Entertains

Miss Violet Meyer entertained on board the Brown Kraft with a dinner Friday night complimentary to Miss Florence Ferguson and Mr. Victor Davis, whose approaching marriage is now engaging the interest of society.

Leaving at six o'clock the Brown Kraft drifted down the river to a picturesque spot where anchor was dropped and a delicious four-course dinner served on board. Exquisite corsages marked covers at the flower-banked table for the feminine guests. Miss Ferguson wore a jaunty sport costume.

The guests, besides Miss Ferguson and Mr. Davis, were Miss Connie McReynolds and Mr. King Stubbs, Miss Happy Hudson and Mr. James Sparks, Miss Meyer and Dr. P. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Shafto and Messrs Gilbert Faulk and Benjamin Dawkins.

Miss Ruby Benoit, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Benoit of this city, presented her senior art exhibit at Louisiana college on Tuesday evening, May 21. This exhibit drew favorable comment from the crowds of Louisiana college visitors to witness it in Alexandria hall.

Requiring both Athenian and Cadmian halls to contain the volume of nicely finished work, the exhibit culminated four years work in the art course.

Under the direction of Miss Alza Stratton, Miss Benoit this year has done a great deal of work, all of it worthy of college exhibition. Her exhibit was one of the most fully complete in every detail to be seen at the college. Her work attested her accomplishment in the fields of painting, chalk and pencil work and in both the modernistic and the conservative phases of the art field.

Miss Benoit was graduated with the B. A. degree in art last Tuesday evening at the college.

LITTLE WINS SECOND BRITISH AMATEUR CROWN

DEFENDING CHAMP BEATS TWEDDELL IN CLOSE MATCH

U. S. Star Puts Sensational Finish To 1-Up Victory In Final

By Gayle Talbot
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

ST. ANNE'S-ON-THE-SEA, Eng., May 25. — William Lawson Little, Jr., the colossus from California, fixed the mantle of golfing greatness more firmly on his shoulders today when he defeated Dr. William Tweddell, a 38-year-old British physician, one up, in 36 holes, and won the British amateur golf championship for the second straight time.

Thus the burly, 24-year-old San Francisco shotmaker became the first player in history to win three consecutive national amateur golf crowns and the third man ever to register a "double" in the 50 years of this championship.

During a sensational struggle which saw the husky holder of the British and American simon-pure titles three up at the end of the morning round, only to be brought back on even terms with six holes to go in the home stretch, Little played some of the grandest golf in his career. He withstood paralyzing pressure over the final, windswept passage to subdue Tweddell, the winner of the 1927 championship, who made a bold bid on the last nine holes.

Desperately needing a four on the final hole to assure victory, the American skillfully got off one of the most testing shots of the tournament, hemmed in on three sides by a gallery of almost 10,000 which had verged on riotous conduct over the prospect of witnessing Little's downfall.

Standing on the 36th tee, Little was dormie one. Tweddell, having the honor by virtue of winning the previous hole, divided the fairway with a 250-yard drive. Earlier in the day Little had been belting the ball from the tees fairly consistently about 300 yards. Down the stretch, he was hard pressed and sacrificed accuracy for distance. He sliced his drive into a swarm of spectators standing in the rough and the ball settled on a bare spot.

His caddy, with a stick flying an American flag, rushed to the spot and fell on all fours, animal-like, to prevent the rampaging spectators from trampling on the ball. Little slowly ambled up to the ball and with characteristic impassiveness, viewed the situation without a sign of emotion. One hundred yards distant was the green, with two yawning traps in between. It took the marshals fully five minutes to move the crowd back to permit Little to get a free swipe at the ball. He chose a spade mashie, lobbed the pellet beautifully to clear the traps and it came to rest on the green 28 feet from the hole. Tweddell planted his approach three feet inside Little's.

That recovery had a revitalizing effect on the champion. For the first time during the final match he smiled. He took less time than usual in lining up the putt and then rolled the ball "stone dead" for a sure four, putting the pressure on Tweddell and, as it turned out, blighting the challenger's hopes. Facing the most difficult operation of his career, the medico saw his 25-foot putt, which made, would have taken the match at least an extra hole, slide past the cup. Ruefully but grinning, Tweddell tapped Little's ball into the cup and conceded defeat.

The gallery, which had cheered Tweddell's magnificent uphill fight, cheered equally loud for the victorious Californian.

If there was any one winning shot in the entire match, however, it was on the 32nd, where Little's second shot nestled in a bunker beside the green while Tweddell was lying close to the hole for a sure four. Little whaled the ball with all the might of his brawny shoulders, and brought it out in a cloud of sand 15 feet from the cup and then sank the putt for a half in 4s to become dormie two.

Little's victory today made it the fourth time in the 50 years history of the tournament the title has been captured by Americans. Jesse Sweetser did it in 1926 and Bob Jones turned the trick in 1930. The only other players besides Little to score "doubles" were H. G. Hutchinson in 1867-87, and Harold Hilton in 1900-01.

Lawson Little, above, won his second consecutive British amateur golf championship yesterday in a stirring 1-up victory in 36 holes.

NEW TWILIGHT SCHEDULE MADE

Softball League Shifts Games With Addition Of Eighth Team

A new schedule for the second, third and fourth rounds of play in the Twilight Softball league was announced yesterday by O. N. McNeil, secretary of the league. The first round of games was completed last Thursday.

The new schedule was made necessary by the addition of the Southern Bell Telephone company team, which joined the circuit last week. Previously only seven clubs comprised the league. Following is the new schedule:

May 28, June 20, July 16—Baptists vs. Firemen. Legion vs. Masons, Methodists vs. St. Matthew's, Southern Bell vs. Y's Men.

June 13, July 9, August 1—Y's Men vs. Baptists, Legion vs. Methodists, St. Matthew's vs. Masons, Bell vs. Firemen.

June 18, July 11, August 6—Firemen vs. Y's Men, St. Matthew's vs. Legion, Masons vs. Methodists, Bell vs. Baptists.

The second named teams are the home teams for the second and fourth rounds, while the first named teams are the home teams for the third rounds.

LEGION JUNIORS TRIM PELS AGAIN

L. T. I. Makes 14 Errors And Juniors Win Third Straight Victory

Mixing nine hits with 14 errors, made by the Pelicans, the American Legion junior club won their third straight victory over Louisiana Training institute yesterday, 16 to 1.

The Pelican infielders were way off form and their misplays gave the Juniors plenty of scoring chances. Only two outfield errors were made by the Pels, the other 12 being chalked up against infielders.

Ed Stroud and Britton Horton hurled fine ball for the American Legion team, allowing but four hits between them. Fontana also took a turn on the hill for the Juniors and fared equally as well. Horton struck out seven Pelicans and Stroud and Fontana two each.

Fontana led the legion batting attack with two hits, both of them doubles. Horton, Hyde and Stroud also hit doubles, as did Takewell for the Pelicans. Bice got two singles for L. T. I.

JOHNNY MORRIS WINS GOLF FINAL

Former Monroe Player Beats Gene Vinson In Montgomery Meet

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 25.—(AP)—The sensational young shot maker, Johnny Morris of Birmingham, today wrote his name among the winners of the historic invitation tournament of the Montgomery Country club, by beating Gene Vison of Meridian, Miss., another youthful golf star, 4 and 2.

It was Morris' accuracy around the greens and in splitting the fairway with his drives that gave him the edge needed to stand off Vinson's determined rally, after losing the first three holes of the match.

A gallery, said by observers to be the largest that ever followed a match here, trailed, and gasped on No. 14, as Morris' six iron shot on the 140-yard hole rolled dead to the pin and stopped just short of an ace. Vinson, unperturbed, dropped his twelve-foot putt to match the birdie two.

The Mississippian's usually reliable driver began failing him on the fifteenth and he dropped successive two holes because of a faltering long game.

Monroe Monarchs Off On Long Road Jaunt

Having defeated the Little Grays, 6-0, last Sunday as their final gesture to local fans the Monroe Monarchs, local negro team, left for an extended trip through the north, east and middle west. Seventeen players pulled out from Casino Park at 4 o'clock this morning. Their first stop will be at Clarksdale, Miss., today. They will meet the Omaha, Neb., Tigers there this afternoon in a single contest. The team will probably be on the road for three months, it was said.

Having made a fine spring record, winning 17 out of 20 games, the Monarchs, on their second invasion of the north, will present the best team that has ever represented Monroe, it was said.

The team will play successive games in the following cities this week: Clarksdale, Miss.; Jonesboro, Ark., Osceola, Ark., Louisville, Ill., Hannibal, Mo., Mt. Vernon, Ill., St. Louis and Chicago.

Players making the trip were Manager Frank Johnson; Catchers Harry Else and Ernest Smith; Infielders Johnny Washington, Andrew Henderson, Clarence Lamar, Jiggs Maxwell; Outfielders Otis Henry, Jack Moore, Booker Harmon; Pitchers Hilton Smith, Barney Morris, J. B. Griffin, Arthur Johnson, Leland Foster, Hugh Little and Homer Allen.

All Indianapolis Track Record-Holders Entered In 500-Mile Automobile Classic Next Saturday

By Claude H. Wolff
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

INDIANAPOLIS, May 25. — (AP) — Holders of every track record for the Indianapolis speedway will be there stamping on the gas for further glory in this year's 500-mile auto race May 30.

They are Wild Bill Cummings and Leon Duray of Indianapolis, Kelly Petillo, Fred Frame and Babe Stapp of Los Angeles; Mauri Rose of Dayton, O.; and Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Cal.

Cummings set the track record for 500 miles last year, averaging 104,863 miles per hour. Duray drove the fastest single lap in the 26 years the track has been in use when he circled the 2 1-2 mile oval at 124.018 in 1928.

Duray also whipped the supercharger-equipped car around the course four times at an average speed of 122.391.

Petillo holds the 25-mile record of 119, also the single lap mark for two-passenger cars of 122. He made them last year. Duray rode alone when he made his records.

Frame Starred In '32, '33

Frame, winner in 1932, has four speedway marks to his credit—112 average for 100 miles, 111 for 125 miles, 110 for 175 miles and 110 for 200 miles (eliminating fractions in each case). All were made in the 1933 race. Motor trouble forced Frame out at 212 miles.

In the same race, Stapp set five records—111 for 150 miles, and 109 miles an hour for 225, 250, 275, 300 miles. He also failed to finish.

Meyer, the only driver of the present day group of stars to win the classic twice, roared around the rough brick track in 1933 to set four records He gave the drivers something to shoot at when he drove 107 for 325 and 350 miles; 104.458 for 375 and 104.677 for 400 miles. Meyer won in 1928 and 1933.

Rose, second last year, hung up a record for 425 miles, averaging 104.828.

Cummings Set 500-Mile Mark

Cummings, in winning in 1934, set new speed records of 105 for 450 and 475 miles, and 104.863 for the whole distance.

Drivers say their cars will be faster throughout the entire range this year than ever before and believe a flock of track records will be established.

Cummings, the national champion; Phil (Red) Shaffer of Des Moines, Ia., Deacon Litz of Dubois, Pa., and Wilbur Shaw—all veterans of speedway racing—share that view.

Cummings does not look for tremendous speed at the outset, as has been the case in most races in recent years, but he does believe the ultimate winner will average around 110 miles per hour for the distance.

Fuel and oil limitations will be in effect again. Each car will be allowed only 32 1-2 gallons of gasoline and six gallons of oil. Last year, when a limit was put on gasoline for the first time, 45 gallons were allowed.

In winning last May, Cummings nursed his car over the distance on 35 1-2 gallons, averaging about 15 miles. Not a car which started was eliminated because of fuel exhaustion.

Drivers say the track, always rough and full of dips, is no worse this year than it was twelve months ago. It has to be driven as no other course is driven. The veterans have found what they call a grove high on the course, and cutting sharply down track on the turns, but it can be found and held only by experts.

SUIT FILED TO STOP AUTO RACE

Neighbor Says Speed Test Is Nuisance; Williams Crashes Up

INDIANAPOLIS, May 25. — (AP) — Skids and legal threats marked the resumption today of qualifying trials for the 500-mile race to be run May 30 at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

A pilot tuning up for the trials wrecked his car on one of the treacherous turns and a householder living just across the road from the big track threatened through court action to ditch the entire race, contending that it is a public nuisance and a dangerous event.

The mishap occurred to the car driven by Merrill (Doc) Williams of Anderson, Ind. He was speeding at 100 miles an hour when his car suddenly scooted toward the outside retaining wall, rammed it and caromed to the inside wall. Williams escaped the fate of two drivers and a mechanic who died in similar accidents last Tuesday. Thrown clear of the machine as it skidded, he apparently suffered only a fractured ankle and bruises.

Bret Harte Billings filed the suit to halt the race and all future qualifying trials. At the request of Paul Y. Davis, speedway attorney, Judge Joseph R. Williams continued until Monday a hearing on Billing's petition.

Billings alleged that the speedway endangers the lives of persons on adjoining property as well as the lives of the drivers. His suit recalled the accident several years ago in which a four-year-old boy, playing in the yard of his home near the track, was killed by a wheel from a wrecked racing machine.

Billings further contended that the noise and "obnoxious odors" from the track are annoying.

PENN CREW DEFEATS NAVY IN CLOSE RACE

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 25.—(AP)—In a gallant battle to a finish so close that the last pull of the Quaker oarsmen settled the issue, Pennsylvania's smooth-sweeping varsity crew earned a scant two-foot triumph over Navy on the Severn river today to win the Adams cup race as President Roosevelt looked on.

The Quaker and Sailor eights fought down the stretch on such near even terms that the Pennsylvanians, with a mighty sweep of their oars, drove across the end of the mile and three-quarters course with a mere fraction of a length edge.

Pennsylvania's time in winning this informal eastern spring championship was 8:58.6, while the Sailors were but a tenth of a second slower. Harvard, rowing strongly but clearly out of the race before the halfway mark, finished a length and a half back of Navy in 9:03.1.

This was the first defeat of the season for Navy and left Pennsylvania unbeaten at the top of the eastern shells, along with Syracuse, victor in single races with Cornell, Harvard and M. I. T. The Quakers' triumph was so slim, however, that the Sailors will rank along with Penn as a threat in the big Poughkeepsie race.

The president, in a speed boat with Referee Charles Francis Adams, former secretary of the navy and donor of the Adams cup won by Navy in 1933 and Penn last year, followed the shells closely.

LAKESIDE FINAL SCHEDULED TODAY

Touchstone And Harberson Meet Again For Handicap Prize

H. K. Touchstone and Dr. R. T. Harberson will resume their battle for the championship of the annual spring handicap tournament at Lakeside Country club today. An 18-hole match is scheduled.

Last Sunday the two finalists tangled in a 36-hole battle and when it was all over, they were all square. However, they hope to settle the issue this afternoon.

Last Sunday Touchstone took a comfortable lead as a result of a "hot" first 18 holes, but his game went to pieces on the second 18, while Harberson's play improved and they finished on even terms.

Touchstone won the first flight of the tourney and Harberson took the second.

Another interesting championship match is scheduled for this week between Mrs. W. H. Roemer and Mrs. H. H. Reardon, who meet for the women's title. Mrs. Roemer defeated Miss Violet Meyer, 8 and 7, in one semi-final match last week and Mrs. Reardon triumphed over Mrs. C. C. Boardman, 5 and 4, in the other.

Both Mrs. Roemer and Mrs. Reardon are playing excellent golf and a close match for the title is expected.

Lions Play First Game At Brown Paper Mill This Afternoon

Oak Grove, which for the past several years sponsored a team in the Big Six league, has replaced Monroe as a member of the Ouachita Valley league, President Dent announced yesterday.

The Lions will get their first taste of Ouachita Valley baseball this afternoon when they meet the league-leading Brown Paper mill club at Brownville. The game will start at 3:30 o'clock.

"Mule" Fryer, veteran Big Six player, is manager of the Oak Grove team, which is sponsored by the E. L. Bruce Lumber company. The Lions have been playing independent ball so far this season.

The Brown club was scheduled to play the Monroe club at Forsythe park today and thus the game would have been transferred to Oak Grove, but the Oak Grove management agreed to go to Brownville in return for a later Sunday date at Oak Grove.

Oak Grove will assume Monroe's standing in the league. They are tied for third place with Fairbanks, with three victories and four defeats.

The Monroe club had been having difficulties under the management of Nick Bruscato and a week and a half ago direction of the cuub was taken over by Charlie Bruscato. Last week, however, Nick Bruscato asked that the club be turned back to him and his brother relinquished all interest in it. The surrender of the Monroe franchise followed. President Dent said yesterday that several Monroe players probably would join the Oak Grove club.

Manager Cary Phillips of the Brown team said either Nolan or Fields would pitch for the Safety Firsts today. There is no admission charge at the Brown park and the public is invited to witness the game.

Other Ouachita Valley league games today will find Ruston at Fairbanks and Sterlington at Swartz. The Ruston club has shown an improved brand of ball lately and may hand Fairbanks a surprise. Manager Fox's team won their first victory at the expense of Fairbanks and chalked up their second win against Monroe last Wednesday.

Swartz also has a chance to improve its standing by knocking off the Sterlington Engineers. If both Fairbanks and Oak Grove lose and Swartz wins, the Carbon Blackers will take undisputed possession of third place. Manager Bagwell has two promising young hurlers in Pittard and New to send against the Engineers.

Citizens of Madrid protested a proposal for ridding the city of beggars, saying that the beggars form one of the chief sights of the city and that their removal would cause visitors to go elsewhere.

ROSE BOWL FILM WILL BE SHOWN

Tulane-Southern Cal. Pictures To Feature Alumni Meeting Here

A feature of the meeting of the Tulane Alumni association here next Sunday night will be the showing of a feature-length picture of the Tulane-Southern California Rose Bowl game, it was announced yesterday by Dr. D. T. Milam, president of the district association.

Charlie Rucker, general manager of the Tulane association, who will accompany Dr. Wilbur Smith, athletic director, and other Tulane officials here, advised Dr. Milam that he would bring the film with the party if arrangements could be made to show it. Dr. Milam said it is probably that the picture will be shown at a local theater following the regular Sunday night program. However, arrangements for the affair have not been completed.

The Tulane party will be entertained with a barbecue early Sunday evening, Dr. Milam said. A committee has been appointed to make plans for the party and also to contact Tulane alumni throughout the fifth district in an effort to assure a large attendance. All former Tulane men are urged to attend.

Dr. Smith will head a party of five or six Tulane officials, it was said. Ted Cox, head football coach, and several other athletic notables probably will be included in the party.

Arrangements for the barbecue and theater party will be announced within the next few days, Dr. Milam said.

Detroit To Be Mecca Of State Clubwomen

Triennial Meeting Of General Federation Will Be Attended By Delegations From Louisiana

The stage is set for the triennial meeting of the General Federation of Women's clubs in Detroit. The curtain goes up on June 4 on what promises to be one of the largest and most distinguished conventions ever held by the federation.

Prominent speakers who have responded to invitations to address the convention are the Hon. Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture; Col. Franklin Knox, publisher of the Chicago News; Mr. Harper Sibley, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Dr. Cecil Fairfield Lavell, professor of history of thought of Grinnell college; and Mr. Ward M. Canady, assistant administrator of the Federal Housing administration.

Conspicuous among the legislative measures to be discussed is the Copeland bill. The objective of the bill is to eliminate untrue advertising of foods, drugs and cosmetics. Mass production of foods, drugs and cosmetics has brought with it mass production of false advertising and much "ballyhoo." Those who favor sterner measures sense the need of better regulatory measures against chiselers, frauds and quacks.

State chairmen are invited to sit upon the stage during programs arranged by the departments of which they are members, in order that they will receive full benefit of their particular programs. There will be opportunities for them to meet the chairmen of the departments and divisions of the general federation on June 4 at 10 a.m., when department conferences will be held.

Central Methodist church, where memorial services will be held on Sunday, June 9, is the oldest Methodist society in Detroit, being organized in 1810, the first Protestant society in Michigan territory. Dedicated in 1865, it is one of the few downtown churches left in Detroit. It is often said that it is one of the most "churchly" and satisfying religious edifices in Detroit, with its noble spire rising high in the heart of the business district This beautiful church is a perfect setting for the memorial services which have been planned.

Detroit is an automobile city. Many courtesies will be extended by manufacturers. Music by the Chrysler male chorus will be featured one evening; the Chevrolet Glee club will sing in the Belle Isle Shell on Play Day; on Sunday evening, delegates are to be the guests of the Ford Motor company in Orchestra hall, the program to be broadcast over CKLW, Columbia network.

Election of officers will take place on Monday, June 10. Teas and tours are announced as follows: Sunday, June 2—pre-convention tea honoring early arrivals. Tuesday, June 4—tea and style show. Thursday, June 6—tea at Detroit Federation clubhouse. Thursday, June 6—Art institute tour. Friday, June 7—candidate's tea. Monday, June 10.—tea for visiting P. E. O.'s. Tuesday, June 11—tour of Granbrook and Kingswood schools, June 8-10—other Art institute pilgrimages.

Last but not least to the feminine mind is, "What shall I wear?" The answer which comes from Detroit is that it is best to provide warm clothing as well as summer things, that it is actually hot in June and sometimes cool.

It is particularly significant to the members of the L. F. W. C. that national recognition was gained through the Club institute held at L. S. U. in April. Special attention was focused on the topic given by Mr. Fred Williamson, editor of the Monroe News-Star and Morning World, on "Effective Publicity Methods." It is the earnest desires of the retiring zone chairman, Mrs. Addison Thompson, Ruston, that the Club institute will become a permanent institution. It is recognized as a great constructive force and one which cannot be successfully inaugurated without a definite program.

Dr. Holmes Is Guest Speaker Of Review Club

Dr. Fadra Holmes Wilson, member of the education department of Louisiana State university, was the guest speaker of the Review club Thursday afternoon in the auditorium of Northeast Center of L. S. U. Mrs. Wilson, beautiful, piquant and vivacious and brilliant speaker, addressed one of the most appreciative bodies of women ever assembled at the college auditorium.

She found a new and interesting change in the psychological attitude of women of this city. There is a new and scientific attitude toward public affairs, according to this gifted speaker, who talked on the subject of "The Meaning of Real Citizenship." Mrs. Wilson said:

"One becomes a citizen at birth. The child should begin receiving training at an early age in the home, later in the school and on through life.

"Openmindedness is necessary for good citizenship. Learn to respect the rights and feeling of others.

"Another characteristic of good citizenship is discrimination. There are such things as truth, faith and friendship to which we can tie our faith, and make them real in our lives.

"Then the virtue of 'fellowship' is important. For two hundred years, people have been training for 'leadership' and the whole world was in the worst mess in all its history three years ago. So we should learn to participate, to follow, instead of everyone's trying to lead. We should stress cooperation instead of competition."

The great idea for many years has been to suppress the emotions, but Dr. Wilson suggests that "we cultivate our emotions, let religion be the center around which our emotions revolve, let that be the crystalizing element, for when religion is forgotten, morals grow loose. It is to religion that we must hang our ideals."

Then in summarizing, Dr. Wilson said "no citizen can find anything to live by so perfect as the golden rule, 'Do unto others as you would they should do to you,' but do it first, to quote the negro. Nobody else can do the work that God marks out for us."

Beautiful piano numbers rendered by Miss Caramena McIntosh and two song numbers rendered by Mrs. J. Norman Coon and Mrs. L. B. Burris added considerable luster to the afternoon's program.

BEARDED MATMAN MEETS LARUE IN MAIN EVENT

Promoter Bruscato Wants Leo Chained When He Leaves Ring

Leo, the bearded House of David matman who showed stadium fans last week a streak of wildness that had never been seen here before, will face the stiffest test of his short career next Wednesday night when he meets Frenchie LaRue in the main event of the weekly wrestling show at Roosevelt stadium.

LaRue is pretty mean himself but he hasn't faced anything like Leo in the local ring. So it may turn out to be a contest to see which can maim the other first.

Promoter Charlie Bruscato said last night that he's going to throw 'em in the ring and let them take care of themselves the best they can. In other words, no holds will be barred.

Leo, who looks and acts like a crazy man, gave several fans quite a scare last week and Promoter Bruscato has wired Art Mondt, Leo's manager, that his charge must be roped or chained when entering or leaving the ring.

"Leo apparently is all right until somebody makes him mad," Bruscato said last night. "However, I'm not taking any chances. For the safety of everyone concerned, Leo will be roped or chained."

Leo lost his match last week when he was disqualified in the second and third falls for continuous violation of the rules. He clubbed Swede Holmberg groggy in both falls and Referee Nick Elitch gave Holmberg the decision.

The House of David entry weighs 240 pounds and sports a bushy beard and long hair. He looks as mean as he acts.

LaRue, however, isn't impressed. When asked to meet Leo, he was warned that the Davidite would prove the wildest foe he'd ever met. Frenchie replied that he didn't care who he wrestled, just so the promoter had the necessary coin to lay on the line. Bruscato agreed to his price, and the match was booked.

"I have wrestled bigger and tougher men than this thing you call Leo," LaRue told Bruscato. "Although I have never seen him in action, I'll wrestle just any way he wants to make it."

Bruscato said he is attempting to book Joe Stecher, who beat Ernest Kelly last week, for the semi-final match. With the two toughies on the main event, the promoter believes the fans would welcome a little straight wrestling for variety's sake.

Both matches will be best two out of three falls, with a two-hour time limit on the main event and the semi-final limited to one hour.

JOHNSON LEADS AMERICAN LOOP

Philadelphia Outfielder Boosts Average To .421 During Week

CHICAGO, May 25.—(AP)—Bob Johnson, Connie Mack's Cherokee Indian home run hitter and fly ball hawk, is leading the American league batting race with hits to spare.

Johnson, a .307 batter for the Athletics last season, hoisted his current hitting mark 30 points during the past week's shelling to the somewhat dizzy heights of .421, unofficial averages through Friday's games revealed today. His lead was 36 points over Gerald Walker of Detroit last week's leader, whose average fell 48 points during the same period to .385. Most of the leaders suffered during the week.

Next to Johnson, who also tied with his teammate, Jimmie Foxx, in home run production at nine each, and Walker came these leaders: Foxx, .376; Gehringer, Detroit, .354; Roy Johnson, Boston, .345; Vosmik, Cleveland, .342; West, St. Louis, .330; Radcliff, Chicago, .325; Bell, St. Louis, .322, and Hayes, Chicago, .321.

Hank Greenberg of Detroit drove in nine more runs during the week to run his leading total in that department to 35, while Gehringer cracked out nine more hits to top the league with 46. Five were tied for the lead in doubles production at nine each. Manager Joe Cronin of Boston led with five triples and Almada of Boston had 10 stolen bases to his credit. Zeke Bonura of White Sox topped the circuit in runs scored with 28.

Although near the American league bottoms, the Athletics led the circuit in team hitting with a mark of .287, Detroit led in fielding at a .984 clip.

Four pitchers remained in the undefeated class during the week, Johnny Whitehead of the White Sox topped them by winning another for his sixth straight. Johnny Allen of the Yankees had a record of four straight while Vito Tamulis, Yankee freshman southpaw, and Jack Knott of the Browns each had three wins and no defeats. Tommy Bridges led in strikeouts with 38, a gain of five during the week.

Warfare Against Deans Becomes Serious Affair

National League Players Now Include Daffy In Arguments

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, May 25.—Circling the bases: The warfare against the celebrated Dean brothers around the National league is no press-agent affair. Rival jockeys have been "riding" the Cardinal pitching aces ever since the spring training season, although it is only recently that Paul or Daffy Dean has joined Dizzy as the target for the sharpshooters of opposing clubs. Al Todd, the big Philadelphia catcher, was all set to add the younger Dean to his knockout list after being "dusted off" in St. Louis. . . . Al connected with a haymaker and floored Dizzy Dean when they were playing in the Texas league. . . . Pepper Martin kept Todd from doing the same thing to Daffy. . . .

The fining of Catcher Bill Delancey of the world champions this week recalls his run-in with Umpire Brick Owens during the fifth game of the world series at St. Louis last fall. . . . Delancey was fined $50 by Commissioner Landis for using abusive language in disputing Brick's decision behind the plate. . . . Before taking disciplinary action Landis called in the principals. . . . First he listened with shocked ears to Owens' report. . . . Then he called in the Cardinal backstop and asked him if it was true. . . . "Sure, Judge," replied Delancey, "I said it, but I didn't mean anything personal" . . .

Matty Geis, Princeton's track coach, thinks either Jack Lovelock of New Zealand or Glenn Cunningham of Kansas, the past and present world record holders, may have to reel off the mile in 4.05 to be sure of beating Tiger Bill Bonthron in the forthcoming "race of the century." . . . Bonthron has returned to his alma mater to train for the event, scheduled June 15 as the feature of Princeton's second annual invitation meet. . . . Geis predicts Bill will again show the form that gave him three decisions in five races with Cunningham last year. . . .

Southern delegates are bringing heavy pressure on the U. S. L. T. A. to name Bryan (Bitsy) Grant on this year's European Davis cup jaunt. . . . The tennis moguls may not be fond of Grant socially but he's demonstrated he is a fighter, when the competition is keen, and he can hardly be as disappointing as some of our highly-touted stars have been abroad during the past half-dozen years. . . . He's entitled to a chance, whether or not he gets one of the favored assignments. Besides, the Wimbledon galleries would welcome Bitsy's antics. . . .

The New York Giants have yet to win the opening game of any series played so far this season on enemy ground. . . . They have been whipped on their first appearances so far in Boston, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Chicago. . . . One of the Dean boys may make it unanimous tomorrow. . . . Chuck Klein, reputed to be for sale by the Cubs, cost $125,000 in cash money when he was separated from the Phillies two years ago.

JUDGES WIN AGAIN

PINE BLUFF, Ark., May 25.—(AP)—Guy Paul, New Orleans youngster, pitched the league-leading Pine Bluff nine to a 6-2 victory over Columbus in an East Dixie game here tonight. Paul limited the visitors to five hits while his mates collected 11 safeties off Copeland.

HELENA, Ark., May 25.—(AP)—Pounding a brace of Greenwood hurlers for 14 blows, Helena downed the lowly Chiefs 10 to 3 in a one-sided contest here today. Kepler, on the mound for the locals, gave up ten bingles but kept them well scattered except in the eighth inning, when the Chiefs scored all of their tallies.

Score by innings:

LIONS WIN SLUGFEST

GREENVILLE, Miss., May 25.—(AP)—Greenville's East Dixie league Buckshots took a lacing from El Dorado in a free-scoring game here today in which the visitors lasted to win 14 to 11. El Dorado collected 14 safeties off the combined offerings of four Buckshot hurlers while the Arkansans tapped out a dozen hits off a quartet of local slabmen.

Score by innings:
El Dorado .....003 072 002—14 14 1

However, Jesse Owens Steals Show By Breaking 3 World Marks

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 25.—(AP)—Jesse Owens, spectacular Ohio State negro, gave one of the most amazing demonstrations of versatility in track and field history today as he shattered three world's records and equalled a fourth to dominate the 35th annual western conference meet.

Michigan won its fourteenth team championship, but instead of a runaway as had been expected, had to battle Owens and Ohio State down to the last event for the decision. The Wolverines amassed 48 points to 43 1-2 for the Buckeyes.

Owens climaxed his great afternoon's performance with a leap of 26 feet 8 1-4 inches in the broad jump, a new world mark.

Even without the astonishing leap which set him off in a class by himself as the all-time greatest broad jumper, the incomparable 21-year-old sophomore still would have turned in an almost matchless day.

Before surpassing the accepted world record of 26 feet, 2 1-8 inches for the jump, set by Chuhei Nambu of Japan in 1931, Owens tied Frank Wykoff's world 100-yard dash standard of 9.4 seconds.

After his jump he raced to spectacular world record-smashing triumphs in the 220-yard dash and the 220-yard low hurdles. Running by himself after the first few strides, he finished the furlong in 20.3 seconds. The performance was three-tenths of a second under Roland Locke's world record, shaded Locke's American mark of 20.5, and beat Ralph Metcalfe's collegiate mark of 20.4 seconds.

Apparently just as fresh as when he started, Owens completed his conquest of records by winning the low hurdles in 22.6 seconds, four-tenths of a second under the listed world standard held jointly by Charles Brookins of Iowa and Norman Paul, Southern California ace.

Owens' records will be offered for adoption as world marks. He did not use starting blocks, and the wind, brisk at first, died down.

Tulane-Georgia Game Is Switched To New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 25.—(AP)—The Tulane-Georgia football game next fall has been switched from Athens to New Orleans, according to the Tulane Alumni association.

The change of playing site of the Wave-Bulldog battle, to be played Nov. 9, gives Tulane one of the most attractive home schedules in the school's history with nine home games, including tilts with Colgate, Kentucky, Auburn, Louisiana State and Georgia.

triumphed 3 to 2 to take the series 2-1.

It was the third series of the western tour which they had won after spotting the home team the first victory.

Joe Moore's ninth inning homer provided the actual margin of victory which nullified a Chicago run in the last half of the inning on Augie Galan's double and two outs after the Giants had held a 2-1 lead through the early part of the argument.

While Phil Cavaretta, young Chicago first sacker, nullified two early Giant threats with great stops, the Cubs got the first run in the third inning. Kiki Cuyler led off with a double and scored on outs by Billy Jurges and Warneke. The Giants came right back with two in the fourth and never were headed.

MILEY, ROGERS MEET FOR TITLE

Betty Jameson And Dorothy Kirby Lose Tourney Semi-Finals

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 25.—Miss Marion Miley of Lexington and Miss Mary Rogers of Jacksonville, Kentucky and Florida state champions, today went into the finals of the Women's Southern Golf tournament.

Betty Jameson, 16-year-old defending champion from Dallas, Texas, lost her lucky rabbit's foot and was defeated 6 and 5 by Miss Miley.

Dorothy Kirby, Atlanta's 15-year-old former state champion, lost 3 and 2 to Miss Rogers over the 18-hole route of the Louisville Country club course.

Misses Miley and Rogers will meet for the championship at 36 holes tomorrow. Eighteen holes will be played beginning at 9:30 a.m., central standard time, and the other eighteen will start at 1:30 p.m.

Miss Jameson, who defeated Miss Miley, one up, in a 19-hole semi-final match of the Southern at New Orleans last spring, lost the rabbit's foot luck emblem she carried then just before the start of today's match.

"I must have lost it on the practice green this morning," she said.

Her game was ragged and she frequently missed putts that would have kept her in the running.

TIGERS WIN ODD GAME OF SERIES WITH BOSTON, 3-2

Browns in both ends of a doubleheader that brought fourth as great a variety of baseball happenings as any of the 29,098 cash customers could ask. The scores were 3 to 1 and 8 to 7.

The opener was a mound duel between Charley Ruffing and Merritt (Sugar) Cain, who made his first start for the Browns. Caln gave only six hits but lost when three of them were bunched with an error for two runs in the seventh.

Errors also cost the Browns the second game, fought out with home runs. After Johnny Broaca weakened in the ninth and Ed Coleman belted his second homer of the game with the bases full in the ninth to give St. Louis a 7-6 lead, the Yanks scored two in the ninth with the aid of misplays to win.

St. Joseph Clubwomen Hostesses At Function

Charming Social Affair Is Given in Honor Of Two Members, In Celebration Of Announced Engagement

The Cosmopolitan club of St. Joseph is one of the few clubs of the state privileged to boast a clubhouse of its own. Club women who attended a fifth district annual meeting in St. Joseph three years ago will recall the club house as an imposing colonial structure, situated in a grove of giant oak trees for which Louisiana is famous. In keeping with the structure, which bespeaks the proud aristocracy of the south, is the hospitality which is dispensed by the club members. It is the custom of the club to serve Louisiana coffee to their guests from a handsome antique silver service and extend other courtesies long associated with the deep south.

A charming social affair was recently arranged, complimentary to two members, Miss Willie Mae Johnson, whose engagement has just been announced, and Mrs. J. L. Lee, who will leave soon to make her home in Baton Rouge.

Officers of the club are Mrs. Thomas M. Wade, president; Mrs. E. H. Biggs, vice-president; Mrs. Albert Bondurant, recording secretary; Mrs. Alex Blackman, treasurer; Mrs. John Schuchs, corresponding secretary.

The program for next year is being planned by Mrs. C. B. Haddon, Mrs. J. C. Earnest, Mrs. J. C. McPherson and Miss Mable Skinner, who comprise the year book committee.

Mer Rouge

Sweet peas, hydranger and lilies formed the decorative theme in the reception suite of Mrs. H. H. Clark's home when she and her daughter, Mrs. Leslie Callaway, entertained their club and three extra tables of bridge players.

Miss Grace Carpenter won as high score prize a lovely breakfast set. Club high score prize, two handkerchiefs, went to Gertrude Whipple. High cut prize, a bath set, went to Mrs. C. M. Salley and low cut prize was won by Miss Frances Bell. Mrs. S. L. Sloan won consolation.

Delicious barbecued meat, potato salad, pickles, rolls, cookies and iced tea were served to the following: Mesdames C. M. Salley, Bill Hurst, Sam Oliver, Neal Oliver, Charles Givens, Patterson, Gill, Crow and Hurst of Bastrop, Hugh Tucker, Cornell Evans, Bob Parscells, Lee Roy Simms and Misses Gertrude Whipple, Nizel Ruff, Grace Carpenter and Frances Bell.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Buckner and children, Aylette, Billey and Lois, of Tallulah, have returned home after spending a week with friends and relatives.

Miss Enid Green, teacher of the seventh grade, of the Mer Rouge school, entertained her class with a picnic Wednesday at Whipple's lake. Twenty members of the class attended.

The Baptist Missionary society met with Mrs. McVea Higginbotham for its royal service and social program. Mrs. J. H. Edwards led.

A musical program was given at the Baptist church Sunday by a group from the Louisiana Baptist Children's home in Monroe.

Misses Maybeth Thibodeaux and Martha Davidson, teachers at Forest, were the week-end visitors of their parents.

Miss Norma Jean Evans has returned home after spending several days in Bonita with her grandmother, Mrs. Bob Harp.

Mr. Clare Mayo Clark, a student at Louisiana Polytechnic institute, was a visitor here over the week-end.

The level railway crossing at Water Eaton, on the London-Banbury-Covenery road in England, which is closed on an average of 40 times a day, is to be eliminated by the building of a $120,000 bridge.

CHAPTER XXV

There was a swirl of motion behind Mrs. Happ. Millicent's startled eyes saw the face of Sergeant Mahoney. His eyes were no longer smiling. His face was set in grim, uncompromising lines.

"Arrest that woman!" Mrs. Happ screamed.

Sergeant Mahoney stepped forward and said, "Just a minute, Mrs. Happ. What is it you were trying to say?"

"This girl," she said, pointing to Millicent, "is the one who threw the keys into the pond at the base of the fountain."

"How do you know?"

"I saw her."

"Are you willing to swear that you saw her throw the keys?"

"Well, I saw her leaning out of the window, and there was a splash in the fish pond."

"You saw her leaning out of the window?"

"Yes."

"Did you see her leaning out of the window before or after the splash in the fish pond?"

"Look here," she said in her most imperious manner, "you can't cross-examine me in this way. I'm telling you what I saw, and I don't want my word questioned."

"I'm not questioning your word," Sergeant Mahoney told her. "I'm only trying to get at the facts of the case. Now, where were you when this happened?"

"I was in the yard."

"Where with reference to the window out of which this young woman was leaning?"

"Directly below."

"Did you see her lean out of the window before or after the splash?"

"It was afterwards."

"You heard the splash?"

"Yes."

"Did you see it?"

"Well, not exactly. I heard the splash and turned toward the pond.

"And then what did you do?"

I saw the ripples in the pond."

"Then I looked up and saw this young woman leaning out of the window."

"How did you know she had thrown the keys into the pond?"

"I felt certain of it."

"Why?"

"Because of the expression on her face and because I had reason to believe she was the one driving Bob's coupe last night."

"What were your reasons for thinking that?"

"I knew she went somewhere."

"How did you know that?"

"Because her clothes were muddy."

"Who told you that?"

"Vera Duchene, my maid."

* * *

Mahoney shifted his gaze to Millicent. "What have you to say to to this?" he asked.

"Nothing."

Seargeant Mahoney gravely took Millicent by the arm. "May I ask where you were going?" he inquired.

"I was just going out."

"So it would seem. Why were you going out?"

"I had some things I wanted to do."

Sergeant Mahoney turned her back toward her own room. "I think," he told her, "you and I will have a little chat."

Millicent did not turn her head, but walked steadily down the corridor to her room. Sergeant Mahoney followed her, stood at one side to let her enter, smiled a polite but frosty dismissal to Mrs. Happ, then closed the door and, when Millicent had seated herself in a chair, perched himself on the edge of her bed.

"You were out last night?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Did you have Bob Caise's car?"

"Does it make any great difference?"

"It may."

"Very well, then. I had it."

"Why did you have it?"

"I was trying to follow an automobile."

"What automobile?"

"It was a sedan. The license number was 9J3410."

"Where did you see this automobile."

"At what time?"

"I don't know. It was some time during the night."

"And you tried to follow it?"

"Yes."

"Why?"

"Because I was interested in finding out to whom it belonged and where it was going."

"Who was driving it?"

"I don't know."

"A man or a woman?"

"A woman."

"You're not giving me a great deal of information," he told her.

She shrugged her shoulders.

"And you didn't follow this sedan to its destination?" he asked after a moment.

"No."

"Why?"

"Because the car I was driving ran out of gas."

"And then you returned home?"

"Yes."

* * *

He frowned for a moment, and said almost musingly: "You had the keys from the car. You used one of the keys to unlock the front door and let yourself in. Is that right?"

"Yes."

"And you did throw the keys into the fish pond?"

"Yes."

"Why didn't you tell me this before?"

"Because I was afraid to."

"Why?"

"I was afraid I'd be accused of something I didn't do, and I was afraid that I'd lose my job."

"Did you hear any shot in the direction of the chauffeur's quarters?"

"No."

"Did you see anyone near the chauffeur's place?"

"No."

"Did you talk with the chauffeur?"

"No."

"Did you shoot him?"

"No."

He stared at her moodily. "I think," he said, "you were running away just now."

"What if I was?"

"It would have been a very bad thing to do. The police would have caught you, and your flight would have been almost a certain sign of guilt."

Sergeant Mahoney watched her speculatively for a few moments, then took from his pocket a small automatic.

"Did you ever see this before?" he asked.

"Good heavens, no!" she said.

He extended it to her—the butt toward her.

"Take it," he said.

She started to reach for it, then instinctively recoiled from the weapon. "I don't want to touch it.

He reached across and placed it on the table by her right hand.

"That gun," he said, "is fully loaded."

"Will it go off?"

"Not unless you shoot it."

"Why should I shoot it?"

"I am giving it to you," he said, "so that if you want to make your escape, you can take this gun and get out."

She stared at him curiously. "You mean I should take this gun and threaten you or anyone who tried to stop me?" she asked.

"Yes, if that's what you want to do."

Knuckles sounded imperatively on the door. Sergeant Mahoney glanced at Millicent and called, "Who's there?"

"Detective Buchanan."

"Come in, Buchanan."

The door opened and Buchanan pushed his way into the room.

"I've got something!" he exclaimed.

"Got What?" Sergeant Mahoney asked him.

"Some woman was in Harry Felding's room last night. She was probably the one who fired the shot."

"How do you know?"

"I found a whisky flask in the bathroom. There were fingerprints on it. I've brought out those latent fingerprints with powder and I'm satisfied they're the prints of a woman's fingers."

"Where was this whisky flask?"

"In the bathroom."

"Did the woman drink the whisky out of the flask or out of a tumbler?" Sergeant Mahoney asked.

"Out of a tumbler."

"Any fingerprints on the tumbler?"

"They were rather badly smudged. I couldn't develop a clear latent from them. The tumbler evidently slipped out of her fingers as she set it down and it made a bad smudge of the fingerprints."

"Where is this flask?"

"I developed the latents and took it into Mr. Happ's study. I explained the circumstances to Mr. Happ and got him to leave his study. He gave me his key. The door is locked. I've telephoned for the department's fingerprint expert to come out and make photographs of the fingerprints."

Sergeant Mahoney seemed to be paying not the slightest attention to Millicent.

"What kind of whisky was it?" he asked. "Do you remember the brand?"

"Yes," Buchanan said. "It was rather an expensive brand of whisky. It's a brand you wouldn't expect a chuffeur to drink. It's a nine-year whisky, bottled in bond."

Without taking his eyes from her, Sergeant Mahoney said to Buchanan, "Write down the name of the brand of whisky on a piece of paper and pass it across to me, if you will please, Buchanan."

Detective Buchanan pulled a notebook from his pocket. He took a pencil and laboriously wrote a single word. Then he tore the page from the notebook and passed it across to Sergeant Mahoney. Sergeant Mahoney glanced at the word on the paper, nodded, folded the paper, and placed it on the table beside the automatic which he had previously placed there. He reached his right hand into his pocket, took out a pad of paper which he placed on the table. He held something in his left hand. Suddenly he got to his feet, smiled, and extended his hand to Millicent.

"Well," he said, "I'll be going."

Mechanically she gave him her hand.

Sergeant Mahoney's fingers closed over her right hand in a vise-like grip. She felt something slapped against her fingers. Then, before she could withdraw her hand, Sergeant Mahoney had snatched up the pad of paper and pressed her fingertips against it.

The Woman's club celebrated its first anniversary Wednesday with a flower show that proved to be one of much interest in West Carroll parish and its adjoining parishes. The show was held in the American Legion hut. A musical program was featured. Punch was served to the crowd of visitors after they signed the club register, which was kept by Mrs. M. H. Oconell.

Mrs. A. C. Monroe is president of the club, which has been quite active during the past year. One of its achievements, one considered an asset to the town, is a public drinking fountain built on the courthouse square.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 25.—(AP)—The cotton market took its lead again today from Washington and advanced 9 to 13 points net on advices that the Bankhead act would be extended through 1936.

While there had been little doubt in the trade that this step would follow, the official confirmation afforded prices a little stimulus when they advanced on light buying orders.

The 12-cent loan problem was left still hanging in the balance. While one report stated that senators had agreed to the extension of the act only on condition that the 12-cent loan be continued, President Roosevelt denied this at a press conference after his meeting with agricultural chiefs.

At the first call today active figures were 3 to 15 points higher, but part of the gains were wiped out when July closed at 11.94, Oct. at 11.76, Dec. at 11.82, and March at 11.91.

The first day's trading in May, 1936, found that position changing hands at 11.91. Trading was comparatively active.

Cotton futures closed steady at net advances of 3 to 13 points.

July was under pressure and closed only 2 points net higher, while later positions were 14 to 15 points net higher.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank

(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—Europe's gold standard troubles put a damper on stock market bullishness today and prices staged an orderly retreat. A few issues bucked the trend, but the list closed easy. Transfers approximated 550,000 shares.

Action of the Bank of France in boosting its discount rate from 3 to 4 per cent—it was raised Thursday from 2 1-2 to 3—tended to confuse traders, many of whom decided to adjourn to the sidelines pending further indications as to whether the gold bloc is nearing a collapse.

The franc responded to the efforts of the French authorities to stem the ebbing gold bullion tide by a sharp rally. It later yielded most of its advance, however. At the same time sterling suffered a technical reaction, although it later received support. The other gold currencies were heavy.

Cotton recovered briskly on expectations of a renewal of government loans to growers. Grains were in a declining mood as more favorable weather reports appeared. Bonds were irregular. Imported bar silver in New York was reduced 5-8 of a cent an ounce to 75 1-2 cents.

Among specialty shares that managed to buck the trend with moderate gains were Wilson and company, Eastman Kodak, Congoleum and Glidden. A fairly steady tone was exhibited by General Motors, Consolidated Gas, Southern Pacific, Sears Roebuck and American Tobacco "B." Issues about unchanged to off a point or so included American Telephone, Case, Deere, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Seaboard Oil, U. S. Steel, American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Westinghouse, Chrysler and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

In some quarters it was felt that if continental nations shelve the gold base American markets might be temporarily shaken. On the other hand, money market commentators believe this development will be inherently bullish as it will force leading nations to get together quickly on an international currency stabilization agreement. In addition, the more optimistic envisaged a flight of European funds to American securities as a result of the tottering gold bloc.

INDUSTRIAL--REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

NEW TIRE STORE IS OPENED HERE

J. G. Eberts Heads Twin City Tire Store At Hall And Harrison

The Knowles-Elliott Tire company has announced the opening of the Twin City Tire Store. This new venture gives Monroe and North Louisiana the largest, most complete and most modern tire rebuilding plant in this section.

The plant, which is located at Hall and Harrison streets in Monroe, will be under the personal supervision and direction of J. G. Eberts, who is widely known throughout the entire south as an authority on matters pertaining to tires. For the last 15 years he has served as field representative for the United States Rubber company, the world's largest producer of rubber. His association and experience with this large manufacturer qualifies him as an expert in solving tire troubles.

Mr. Eberts says that opportunities for development and growth which are so apparent in Monroe and North Louisiana, prompted him to come to the Twin Cities to go into business for himself. He is associated with Knowles-Elliott Tire company of West Monroe; who operate the only other complete and modern tire rebuilding plant in Monroe.

Knowles-Elliott Tire company, who introduced retreading to the car and truck owners of Monroe and vicinity, state that they are gratified by the whole-hearted support that they have received from their customers.

"It is a source of a great deal of satisfaction," says Mr. Elliott, "that the confidence placed in us by our customers has been amply justified by the performance of the tires which we have retreaded. When one considers that retreading was absolutely unknown in this section until introduced by Knowles-Elliott Tire company, it is astonishing that so many people have been willing to accept our word for it, that retreading is safe, economical, and entirely satisfactory."

Knowles-Elliott Tire company are serving nearly every user of fleets of trucks and cars in Monroe, as well as other towns in north Louisiana. "We sincerely thank our customers, and assure them that their interests will always be given careful attention by both Knowles-Elliott Tire company and the Twin City Tire Store," Mr. Elliott said.

SORORITY INITIATES 12 CANDIDATES HERE

Twelve candidates for membership in the Delta Beta Sigma here, a sorority composed of girls of high school ages, were initiated yesterday morning on downtown streets. The candidates danced and skipped along the sidewalk, made speeches on "soap boxes," washed clothes, cut out paper dolls, attempted to sell rocks as rock candy, worked as hair dressers among themselves on the streets, and went about wishing the public a "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year."

LOCAL TIRE STORE EXECUTIVES

FIRE INSURANCE BOARD HELPFUL

Industry Renders Useful Service To All Property Owners

About all the average person knows of the fire insurance industry is that it issues policies protecting homes, factories, farms and other physical property against the ravages of fire. But what is not commonly known is that the industry, through the National Board of Fire Underwriters, carries on other activities which are of inestimable benefit to the industries and individuals of the nation, according to Downes Brokerage, Inc., local insurance agents.

The national board periodically inspects all cities and towns above a certain size, and prepares exhaustive reports upon their water supplies fire departments, and fire alarm systems, pointing out defects and aiding in their correction. It likewise furnishes able and impartial engineering service to municipalities. Work such as this saves thousands of lives and millions of dollars worth of property that would otherwise be sacrificed to fire.

One of the most important of the board's activities, and one which directly effects practically every person, is the underwriter's laboratories. This organization conducts tests of building materials and supplies to determine how well they resist fire and prevent its spread. Machinery that presents a fire hazard is studied and classified. Fire extinguishing equipment is subjected to exhaustive performance tests. Such common household articles as electric irons, toasters, heaters and other electrical and gas devices are also studied in the laboratories, and, if found safe, are given a seal of approval which wise buyers always look for in purchasing equipment of that nature/

Services such as these, developed and continued by stock fire insurance, mean not only dollars in our pockets, but safer and more comfortable living for us all.

TESTS TO PROVE CHEVROLET COOL

New Turret Top Provides Both Comfort And Safety For Owners

Chevrolets that are cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter, as compared with previous models, are promised by the findings of official observers of the A. A. A. in which Master de luxe cars with solid steel turret tops were subjected to temperature tests in comparison with fabric roofed bodies. The tests were conducted under the tropical sun at Key West, Fla., the southernmost city of the United States. Serving with the members of the contest board of the American Automobile association as an assistant was Kaye Don, British sportsman who has set numerous speed records on land and water.

The test consisted of making simultaneous temperature records of interiors of turret-top cars under a blazing sun. All windows and ventilators were closed tight during the tests.

According to the findings of the testers, a Chevrolet announcement says, the steel top cars are slower to warm up when standing in the sun with all windows and ventilators closed, and are quicker to cool off after the ventilators are opened.

Slower heating is credited to three factors: First, the highly polished surface of the steel top deflects the heat rays; second, heat absorbed by the top is rapidly distributed over a great area by conduction, and dissipated by the cooling effect of areas not receiving the full heat of the sun; third, the special corrugated and checkered quarter-inch felt insulation, and the dead air space between this insulation and the headlining, effectively prevent the transmission of heat from the roof to the interior space.

The effect of the insulation in barring outside heat will apply similarly in cold weather to prevent the loss of heat from inside the car, so that the car that is cooler in the summer will be warmer in the winter.

PRIZES AWARDED TO ALL WINNERS OF BIG CONTEST

KENOSHA, Wis., May 18.—(Special)—Winners of the Nash-LaFayette retail salesmen's Demonstration Campaign contest recently conducted though the entire Nash distributing organization divided a total of more than 300 cash prizes.

Prizes were awarded by the factory for the largest number of demonstrations given during an established 21-day period. Cash bonuses, in many instances as high as $100, were given to salesmen making the greatest number of demonstrations in each of five sales divisions. Every salesman who scored 60 demonstrations during the 21-day period received a prize of at least $10.

Synchronized springing, an exclusive feature on Nash and LaFayette cars, was featured in every demonstration ride given during the contest.

PONTIAC SAFETY DRIVE SUCCESS

Questioned about the value of the Pontiac safety drive which he has carried on during the months of April and May, Mr. Harbour, service manager of Union Motors, Inc., yesterday pronounced it an unqualified success.

"We were unquestionably able to help many automobile owners," he said in a brief interview. "Not only did we succeed in making owners conscious of the fact that a safe car was essential to safe driving, but we also were able to point out how easy it is to drive safely.

"I liked the idea of the Pontiac safety drive, but I have impressed on our men that safety is not a subject that can be emphasized for two months of the year and then forgotten for the rest of the time.

"Safety is not a matter of a campaign or drive, but a matter of forming correct driving habits and maintaining cars in proper operating order at all times."

STORES WILL CLOSE EARLY ON JUNE 10

The 5 p.m. closing hour for members of the retail merchants' division of the chamber of commerce will not go into effect until June 10, it was announced Saturday by E. Jack Selig, chairman.

The date was originally set for June 3, but at the time it was not known that the graduation exercises of the Neville High school would not be held until June 7.

PRESENTED WITH BAG

FARMERVILLE, La., May 25.—(Special)—C. C. Murphy, principal of Farmerville high school, was presented with a gladstone bag by members of the faculty of the institution at the commencement exercises for the school Thursday night. It was given to him as a token of appreciation for his work in behalf of the school.

HASTE CAUSE OF MANY ACCIDENTS

Fluker Agency Urges Care In Attempting To Save Few Seconds

"Haste," according to the Fluker Insurance agency, "causes nine out of ten automobile accident deaths."

There are various forms of hasty driving—all of them reprehensible, all generally unnecessary. Exceeding the speed limit is the most common form—and is the most important single cause of fatal accidents. Reckless driving—such as cutting in and out of traffic, passing on hills and curves, etc.—is another form. So is driving on the wrong side of the road. So is usurping the right-of-way—which is an especially prolific source of accidents, serious and minor, in towns and cities.

Last year haste in its many forms was the direct cause of about 30,000 deaths, to say nothing of hundreds of thousands of injuries, and property damage running into the millions. At best, those hasty drivers might have saved a few seconds or a few minutes by being reckless—they might have reached some distant objective half an hour sooner than if they had driven carefully. What a price they and their innocent victims paid for that potential saving in time.

For every driver who is hasty because of a genuine need to get somewhere in a hurry, a hundred drivers are hasty for no sound reason at all—because they are congenitally careless, irresponsible or incompetent. How long are we going to permit these drivers to sacrifice thousands of lives a year on the altar of recklessness?

Thirty-six mothers of Kneiting, Central Babaria, who have produced a total of 301 children, one having 16 offspring, have just been given the new Nazi "honor card" for women who present the state with five or more children.

PICTORIAL REVIEW OF WEEK'S SCREEN ATTRACTIONS AT LOCAL THEATERS

Marlene Deitrich, often called the most glamorous star in pictures, in a story that fiercely dramatizes her devastating allure, comes to the Paramount theater Tuesday and Wednesday in "The Devil Is A Woman." She plays the part of Concha, the most sought-after woman in Spain—and the most hated.

John Erskine, novelist, humorist, professor, wrote the story on which "Bacheler of Arts," the new Fox picture, is based. This film, which comes to the Capitol theater Monday, stars those two lovable youngsters, Tom Brown and Anita Louise. It is said to be a real human picture of college life as it is lived, loved, learned and laughed.

Jack Holt, perennially popular star, portrays a superstitious horse lover in the comedy drama, "Unwelcome Stranger," now at the Capitol. Mona Barrie, beautiful and auburn haired, is his leading lady.

An old maid school teacher is always one jump ahead of her nearest rival, a hard-boiled police inspector, when it comes to solving baffling crimes in the RKO-Radio mystery-thriller, "Murder On A Honeymoon," featuring Edna May Oliver and James Gleason. When a man dies on a seaplane between Los Angeles and Catalina Island, Miss Oliver knows it's murder and proves it. Mr. Gleason comes in second. It's at the Capitol Tuesday and Wednesday.

Fine Cast Is Featured In Masterpiece

Jeanette MacDonald And Nelson Eddy In Operetta At Paramount

JEANETTE MacDONALD, heroine of "The Merry Widow," and Nelson Eddy, noted American baritone who demonstrates that he is destined to be one of the screen's great new leading men, are teamed in a delectable blend of drama, romance and music in "Naughty Marietta," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's translation of the Victor Herbert masterpiece which opened Saturday at the Paramount Theater.

Retaining the gorgeous music of the operetta, the picture is produced as a thundering drama of New Orleans in the Creole days, with the famous "Marriage Auction," the savage battles between troopers and pirates, the importation of the Casquette Girls and other vivid detail. Settings and costumes are gorgeous, old St. Louis of the period and its people being reproduced on a lavish scale.

Miss MacDonald plays the French princess who, to escape a marriage of state, flees to the new colony of Louisiana where she meets her romance in the British captain, played by Eddy. Clever dramatic artists both, with gorgeous singing voices, they make a perfect team.

W. S. Van Dyke directed the picture, injecting many artistic touches. The battle sequences are specially thrilling. Elsa Lanchester is intriguing as the wife of the governor, played with whimsical comedy by Frank Morgan, Walter Long and Douglas Dumbrille provide menace, and comedy is in the hands of Edward Brophy and Harold Huber as the two sergeants. Akim Tamiroff, Joseph Cawthorne, Cecilia Parker, Greta Meyer, Walter Kingsford and others have roles that they fill more than satisfactorily.

The huge replica of old St. Louis, the palace of Paris, and the great Governor's Ball are among the spectacular highlights, artistically photographed by William Daniels. Herbert Stothart handled the orchestra details with skill.

Screen Life In Hollywood

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Movieland short short-story:

Film writers get fewer fan letters than film stars, and virtually all their fan mail comes from people who want to be writers. One day recently, to a prominent screen scrivener of many hits, came a letter that, for some reason, arrested his attention.

It was from a boy who wanted something besides advice. The youth wanted a typewriter. But it was not a "begging letter." He wanted to earn money to buy a typewriter. With a machine to wing his words, the boy thought, he would be taking the first step toward success.

The letter revealed a background of poverty, the return address was a local flophouse, but it also revealed, through its style and general tone, the sparks of what our successful writer deemed a talent.

No Good at 'Props'

The writer did an unusual thing. He granted the lad an interview, liked him, and got him a job at his studio in the property department. There are embryo writers—even successful ones—in every department of a studio.

The boy worked and saved and talked of the typewriter he would buy. But one day the writer realized that for several days he had not seen his protege. He went down to "props."

"What's happened to my young friend down here?" he asked the head man.

"Oh, I had to let him go," was the reply. "Too clumsy. No good at handling props. Look at that—it's no good since he dropped it the other day. That's why I fired him."

The writer looked. "That" was the jangled remains of what had been once a typewriter—a machine for winging words. . . .

Lot-Talk

Gary Cooper, by popular vote, is the "America's Sweetheart" of Japan. . . . The cycle of "classics" continues: "Oliver Twist" with Freddie Bartholomew and Boswell's "Life of Samuel Johnson" are among the new ones set for production. . . . Carole Lombard will get her first chance at comedy since "Twentieth Century" in "Hands Across the Table," saga of a manicurist. . . . Donald Meek, more than any other actor, seems perfectly to characterize his name in his screen roles. . . . He is the little fellow who takes a terrific beating in "Village Tale," the mild, inoffensive "suspect" in "The Informer."

William Gargan, with a penchant for pets, acquired three new turtles which he has named Clayton, Jackson and Durante. . . . He also has a goldfish named Eddie Cantor. . . . But that's nothing. . . . Ann Dvorak's cow is called Greta Garbo. . . . A Christmas day custom Pat O'Brien observes is the burning of Irish peat in his fireplace. . . .

Jack Holt Is Star Of New Capitol Film

'The Unwelcome Stranger' Is Tale Of Race Track Superstitions

Jack Holt, veteran Columbia star, begins his nineteenth consecutive year of stardom with his portrayal of a superstitious horse-lover in the film. He is cast as the wealthy owner of a stock farm who considers orphans his jinx.

Mona Barrie, beautiful auburn-haired actress, plays opposite Holt. She was featured with him in "I'll Fix It," recent Columbia production, as a charming school teacher. In her current picture, she is seen as Holt's lovely young wife, the mistress of his rambling estates. Her performance is rated the most dramatic of her career.

For the role of the crippled young orphan who complicates the story by ingratiating himself into Holt's affections, Jackie Searl, outstanding boy actor, was chosen. Regarded in the film colony as the most versatile of screen youngsters, he is usually seen in unsympathetic characterizations. "The Unwelcome Stranger," however, presents him as a lovable lad who is willing to sacrifice his own happiness for the sake of those he loves.

In support of Holt, Miss Barrie and young Searl are seen Ralph Morgan, Bradley Page, Frankie Darro, Mary MacLaren, Claudel Kaye, Don Chapman and Sam McDaniel. Page consistently popular "villian," enacts another of his villianous roles as the crooked betting commissioner. Young Darro, who was featured in "Broadway Bill," is again seen as a jockey in "The Unwelcome Stranger."

"The Unwelcome Stranger" presents the virile Jack Holt as a man who was tough, hard-boiled, scared of nothing, until a stranger ruined his luck and shattered his romance. The story was prepared for the screen by Crane Wilbur, actor and playwright. Phil Rosen directed.

After the serving of luncheon, games of bridge and golf were enjoyed by the members and their guests. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Fred Coats, Mrs. George T. Madison, Mrs. Charles Snyder and Mrs. D. M. Quinn for high score, low score, little slam and consolation in the bridge games, with Mrs. C. N. Dalton winning the prize on the links.

The members present were Mesdames Ferd Wolff, George T. Madison, R. H. Williams, G. H. Beekman, J. B. Bennett, Fred Coats, Barham Conger, C. N. Dalton, W. P. Douglass, F. V. Garnier, E. L. Colburn, Jake Kern and T. A. Murchie.

Miss Tina Collins acted as hostess in the home of Mrs. Chas. Kroemer to the Ladies' Altar society of the Catholic church when they met on Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was opened with a prayer by Father Martin Walsh. Reports were heard from the various committees. The members presented Mrs. C. L. Mengis, who is moving to Monroe, with a beautiful piece of tapestry as a remembrance. A delicious confectionery course was served to Mesdames C. C. Davenport, F. K. Perry, C. L. Mengis, J. L. Alverson, Y. Scheidt, Chas. Kroemer, Miss Tina Collins, Annie Domino and Rev. Father Martin Walsh.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Murchie in Jefferson street was the scene of two delightful affairs last week, when they entertained in honor of their niece, Miss Mildred Batchelder of Los Angeles.

Monday evening's compliment was a bridge party with Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Billington, Mr. and Mrs. Bowman Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Tuesday afternoon was made pleasant for Miss Batchelder when Mrs. Murchie arranged a party for both the Tuesday and Wednesday bridge clubs and added extra guests. The reception suite was beautifully decorated with a profusion of sweet peas and waxen lillies, and tables were covered in crisp pastel linen covers.

Mrs. Murchie presented Mrs. W. M. Meeks with guilt-edged bridge cards for high score and Mrs. H. I. Seligman with a lovely imported vase for second high score. Mrs. Archie Bain McBride was given a set of crystal coasters as a consolation prize.

Of interest to their many friends is the marriage of Miss Willie C. Johnston to Mr. Murphy Oliver, which was solemnized Saturday, March 9, in Hamburg, Ark. Announcement of the wedding was withheld until last week.

Miss Johnston is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben C. Johnston of this city and Mr. Oliver is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Oliver of Douglasville, Texas. The young couple are now residing at the home of Mrs. A. D. Buford in North Washington street, where they are receiving the felicitations of their friends.

A STAMPING CORNER

By W. J. KIRBY

"Our readers have been using their microscopes on the new Connecticut stamps," says Linn's Weekly Stamp News, "for one wag insists that he has found the Democratic donkey perched up in the branches of the tree, while a lady reader insists there is a Democratic rooster sticking his head out of the bushes behind the tree."

Father Jose de Anchieta, "the Apostle of the New World," has been honored with a new set of four values issued by Brazil. Anchieta, son of a banished Spanish nobleman, not only rates this commemoration because of his religious work among the Indians of South America. At one time the Tamoya Indians attacked the Portuguese, and utter defeat seemed inevitable. Anchieta journeyed alone to the camp of the Indian chief, where he persuaded them to consent to a truce, offering himself as a hostage to guarantee that terms of the truce would not be broken by his countrymen. He lived with the Indians for three years, until the terms of the truce were all fulfilled. The design is very simple, showing the missionary, with a large cross in his hand, at the head of a group of Indians. Values in the set are: 200 reis, yellow brown; 300 reis, purple; 700 reis, blue; 1000 reis, green.

To commemorate the flight of the first air-train, Miami to Havana to Miami, a new air-mail stamp has been issued by Cuba. The design is the same as the regular Cuban air-mail stamp, except that the color was changed to red, and the stamp overprinted in black:

PRIMER TREN AERO
INTERNACIONAL. 1935

O'Meara y duPont 10 cts.

The stamp was issued both perforate and imperforate, only a limited number being printed. The Cuban authorities are to be commended for this change of color, as this will no doubt prevent unscrupulous persons faking the overprint.

The grebe makes love to its mate by presenting her with nesting material.

HEAT LOSSES REDUCED WITH NEW GLAZING

Multiple Method Of Installation Conserves Wormth Of Houses

New inventions are doing much to reduce heat losses from buildings through glass. Just as the insulation of walls, floors, and ceilings, a comparatively recent development, increased efficiency of heating and reduced fuel costs, multiple glazing of windows now makes possible other savings in fuel consumption.

Interest of property owners is more widespread in this activity during the spring and summer months, since many glass installations are made during warm weather, according to building authorities.

Loss Estimated

It is possible that as much as half the total heat loss from a building may occur through glass areas, particularly with the tendency toward the use of large and numerous windows in modern structures. With the recognition of this fact, multiple glazing and the value of glass masonry increases in significance, because it offers a major opportunity for the reduction in heat losses in winter.

Several methods of window design and construction for minimizing heat losses have been developed, according to information furnished the Federal Housing administration, which is insuring loans for the modernization of existing homes and the construction of new ones. Storm sash is the oldest method in use. To be effective these sash must be tightly fitted to reduce air infiltration to a minimum. A variation of the storm-sash method is the installation of two conmplete windows, each permanently installed and suitably weatherstripped. Some experts consider that the large space customarily used between panes in both the storm-sash and double-window methods to be less effective than a mere limited space, such as approximately one-half inch.

Modern Variation

A modern variation of the storm-sash method is convenient in that double glazing is used in ordinary double-hung or casement sash, the double glazing consisting of two panes of glass separated by suitable stops. Air within the space should be dehydrated to prevent condensation between the panes, and the two panes should be hermetically sealed. A variation of this type of window is a specially constructed double hung or casement sash with a special rabbeted frame that permits the inner glass to be detached for cleaning the surfaces enclosing the dead air space.

The resulting reductions in heat loss due to double or triple glazing with approximately one-half inch air space between the panes, may be as much as 50 and 70 per cent, respectively.

FIND HOUSING PLAN FUNCTIONS PROMPTLY

HANCOCK COUNTY, Miss.—Leo M. Seal, president of the Hancock County Banks of Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian, and Gulfport, recently visited Federal Housing headquarters and said that his first application had "cured him of the belief that no government agency could function promptly."

The first application presented to his bank, Mr. Seal said, was completed in 6 days from the date of application. He told the state director that he has instructed his three banks to accept requests for all loans that the Federal Housing Administration will insure. He explained further that he has written Senators Pat Harrison and Theodore Bilbo in Washington expressing his delight over the operation of the Federal Housing Administration.

SHOWER COMFORT

Probably nothing rejuvenates the tired business man or worker or affords more pleasure and enjoyment to the children on a hot, sultry day than a good shower bath. Showers may be installed under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing administration.

AN OAK GROVE HOME

The above cut is a reproduction of the architect's drawing of an English style residence now under construction for Mr. D. B. Fiske of Oak Grove, La. Mr. J. A. Harper of Crowville, La., was the successful contractor at a figure of $8,500.00. The residence will be of brick veneer and half timber construction with stone trim. The roof will be a green asbestos shingle laid American method. The interior walls and ceilings are to be finished in textone. Parquet floors are to be laid in the living room, dining room and den. The remainder of the house is to have hardwood floors. A title bath of modern design is also included. In connection with the house will be a two-car garage. The residence is expected to be completed by June 15.

COOPERATIVE PLAN INDICATES RESULTS

OSWEGO, N. Y.—The cooperative plan between contractors and home owners here has resulted in the preparation of actual contracts or definate estimates totaling $42,000.

The cooperative method of furthering the better-housing program was instituted in Oswego about a month ago. Through this plan salesmen representing a contractors' association contact home owners and acquaint them with the possibilities of modernization. Next, an architect affiliated with the contractors' association prepares plans and estimates, which are then submitted to the home owner by the salesmen. The completion of contracts has been speeded up by this method.

Up to the present time 418 property owners in Oswego have been reached by the canvass. Much of the work is being financed by home owners through ordinary bank loans, but up to March 30 jobs valued at $15,283 had been financed under the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration through local banks and financial agencies.

REWIRE FOR SAFETY

The insulation on electric wires laid under rugs receives considerable wear, and may break and result in a severe and dangerous fire. Such danger can be largely eliminated by rewiring the home to provide for a sufficient number of outlets for all lighting and power accessories, including lamps, radio, toaster, and other appliances.

REPAIRS, THEN RENTS HIS 'DEAD' PROPERTY

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Through modernization the owner of a rental property here succeeded in reviving what has been for two years a "dead" property.

Although he offered the building for a very low rental, it had been vacant for over 24 months. The task of modernizing the 7-room, 2-story structure was begun. The owner expects to convert the building into two 4-room apartments at a cost of $2,000. Although the work is not yet completed, numerous people have expressed their desire to rent the apartments, when completed, for more than the owner formerly asked for the entire house.

PAINT FOR LIGHT

It is good practice to apply a white or very light-colored finish in painting light shafts, inside courts, ventilated skylights, and other walls which enclose areas within or between buildings and which contain openings intended to admit sunlight or daylight. This will make possible a maximum of light reflection to the interior. A dark red light shaft, for example, will only reflect about 15 or 20 per cent of the light that enters it, while a reflection value as high as 80 per cent may be obtained in a shaft painted with a white or light-colored paint.

An outstanding producer of palm oil, Nigeria exported 136,000 tons of the product in 1930.

SWP HOUSE PAINT

The Modern Multi-pigment Paint

You can tell the difference between SWP and a single pigment and oil job. The SWP job is glossy, fresh and smart looking. The single pigment job appears prematurely dull, dirty and shabby looking—even though protection may still remain in the paint. This is usually true because single pigment and oil paint has less control of "chalking"—weather roughens it, and dirt and soot cling to its roughened surface. Modern SWP with its Multi-pigment, balanced formula, produces a clean "just painted" kind of job that stays lastingly beautiful. There is one sure way to get a lasting and economical paint job—insist on SWP.

Let us show you how little it will cost to give your house a REAL coat of paint—SWP.

CENSUS TAKERS ARE NAMED HERE

Will Start Saturday, June 1, To Canvass Entire Parish

Names of enumerators for the quadrennial census to be taken in Ouachita parish during the month of June, were announced Saturday at the office of T. O. Brown, Ouachita parish school superintendent. All enumerators, as required by law, hold teachers' certificates. The enumerators and the wards in which they are to make the enumeration are as follows:

Ward 1, Ben Rush; ward 2, J. E. Sapp; ward 3, Leo Hartman, J. F. Craig, Roy Nichols; ward 4, Clifford Roberts; ward 5, G. W. Welch, Charles Ehy, E. H. Williamson; ward 6, G. S. Manning, L. D. Willis; ward 7, S. M. Rutledge; ward 8, J. W. Rutledge; ward 9, C. W. Krumm; ward 10, George Roser, Harry Brown.

Four negro teachers are assisting. They are R. H. Miles, Henry Carroll, W. H. Howell and James Patterson.

All persons from birth to 18 years of age are to be listed in the census and special pains will be taken to make it a complete record, it was stated. It is expected that the canvassing period will not require more than 10 to 15 days' time.

A meeting of canvassers was held Saturday morning in the offices of Superintendent Brown where Mrs. Christie Williams, supervisor of parish elementary education, explained the work and assigned blank forms to all who are to be engaged in the work which will start on Saturday, June 1.

Similar census work will be conducted in all parishes of the state under the direction of T. H. Harris, state superintendent of education.

HUNDREDS HOMELESS IN LOUISIANA FLOOD

First State Witnesses In 'Legs Murder' May Be Heard On Monday

LAUREL, Miss., May 25.—(AP)—Under the judicial lash of Judge W. Joe Pack, selection of a jury began to take shape today in the trial of W. M. Carter, 67-year-old Laurel business man, charged with the murder of Mrs. Daisy Keeton, Laurel widow and victim in the famous "legs murder case."

The judge told contending counsel that there would be no recess of court before midnight unless a jury was selected to try the case.

After that admonition seven jurors were selected and the examination and acceptance of jurors went forward at a rapid pace.

If the jury is completed tonight the first state witnesses are to take the stand in circuit court Monday.

Three days have been spent in the selection of a jury from a special venire of 200 in a grind of questioning in an effort to find 12 men who have agreed that they are unbiased, have no fixed opinion about the guilt or innocence of the accused man and have no conscientious scruples against the infliction of the death penalty "in proper cases."

Many of the veniremen were excused by the court for cause, after either volunteering opinions, or after admissions of "prejudgment" had been elicited by defense or state's attorneys.

The state today issued subpoenas for 42 witnesses, practically all of whom testified at the trial of Ouida Keeton, 33, who was convicted of murder at the February term of court and sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary. She is now awaiting the outcome of an appeal of her case to the state supreme court. Ouida is the daughter of Mrs. Keeton.

The comely Ouida, apparently much recovered after what her attorneys termed a physical and mental breakdown at her own trial which she attended in a wheel chair, is expected to take the stand against her former employer, the elderly Carter, with whom she admitted intimate friendship. At her trial the state introduced in evidence an oral statement attributed to the then mute Ouida, who pleaded insanity as a defense, in which she said that Carter killed her mother, and disposed of the major portion of the mutilated body. Officers said Ouida declared her mother had been killed so she and Carter might "enjoy more privileges."

Total expenditures of the entire household of Henry VIII for food and drink amounted to a sum equivalent in modern currency to about $1,750,000 annually.

STATE SPECIALIST ATTENDS MEET OF HOME CLUBS HERE

A demonstration in selecting flowers and vegetables and arranging flowers for entering in a vegetable and flower show to be held here June 8, was conducted at a meeting of the Ouachita Parish Home Demonstration council yesterday afternoon at the courthouse by Miss Bertha Lee Ferguson, state garden specialist.

Eleven home demonstration clubs of the parish are to enter booths in the show, which is sponsored by the Ten-Year club of the parish home demonstration clubs, with the cooperation of the Monroe Kiwanis club. Each club will also enter two decorated automobiles in a parade in connection with the opening of the show.

The council selected June 13 as the date for its annual "Achievement Day" picnic, and appointed a committee to select the location for holding the picnic. Members of the committee are Mrs. J. B. Landreaux, of Claiborne, Mrs. Sidney Stewart, of Calhoun, and Mrs. L. J. Bowen, of the Colony community.

Further plans for conducting the flower and garden show were discussed by the council.

At the close of the meeting, flowers used in the demonstration were sent to relatives of the council members who are ill at St. Francis sanitarium.

Friday, Miss Ferguson conducted a similar demonstration at Rayville for Richland parish home demonstration clubs. She also attended a meeting of the clubs' nutrition leaders. Annual reports of the leaders were rendered.

M'GEE DECISION SLATED MONDAY

Governor To Decide Whether Mary McElroy's Kidnaper Must Hang

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 25.—(AP)—Governor Guy B. Park announced tonight that he will release Monday his decision as to whether Walter McGee must hang for kidnaping Mary McElroy—and in Kansas City McGee prayed long in his cell.

Announcement of the decision was planned today, but an attack of indigestion confined the governor to his bed.

McGee's attractive victim, Miss McElroy, daughter of H. F. McElroy, city manager of Kansas City, pleaded recently with the governor to commute his sentence to life imprisonment after he had exhausted every recourse to the courts.

"I was so nervous last night," McGee said when informed of the delay. "Then I thought about praying. I prayed all night long. Say, I sure hope the governor doesn't put that rope around my neck." He is scheduled to die May 31.

McGee's brother, George, who guarded Miss McElroy while she was a prisoner for 9 hours in a basement in May, 1933, is serving a life term. Clarence Click, another member of the kidnap gang, was sentenced to eight years.

McGee was the first kidnaper ever sentenced to death for such a crime in this country.

Mineral Springs Settlement Is Free Of Debt; No Relief Needed

There is a little-known community in Ouachita parish where the people own their homes and are not in debt; where they have been successful in putting into operation a live-at-home program; where they have learned to cooperate for the good of all the people in the community.

And this community is entirely populated by negroes!

It is the Mineral Springs community for negroes, located in the western part of Ouachita parish.

It has an ideal school, a grist mill, a cooperative truck farm, a church and comfortable homes.

Learning to do by doing and putting into actual practice what they have learned is bringing success and recognition to the community.

But let no less an authority than T. H. Harris, state superintendent of education, who recently visited the community, tell about it. Mr. Harris declares that he is inclined to rank it among the foremost communities of its kind in the state.

"It would be fortunate indeed if the conditions found in this school and this school community could prevail in all parts of the state," Mr. Harris said.

"The principal of the school, Samuel Emanuel, is a graduate of Southern university agricultural department.

"The school has 10 grades and the boys in the upper grammar and the high school grades study agriculture. The principal discusses with these boys in their class work the various problems of agriculture in which they demonstrate at home the agricultural principles learned in the classroom," the superintendent continued.

"Each has an agricultural enterprise which he carries through his school courses. Some choose poultry; others, hogs; others, farm crops, etc. In school they learn what they can concerning these agricultural enterprises, and on their farms or in their gardens they put into actual practice what they have learned. In other words, they are learning to do by doing.

"The teacher of home economics has been trained in that field and she does for the girls what the teacher of agriculture does for the boys, and the girls also put into practice at home what they learn in school.

"The Mineral Springs school is in the center of a negro community. Practically all the people for several miles around are negroes. I was told that eighty per cent of these negroes own their homes and that their homes are free of mortgage. I was told further that nobody in that community is on relief and that throughout the depression only two persons in the community have been on relief, and one of these was selected by mistake," Mr. Harris pointed out.

"The men of the community have an organization, the purpose of which is to promote the best interests of this farming population. The women have an organization with the same purpose in view.

"Both organizations met at the school while I was there and representatives of both made reports. These reports represented about the best speeches that I have heard in many, many a day.

"Their substance was: These people have learned to live at home. They raise the corn, potatoes, chickens, eggs, hogs, vegetables, etc., needed for their table use. They do not have to buy any of these things.

"They can large quantities of berries, fruits, meats and vegetables, and the result of all this is that there is never any danger of hunger in the families living in the community. They fared very well during the hard times and there has been little or no suffering among them."

GIVE GROUNDS NEEDED CARE, FHA URGES

Garden Treatment Is Important Spring And Summer Activity

Planting, pruning and trimming shrubbery takes a prominent place in home beautification during the spring and summer months, the Federal Housing administration points out.

In improving the general appearance of grounds about the house, dead branches on trees and shrubs should be neatly trimmed and either disposed of or stacked in a fertilizer bin where they may decay until usable as fertilizer.

Not only should dead wood be removed but trees should be trimmed in accordance with good landscaping principles so that desirable branches will develop. Elms, for example, used for street trees and along driveways should be trimmed so that they will gradually develop a spreading top like a giant umbrella. Spruce is most effective when developed as a towering green spire. The dense crown of the hard maple is striking as a bushy ball in which the yellow, brown, and red shades of fall merge in a flame of color.

Trim Trunks

In general, street trees should have their trunks trimmed to uniform height and sufficiently high so that there will always be ample clearance over both walks and streets. Trees located on lawns, especially where there is sufficient space for the natural spread of their branches, are more attractive when the branches begin with a wide spread at the ground line. Then the gradually tapering effect of the tree from the ground to its top provides a rare exhibit of landscape perfection.

Because of the length of time required to grow trees to desirable shade-tree size, they should be valued by the home owner, and every precaution should be taken to protect them. If the foliage last year did not have a thrifty growth and natural color, it is possible that the roots should be fertilized. In other cases, where decay has started in the tree trunk, it may be necessary to have an expert tree surgeon remove the decayed parts and reinforce the trunk with concrete. It is often advisable to bolt various branches together near their dividing point to prevent a tree from splitting, while in other cases steel cables are extended between various branches to prevent them from breaking off during severe wind storms.

After existing trees are properly conditioned, the shrubbery trimmed, and dead stock removed, then the home owner may do required transplanting and obtain such additional stock as may be needed from a nursery. He will then be able to obtain beautiful landscaping effects as the flowering plants burst into full bloom and the foliage develops into a variety of lacy patterns.

Flower beds and rock gardens should have the soil around existing plants cleared of litter and needed additional rich soil and fertilizer added. Occasionally acid soil needs neutralizing.

Care is Urged

While gardening and landscaping may be done at this time with hardy perennial plants, care should be taken not to expose tender annuals prematurely or until the home owner is reasonably satisfied that they will not be subjected to a late frost.

The lawn, of course, should receive careful attention and should be cleared of all litter, sunken places filled with fresh rich soil and humus, and fertilizer added as needed. Spring is also an excellent time to remove undesirable weed growth from the lawn.

Credit for doing needed landscape work is insurable under the modernization credit plan of the Federal Housing Administration and is obtainable from any approved lending agency. This makes it easy and convenient for owners to beautify and increase the value of their properties. Landscaping may be most economically done during the spring, when climatic conditions are most favorable for plant growth.

HOUSING BOOK FINDS FAVOR AMONG PEOPLE ALL OVER THE NATION

A new book, dealing with the modernization of existing homes has just been issued by the Southern Pine association, New Orleans, La., according to advices received by the federal housing administration.

The association has announced it will furnish a sample copy of the publication free upon request to home owners, or it can be obtained locally from lumber dealers.

The publication entitled, "Suggestions for Remodeling, Building, Renewing and Modernizing," contains 44 pages of illustrations and details of construction. Built-in features are stressed. It also advises owners how they may obtain financial assistance through loans insured by the federal housing administration. The section on modernizing exteriors shows examples of remodeling one and two-story houses, converting singles into doubles or duplexes, adding wings and rooms, converting a one-story house into a story and a half, and other details. The section on interiors gives valuable and practical information on color decoration, attics, kitchens, libraries, corridors, sleeping porches, nurseries and living, dining, bed and breakfast rooms. The third section deals with details of bookshelves, walls and ceilings, fences, gates, doors, linen closets, and new gadgets.

PLAN TO IMPROVE OLD HOME IN UTAH

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—One of the oldest homes in Utah, adjacent to the site where the first new home constructed in Utah to be financed under the mutual mortgage insurance plan of the Federal Housing Administration presents a striking illustration of "before and after" the better housing program, according to officials here.

The old home, the pioneer residence of Wilford Woodruff, was built in the early eighteen fifties and will be modernized by the present owner without impairing its original rustic appearance.

Only a few yards away on the same street, Gov. Henry H. Blood broke ground recently for the foundation of a new home to be erected by O. J. Brown, which is being financed through the insured-mortgage plan.

An elaborate exhibition to stimulate interest in the Federal Housing Administration's program is being sponsored by the Salt Lake Council of Women through its civic and better homes committees.

The exhibition opened April 1 at the civic center and features building materials, home fixtures, paints and landscaping supplies. Building and supply houses furnished the exhibits.

FEDERAL HOUSING ACT STRENGTHENS MORALE

BELLROSE, N. Y.—The morale of any prospective home owner should be greatly strengthened by the knowledge that his government has enough confidence in his integrity to guarantee his unsupported personal obligation and make bank credit available to him, in the opinion of F. A. Rahter, Long Island real estate developer.

The persons who become owners of one-family homes in the $5,000 class represent a cross section of American middle class life, Rahter believes, and will constitute the largest group to benefit under the mutual mortgage insurance plan of the Federal Housing administration.

These people, in the opinion of the real estate man, will pay off their debts in full. He feels that they are not looking for "something for nothing" but, rather, are seeking financial aid "without mortgaging their souls and which will enable them to retain their self-respect."

Through a modernization loan Rahter's own home was recently redecorated, he says, and added that the entire transaction, which was conducted through a local approved lending agency, was pleasant and satisfactory.

CLEAN FOR PAINT

Home owners who desire to renovate their homes by applying paint over an old varnish finish should first remove all dirt, grease, soot, and fingerprints from the old finish by washing it carefully with a cleaning solution of soda and water. It is then advisable to dull the glossy finish with fine sandpaper, steel wool, pumice stone and oil, or with turpentine.

INSTALLING DOORS DRY WEATHER PLAN

Doors often stick in a new building. If a door has been accurately installed in accordance with good carpentry principles, sticking is probably due to swelling caused by the absorption of moisture from the damp plaster or masonry. Absorption may also take place when doors are installed just prior to long damp or rainy periods when the relative humidity is high and when there is no heat in the house. In general, the house should be as dry as possible before installing the doors and other interior woodwork.

When doors stick, some owners make the mistake of planing them down immediately instead of waiting until the house has been sufficiently heated and the interior walls dried out thoroughly. When doors are prematurely planed to eliminate sticking, too much material may be planed off the doors and then, when the building is dry, the doors may rattle or may not stay latched. Loose, poorly fitting doors permit heat losses from a building and also permit the infiltration of cold air, dampness and dust.

Miss Mary Agnes Hamley, Of Lake Providence, Is Joined In Marriage To Mr. James Marion Gilfoil

By EVE C. BRADFORD

The interest of friends in this section of the state is centered in the marriage of Miss Mary Agnes Hamley, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Celestine Hamley of Lake Providence, and Mr. James Marion Gilfoil, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gilfoil of Omega, La., Wednesday morning, May the twenty-second, at St. Patrick's Catholic church, Lake Providence, with Reverend Father Plutz officiating in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives of the couple.

Southern smilax formed a lush, green background for the placement of picturesque branches of pink hydrangea. Pink sweet peas were also massed against the chancel and adorned the altar, where myriad cathedral tapers lighted the dim recesses of the church. The vows were plighted 'neath an arch entwined with waxen magnolia blossoms and centered with a white wedding bell.

A prenuptial concert was rendered by Mrs. B. R. Pinkston, organist, while the guests were being seated. "Liebestraum," with violin obligato, was beautifully rendered, as was a vocal solo number, "O Promise Me," sung by Mrs. Anna Ransdell Cox. A violin number, "Evening Song," was rendered by Miss Bert Estelle Herzog. Mendelssohn's wedding march was used for the processional and Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus for the recessional.

The bride's attendants included her sister, Miss Anna May Hamley and the bridegroom's two sisters, Miss Elizabeth Gilfoil and Miss Eula Gilfoil. Frocks of pink and green point d'espirit over satin were worn with green velvet sashes and picturesque hats of pink. Sprays of pink gladioli formed the arm bouquets.

Bettye Kaye Gilfoil, niece of the bridegroom, and Marie Hamley, sister of the bride, were the beautiful little flower girls. They wore pink point d'espirit frocks with streamers of pink velvet caught to the shoulders. They carried quaint, old-fashioned nosegays of pink and blue.

Mr. Patrick Burns of Natchez, Miss., a former classmate of Mr. Gilfoil's at Notre Dame university, acted in the capacity of best man. The ushers were Messrs. Harry Devine, Francis Jordon, George Gilfoil and Robert Spinks of Tallulah.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory satin wedding gown of classic simplicity. The sleeves were long and tight-fitting and the skirt, rather full ended in a long train. She wore the conventional veil of illusion caught to the hair with bands of orange blossoms and flaring gracefully to the waist in the back. Her bridal bouquet was a sheaf of gorgeous Calla lilies.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride changed her wedding raiment for a smart navy blue georgette ensemble and left with Mr. Gilfoil on a motor trip.

Among the guests from out of town were noted: Mrs. G. Allenbach, Miss Mary Allenbach and Mrs. J. S. Williamson of New Orleans; Mrs. V. H. Allenbach of Nashville, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gilfoil and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gilfoil of Omega; Mr. and Mrs. John Devine, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Benjamin, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Maxwell, Mrs. William Craig, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Sevier, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Taylor, Mr. A. J. Sevier, Mrs. O. G. Ogbourne and Mrs. B. L. Bailey of Tallulah; Mrs. Watson of Rosedale, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. M. Y. Scott of Helena, Ark.; Mrs. Stella Aiken and Mrs. Katie McGruder of Vicksburg, Miss.; Mrs. W. W. Pointer of Clarksdale, Miss.; and Mrs. Julia Grasty of Greenville, Miss.

Town Of Swartz Founded By Old-Time Lumberman

Colonel George Swartz Purchased Rich Pine Lands In Ouachita

Lured to Louisiana in the mid-eighties by promise of rich financial returns from lumbering efforts in the virgin pine region of what has since been called by his name, Col. George Swartz came here from Kansas City, Mo., broken in fortune but determined to succeed. He was middle-aged but by no means discouraged. With $1,000, borrowed money, it is reported, he purchased 10,000 or more acres of choice pine land in Ouachita parish. The balance of the purchase price of $10 an acre was to be paid as lumber was sold.

A few years later, Colonel Swartz had become an outstanding citizen of Monroe and he ultimately made a comfortable fortune from his originally small investment. The settlement of Swartz derived its name from the colonel. However, he sold his land too soon, for later it developed into the most valuable part of the Monroe gas fields.

Judge Charles Schulze, who probably recalls more of Monroe's past history than any other single man alive here today, gave interesting details of the history of Colonel Swartz.

He was a lumberman who had tried his fortunes in Pennsylvania, Illinois and other states, later drifting into Kansas City, where most of his money vanished. With a man named Burns he owned a small portable sawmill in Arkansas. It was at this stage of the game that Swartz determined to make a last stand in Louisiana and get back some of his lost fortunes. Securing the land near the present Swartz, he pursuaded his partner, Burns, to move their sawmill here.

Success seemed to come rapidly. The colonel was a large man physically and a sort of hale fellow well met. He made intimate friends with such men of his time as the late L. D. McLain, one of Monroe's richest men and president of the Monroe National bank, Frank P. Stubbs, Sr., Fred Endom, and others.

During the administration of Grover Cleveland, tariff was removed from lumber and the industry languished. Swartz, like other lumber men, was hard hit and sought to raise $4,000 needed by giving a third interest in all his holdings.

The day was saved by Frank Stubbs, who loaned the money required. Soon after, the business depression vanished and lumber jumped from $7 to $17 a thousand.

Colonel Swartz profited greatly by the changed conditions and later sold his large holdings to what was called the Central Immigration company, headed by the late John Potts and others. The sale, added with his large lumber profits for many years, made Colonel Swartz well-to-do.

He died on December 9, 1917, at the age of 77, and his body was sent to Indiana, the home of a daughter, for interment.

In years to come, the little settlement of Swartz boomed as natural gas was discovered there and as carbon black plants developed, and within the past decade it has ranked as the largest town in the parish outside the Twin Cities.

Collar buttons, diamonds, typewriters, electric fans, shotguns, clothes and watches.

Brooches, belt buckles, adding machines, cash registers, overcoats, flashlights and rings.

Which is one way of introducing you to a Monroe pawn shop, the mecca of the unfortunate, the temporarily embarassed, those who wish to cash in one some valuable but unwanted article, and the wish-it-could-be mecca of the crook.

Practically every article imaginable that is of the slightest value finds its way into the pawnbroker's hands sooner or later. Sometimes the articles stay there, unredeemed, to be sold by the broker so that he might realize on his investment.

Other times and much more often the pledges are redeemed. Time after time the same article goes back into the broker's hands as the owner needs ready cash.

The pawn shop realizes a legal and reasonable profit on its loans and it a profitable venture. But it requires a peep into the big safes to grasp the significance of the recent depression. In them rests a fortune in diamonds. Diamonds that the former well-to-do were forced to pledge for badly needed funds and which they were never able to redeem.

Beautiful watches, valuable rings and many, many other items of expensive jewelry found their way into the pawn shop safes during the depression, and while the interest on many of the loans has been kept up so that the owners might be able to get back their jewelry as time prosper, the bigger part of it has become the property of the pawnbroker.

So long have the pawnbroker and his assistants dealt with the needy and the hard pressed that they are able, in many cases, to detect whether or not the object offered as a pledge is presented by the lawful owner or whether it is a stolen article.

Authorities, also, keep a close check on the pawn shop and through the cooperation of the pawnbroker often recover stolen articles of value and in many cases have solved a baffling case and apprehended the crook.

Pledges accepted by the pawn shop are listed daily and a copy furnished the authorities. In this way, justice is able to move swiftly and effectively against the underworld.

While, of course, the pawn shop only loans a portion of the value of the pledge, there are many instances where loans have been asked on articles having no resale value.

Clerks in the pawn shop recall instances where loans have been asked on a crate of poultry, a valuable dog, cow, furniture and plumbing fixtures. One man wanted the broker to refinance his home.

People borrow from the broker for a wide variety of reasons. One man, accustomed to going on an infrequent week's spree, keep a valuable watch to finance his indulgence, redeeming the watch after he returns to his work. Another, who is unable to hold a job for any length of time, has a diamond which, through a loan, has carried him over many a tight spot.

LAKE PROVIDENCE CHOOSES PROJECTS

Work To Be Carried Ou Under U. S. Relief Plan Selected

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., May 25.—(Special)—Projects to be pressed in connection with the huge federal work-relief program were selected at a meeting here.

The projects chosen include repairing, renovating and enlarging the East Carroll parish courthouse here; construction of a new jail; establishment of a civic building; construction of a fish hatchery on or near Lake Providence; and hard-surfacing of five streets in the town of Lake Providence.

The gathering was addressed by Joseph E. Ransdell, former United States senator from Louisiana; C. A. Rose, East Carroll parish agricultural agent; and F. H. Schneider, president of the Lake Providence Chamber of Commerce.

They stressed the necessity of concentrating on certain definite projects and suggested the selection of some person to work toward obtaining federal approval for the work selected.

Clever Sport Frock

Just another picture of another pretty girl in a striking but unobtainable frock? No, indeed! "Here, with a slight difference of hair or figure, perhaps, stands you." You can make up the little frock so easily, even if you have just begun to sew—and look as charming as the picture. You'll want at least one shirtwaist dress this season. And this is a particularly attractive one with its little collar so flatteringly youthful; its smart, girlish yoke; its comfortable short sleeves and kick pleat. Any number of washable fabrics are appropriate—rayon, shantung, linen, striped shirting, or seersucker.

Claiborne P.-T. A Names Officers

Officers and chairmen of the Claiborne school Parent-Teacher association, were elected Wednesday at a meeting at the home of Mrs. J. O. Hastings, with Mrs. Fred Hayton, president, presiding. Those elected were Mrs. J. O. Hastings, president; Mrs. M. L. DeFreese, vice-president and program chairman; Mrs. A. Barnett, secretary; Mrs. W. R. Williams, treasurer; Mrs. S. Antley, finance and budget chairman; Mrs. Ivy C. Wallace, publicity; Mrs. Oscar L. Cloyd, hospitality; Mrs. W. R. May, membership; Mrs. A. L. Cloyd, homemaker; Mrs. D. F. Dennis, recreation; Mr. Leo Hartman, publicity.

The election of officers was preceded by a short discussion of old business. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Miss Meyer Entertains

Miss Violet Meyer entertained on board the Brown Kraft with a dinner Friday night complimentary to Miss Florence Ferguson and Mr. Victor Davis, whose approaching marriage is now engaging the interest of society.

Leaving at six o'clock the Brown Kraft drifted down the river to a picturesque spot where anchor was dropped and a delicious four-course dinner served on board. Exquisite corsages marked covers at the flower-banked table for the feminine guests. Miss Ferguson wore a jaunty sport costume.

The guests, besides Miss Ferguson and Mr. Davis, were Miss Connie McReynolds and Mr. King Stubbs, Miss Happy Hudson and Mr. James Sparks, Miss Meyer and Dr. P. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Shafto and Messrs Gilbert Faulk and Benjamin Dawkins.

Installation of officers for the ensuing year featured the monthly meeting of the St. Matthew's Parochial school Parent-Teacher association Friday afternoon.

Officers installed were: Mrs. Paul Keller, president; Mrs. Stanley Hodges, first vice-president; Mrs. Dick Daughtry, second vice-president, and Mrs. E. J. DeDoit, secretary and treasurer.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Sister Stanislaus, principal of the school, and a discussion concerning the school cafeteria took up the major portion of the business session. A substantial sum was pledged to carry on the work of the cafeteria.

Members of the association were thanked by Sister Stanislaus for their splendid work during the past year and she pledged the support of the school faculty to the incoming officers.

Outgoing officers were complimented by Father M. F. Walsh, assistant pastor of St. Matthew's Catholic church, for their achievements during their administration and added his encouragement to the new officers.

It was announced that the fifth grammar grade and the first year high school class won attendance awards. Mrs. Pracher announced that she is preparing a letter for each mother requesting a pair of pillow slips for the annual bazaar.

McClary, will leave next month for New York City, visiting Washington, D. C., en route, and will sail on the twenty-fifth of June on board the Italian steamer Roma for a two months' Mediterranean cruise. They will visit Monte Carlo, Venice, Athens and Bay of Naples. Three glorious days will be spent in Cairo, Egypt, where the young men will take their first trip through the desert on camels. They will also spend a few thrilling days in Russia before embarking for home early in September.

Miss Alice Boyd Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Thompson, and a senior at Neville high school, is in Brookhaven, Miss., where she is representing her school at the annual May festival at Whitworth college. ---

Miss Ruby Benoit, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Benoit of this city, presented her senior art exhibit at Louisiana college on Tuesday evening, May 21. This exhibit drew favorable comment from the crowds of Louisiana college visitors to witness it in Alexandria hall.

Requiring both Athenian and Cadmian halls to contain the volume of nicely finished work, the exhibit culminated four years work in the art course.

Under the direction of Miss Alza Stratton, Miss Benoit this year has done a great deal of work, all of it worthy of college exhibition. Her exhibit was one of the most fully complete in every detail to be seen at the college. Her work attested her accomplishment in the fields of painting, chalk and pencil work and in both the modernistic and the conservative phases of the art field.

Miss Benoit was graduated with the B. A. degree in art last Tuesday evening at the college.

Mrs. P. A. Poag left Friday for Brookhaven, Miss., to enjoy commencement festivities at Whitworth college and to be present at the graduation of her daughter, Miss Margaret Poag. Mr. Poag and son, P. A., Jr., will motor over tomorrow and will be accompanied home by Mrs. Poag and Miss Poag.

Miss Lillian Meyer will leave today for her home in Great Neck, Long Island, following a two months' visit in this city with her mother, Mrs. Sol Meyer. Miss Meyer also enjoyed a visit in the home of Mrs. W. H. McHenry and Miss Julia Wossman while in Monroe.

Pupils Of Skillful Young Danseuses Are Presented In First Revue Of Season

Dancing, the oldest of the arts, is how engaging the attention of the Monroe public as the season for annual revues draws near.

Two skillful danseuses, Misses Clarice and Goldah Roan, presented their pupils in their first annual revue at the Strand theater where an enthusiastic audience greeted the rise of the curtain.

The handsome setting for this colorful event was developed in silver and blue with modernistic silver trees silhouetted against the deep blue background. The costumes were exceptionally artistic and dance numbers of an original nature reflected the ingenuity of the instructors. Every type of dancing was featured on the evening's program with the appearance of Misses Roan, in costumes of jewel cloth and silver sequins, a most impressive climax.

The pupils gave splendid interpretations of acrobatic and tap dancing. An air of professionalism was sustained throughout the program, and particularly so in the clever number presented by Misses Roan and Margaret Starsney, one of Monroe's outstanding danseuses.

Detroit To Be Mecca Of State Clubwomen

Triennial Meeting Of General Federation Will Be Attended By Delegations From Louisiana

The stage is set for the triennial meeting of the General Federation of Women's clubs in Detroit. The curtain goes up on June 4 on what promises to be one of the largest and most distinguished conventions ever held by the federation.

Prominent speakers who have responded to invitations to address the convention are the Hon. Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture; Col. Franklin Knox, publisher of the Chicago News; Mr. Harper Sibley, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Dr. Cecil Fairfield Lavell, professor of history of thought of Grinnell college; and Mr. Ward M. Canady, assistant administrator of the Federal Housing administration.

Conspicuous among the legislative measures to be discussed is the Copeland bill. The objective of the bill is to eliminate untrue advertising of foods, drugs and cosmetics. Mass production of foods, drugs and cosmetics has brought with it mass production of false advertising and much "ballyhoo." Those who favor sterner measures sense the need of better regulatory measures against chiselers, frauds and quacks.

State chairmen are invited to sit upon the stage during programs arranged by the departments of which they are members, in order that they will receive full benefit of their particular programs. There will be opportunities for them to meet the chairmen of the departments and divisions of the general federation on June 4 at 10 a.m., when department conferences will be held.

Central Methodist church, where memorial services will be held on Sunday, June 9, is the oldest Methodist society in Detroit, being organized in 1810, the first Protestant society in Michigan territory. Dedicated in 1865, it is one of the few downtown churches left in Detroit. It is often said that it is one of the most "churchly" and satisfying religious edifices in Detroit, with its noble spire rising high in the heart of the business district This beautiful church is a perfect setting for the memorial services which have been planned.

Detroit is an automobile city. Many courtesies will be extended by manufacturers. Music by the Chrysler male chorus will be featured one evening; the Chevrolet Glee club will sing in the Belle Isle Shell on Play Day; on Sunday evening, delegates are to be the guests of the Ford Motor company in Orchestra hall, the program to be broadcast over CKLW, Columbia network.

Election of officers will take place on Monday, June 10. Teas and tours are announced as follows: Sunday, June 2—pre-convention tea honoring early arrivals. Tuesday, June 4—tea and style show. Thursday, June 6—tea at Detroit Federation clubhouse. Thursday, June 6—Art institute tour. Friday, June 7—candidate's tea. Monday, June 10.—tea for visiting P. E. O.'s. Tuesday, June 11—tour of Granbrook and Kingswood schools. June 8-10—other Art institute pilgrimages.

Last but not least to the feminine mind is, "What shall I wear?" The answer which comes from Detroit is that it is best to provide warm clothing as well as summer things, that it is actually hot in June and sometimes cool.

It is particularly significant to the members of the L. F. W. C. that national recognition was gained through the Club institute held at L. S. U. in April. Special attention was focused on the topic given by Mr. Fred Williamson, editor of the Monroe News-Star and Morning World, on "Effective Publicity Methods." It is the earnest desires of the retiring zone chairman, Mrs. Addison Thompson, Ruston, that the Club institute will become a permanent institution. It is recognized as a great constructive force and one which cannot be successfully inaugurated without a definite program.

Mrs. Harry Newhall presented her music pupils Friday night at the Georgia Tucker auditorium in one of the most artistic and most ambitious recitals ever attempted by these talented young musicians.

The stage was banked in garden flowers in lovely harmony with the summery frocks worn by the performers. True musicianship and unerring technique were the outstanding features of this recital, presented as follows:

Dr. Holmes Is Guest Speaker Of Review Club

Dr. Fadra Holmes Wilson, member of the education department of Louisiana State university, was the guest speaker of the Review club Thursday afternoon in the auditorium of Northeast Center of L. S. U. Mrs. Wilson, beautiful, piquant and vivacious and brilliant speaker, addressed one of the most appreciative bodies of women ever assembled at the college auditorium.

She found a new and interesting change in the psychological attitude of women of this city. There is a new and scientific attitude toward public affairs, according to this gifted speaker, who talked on the subject of "The Meaning of Real Citizenship." Mrs. Wilson said:

"One becomes a citizen at birth. The child should begin receiving training at an early age in the home, later in the school and on through life.

"Openmindedness is necessary for good citizenship. Learn to respect the rights and feeling of others.

"Another characteristic of good citizenship is discrimination. There are such things as truth, faith and friendship to which we can tie our faith, and make them real in our lives.

"Then the virtue of 'fellowship' is important. For two hundred years, people have been training for 'leadership' and the whole world was in the worst mess in all its history three years ago. So we should learn to participate, to follow, instead of everyone's trying to lead. We should stress cooperation instead of competition."

The great idea for many years has been to suppress the emotions, but Dr. Wilson suggests that "we cultivate our emotions, let religion be the center around which our emotions revolve, let that be the crystalizing element, for when religion is forgotten, morals grow loose. It is to religion that we must hang our ideals."

Then in summarizing, Dr. Wilson said "no citizen can find anything to live by so perfect as the golden rule, 'Do unto others as you would they should do to you,' but do it first, to quote the negro. Nobody else can do the work that God marks out for us."

Beautiful piano numbers rendered by Miss Caramena McIntosh and two song numbers rendered by Mrs. J. Norman Coon and Mrs. L. B. Burris added considerable luster to the afternoon's program.

St. Joseph Clubwomen Hostesses At Function

Charming Social Affair Is Given in Honor Of Two Members, In Celebration Of Announced Engagement

The Cosmopolitan club of St. Joseph is one of the few clubs of the state privileged to boast a clubhouse of its own. Club women who attended a fifth district annual meeting in St. Joseph three years ago will recall the club house as an imposing colonial structure, situated in a grove of giant oak trees for which Louisiana is famous. In keeping with the structure, which bespeaks the proud aristocracy of the south, is the hospitality which is dispensed by the club members. It is the custom of the club to serve Louisiana coffee to their guests from a handsome antique silver service and extend other courtesies long associated with the deep south.

A charming social affair was recently arranged, complimentary to two members, Miss Willie Mae Johnson, whose engagement has just been announced, and Mrs. J. L. Lee, who will leave soon to make her home in Baton Rouge.

Officers of the club are Mrs. Thomas. M. Wade, president; Mrs. E. H. Biggs, vice-president; Mrs. Albert Bondurant, recording secretary; Mrs. Alex Blackman, treasurer; Mrs. John Schuchs, corresponding secretary.

The program for next year is being planned by Mrs. C. B. Haddon, Mrs. J. C. Earnest, Mrs. J. C. McPherson and Miss Mable Skinner, who comprise the year book committee.

Delicious barbecued meat, potato salad, pickles, rolls, cookies and iced tea were served to the following: Mesdames C. M. Salley, Bill Hurst, Sam Oliver, Neal Oliver, Charles Givens, Patterson, Gill, Crow and Hurst of Bastrop, Hugh Tucker, Cornell Evans, Bob Parscells, Lee Roy Simms and Misses Gertrude Whipple, Nizel Riff, Grace Carpenter and Frances Bell.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Buckner and children, Aylette, Billey and Lois, of Tallulah, have returned home after spending a week with friends and relatives.

Miss Enid Green, teacher of the seventh grade, of the Mer Rouge school, entertained her class with a picnic Wednesday at Whipple's lake. Twenty members of the class attended.

A salad course was served to the following: Mesdames McKelvey, E. M. Clark, Frank Rives, J. V. McCarvey, W. C. Jordan, E. T. Davidson, E. P. Eckles, John Lee, Earl Andrews and Lee Roy Simms.

A musical program was given at the Baptist church Sunday by a group from the Louisiana Baptist Children's home in Monroe.

Misses Maybeth Thibodeaux and Martha Davidson, teachers at Forest, were the week-end visitors of their parents.

Miss Norma Jean Evans has returned home after spending several days in Bonita with her grandmother, Mrs. Bob Harp.

Mr. Clare Mayo Clark, a student at Louisiana Polytechnic institute, was a visitor here over the week-end.

CHAPTER XXV

There was a swirl of motion behind Mrs. Happ. Millicent's startled eyes saw the face of Sergeant Mahoney. His eyes were no longer smiling. His face was set in grim, uncompromising lines.

"Arrest that woman!" Mrs. Happ screamed.

Sergeant Mahoney stepped forward and said, "Just a minute, Mrs. Happ. What is it you were trying to say?"

"This girl," she said, pointing to Millicent, "is the one who threw the keys into the pond at the base of the fountain."

"How do you know?"

"I saw her."

"Are you willing to swear that you saw her throw the keys?"

"Well, I saw her leaning out of the window, and there was a splash in the fish pond."

"You saw her leaning out of the window?"

"Yes."

"Did you see her leaning out of the window before or after the splash in the fish pond?"

"Look here," she said in her most imperious manner, "you can't cross-examine me in this way. I'm telling you what I saw, and I don't want my word questioned."

"I'm not questioning your word," Sergeant Mahoney told her. "I'm only trying to get at the facts of the case. Now, where were you when this happened?"

"I was in the yard."

"Where with reference to the window out of which this young woman was leaning?"

"Directly below."

"Did you see her lean out of the window before or after the splash?"

"It was afterwards."

"You heard the splash?"

"Yes."

"Did you see it?"

"Well, not exactly. I heard the splash and turned toward the pond."

"And then what did you do?"

I saw the ripples in the pond."

"Then I looked up and saw this young woman leaning out of the window."

"How did you know she had thrown the keys into the pond?"

"I felt certain of it."

"Why?"

"Because of the expression on her face and because I had reason to believe she was the one driving Bob's coupe last night."

"What were your reasons for thinking that?"

"I knew she went somewhere."

"How did you know that?"

"Because her clothes were muddy."

"Who told you that?"

"Vera Duchene, my maid."

• • •

Mahoney shifted his gaze to Millicent. "What have you to say to to this?" he asked.

"Nothing."

Seargeant Mahoney gravely took Millicent by the arm. "May I ask where you were going?" he inquired.

"I was just going out."

"So it would seem. Why were you going out?"

"I had some things I wanted to do."

Sergeant Mahoney turned her back toward her own room. "I think," he told her, "you and I will have a little chat."

Millicent did not turn her head, but walked steadily down the corridor to her room. Sergeant Mahoney followed her, stood at one side to let her enter, smiled a polite but frosty dismissal to Mrs. Happ, then closed the door and, when Millicent had seated herself in a chair, perched himself on the edge of her bed.

"You were out last night?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Did you have Bob Caise's car?"

"Does it make any great difference?"

"It may."

"Very well, then. I had it."

"Why did you have it?"

"I was trying to follow an automobile."

"What automobile?"

"It was a sedan. The license number was 9J3410."

"Where did you see this automobile."

"At what time?"

"I don't know. It was some time during the night."

"And you tried to follow it?"

"Yes."

"Why?"

"Because I was interested in finding out to whom it belonged and where it was going."

"Who was driving it?"

"I don't know."

"A man or a woman?"

"A woman."

"You're not giving me a great deal of information," he told her.

She shrugged her shoulders.

"And you didn't follow this sedan to its destination?" he asked after a moment.

"No."

"Why?"

"Because the car I was driving ran out of gas."

"And then you returned home?"

"Yes."

• • •

He frowned for a moment, and said almost musingly: "You had the keys from the car. You used one of the keys to unlock the front door and let yourself in. Is that right?"

"Yes."

"And you did throw the keys into the fish pond?"

"Yes."

"Why didn't you tell me this before?"

"Because I was afraid to."

"Why?"

"I was afraid I'd be accused of something I didn't do, and I was afraid that I'd lose my job."

"Did you hear any shot in the direction of the chauffeur's quarters?"

"No."

"Did you see anyone near the chauffeur's place?"

"No."

"Did you talk with the chauffeur?"

"No."

"Did you shoot him?"

"No."

He stared at her moodily. "I think," he said, "you were running away just now."

"What if I was?"

"It would have been a very bad thing to do. The police would have caught you, and your flight would have been almost a certain sign of guilt."

Sergeant Mahoney watched her speculatively for a few moments, then took from his pocket a small automatic.

"Did you ever see this before?" he asked.

"Good heavens, no!" she said.

He extended it to her—the butt toward her.

"Take it," he said.

She started to reach for it, then instinctively recoiled from the weapon. "I don't want to touch it.

He reached across and placed it on the table by her right hand.

"That gun," he said, "is fully loaded."

"Will it go off?"

"Not unless you shoot it."

"Why should I shoot it?"

"I am giving it to you," he said, "so that if you want to make your escape, you can take this gun and get out."

She stared at him curiously. "You mean I should take this gun and threaten you or anyone who tried to stop me?" she asked.

"Yes, if that's what you want to do."

Knuckles sounded imperatively on the door. Sergeant Mahoney glanced at Millicent and called, "Who's there?"

"Detective Buchanan."

"Come in, Buchanan."

The door opened and Buchanan pushed his way into the room.

"I've got something!" he exclaimed.

"Got What?" Sergeant Mahoney asked him.

"Some woman was in Harry Felding's room last night. She was probably the one who fired the shot."

"How do you know?"

"I found a whisky flask in the bathroom. There were fingerprints on it. I've brought out those latent fingerprints with powder and I'm satisfied they're the prints of a woman's fingers."

"Where was this whisky flask?"

"In the bathroom."

"Did the woman drink the whisky out of the flask or out of a tumbler?" Sergeant Mahoney asked.

"Out of a tumbler."

"Any fingerprints on the tumbler?"

"They were rather badly smudged. I couldn't develop a clear latent from them. The tumbler evidently slipped out of her fingers as she set it down and it made a bad smudge of the fingerprints."

"Where is this flask?"

"I developed the latents and took it into Mr. Happ's study. I explained the circumstances to Mr. Happ and got him to leave his study. He gave me his key. The door is locked. I've telephoned for the department's fingerprint expert to come out and make photographs of the fingerprints."

Sergeant Mahoney seemed to be paying not the slightest attention to Millicent.

"What kind of whisky was it?" he asked. "Do you remember the brand?"

"Yes," Buchanan said. "It was rather an expensive brand of whisky. It's a brand you wouldn't expect a chuffeur to drink. It's a nine-year whisky, bottled in bond."

Without taking his eyes from her, Sergeant Mahoney said to Buchanan, "Write down the name of the brand of whisky on a piece of paper and pass it across to me, if you will please, Buchanan."

Detective Buchanan pulled a notebook from his pocket. He took a pencil and laboriously wrote a single word. Then he tore the page from the notebook and passed it across to Sergeant Mahoney. Sergeant Mahoney glanced at the word on the paper, nodded, folded the paper, and placed it on the table beside the automatic which he had previously placed there. He reached his right hand into his pocket, took out a pad of paper which he placed on the table. He held something in his left hand. Suddenly he got to his feet, smiled, and extended his hand to Millicent.

"Well," he said, "I'll be going."

Mechanically she gave him her hand.

PICTORIAL REVIEW OF WEEK'S SCREEN ATTRACTIONS AT LOCAL THEATERS

Marlene Deitrich, often called the most glamorous star in pictures, in a story that fiercely dramatizes her devastating allure, comes to the Paramount theater Tuesday and Wednesday in "The Devil Is A Woman." She plays the part of Concha, the most sought-after woman in Spain—and the most hated.

John Erskine, novelist, humorist, professor, wrote the story on which "Bachelor of Arts," the new Fox picture, is based. This film, which comes to the Capitol theater Monday, stars those two lovable youngsters, Tom Brown and Anita Louise. It is said to be a real human picture of college life as it is lived, loved, learned and laughed.

Jack Holt, perennially popular star, portrays a superstitious horse lover in the comedy drama, "Unwelcome Stranger," now at the Capitol. Mona Barrie, beautiful and auburn haired, is his leading lady.

An old maid school teacher is always one jump ahead of her nearest rival, a hard-boiled police inspector, when it comes to solving baffling crimes in the RKO-Radio mystery-thriller, "Murder On A Honeymoon," featuring Edna May Oliver and James Gleason. When a man dies on a seaplane between Los Angeles and Catalina Island, Miss Oliver knows it's murder and proves it. Mr. Gleason comes in second. It's at the Capitol Tuesday and Wednesday.

Drama, Romance And Music Are Combined In Victor Herbert's 'Naughty Marietta'

Jeanette MacDonald And Nelson Eddy In Operetta At Paramount

JEANETTE MacDONALD, heroine of "The Merry Widow," and Nelson Eddy, noted American baritone who demonstrates that he is destined to be one of the screen's great new leading men, are teamed in a delectable blend of drama, romance and music in "Naughty Marietta," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's translation of the Victor Herbert masterpiece which opened Saturday at the Paramount Theater.

Retaining the gorgeous music of the operetta, the picture is produced as a thundering drama of New Orleans in the Creole days, with the famous "Marriage Auction," the savage battles between troopers and pirates, the importation of the Casquette Girls and other vivid detail. Settings and costumes are gorgeous, old St. Louis of the period and its people being reproduced on a lavish scale.

Miss MacDonald plays the French princess who, to escape a marriage of state, flees to the new colony of Louisiana where she meets her romance in the British captain, played by Eddy. Clever dramatic artists both, with gorgeous singing voices, they make a perfect team.

W. S. Van Dyke directed the picture, injecting many artistic touches. The battle sequences are specially thrilling. Elsa Lanchester is intriguing as the wife of the governor, played with whimsical comedy by Frank Morgan, Walter Long and Douglas Dumbrille provide menace, and comedy is in the hands of Edward Brophy and Harold Huber as the two sergeants. Akim Tamiroff, Joseph Cawthorne, Cecilia Parker, Greta Meyer, Walter Kingsford and others have roles that they fill more than satisfactorily.

The huge replica of old St. Louis, the palace of Paris, and the great Governor's Ball are among the spectacular highlights, artistically photographed by William Daniels. Herbert Stothart handled the orchestra details with skill.

Screen Life In Hollywood

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Movieland short short-story:

Film writers get fewer fan letters than film stars, and virtually all their fan mail comes from people who want to be writers. One day recently, to a prominent screen scrivener of many hits, came a letter that, for some reason, arrested his attention.

It was from a boy who wanted something besides advice. The youth wanted a typewriter. But it was not a "begging letter." He wanted to earn money to buy a typewriter. With a machine to wing his words, the boy thought, he would be taking the first step toward success.

The letter revealed a background of poverty, the return address was a local flophouse, but it also revealed, through its style and general tone, the sparks of what our successful writer deemed a talent.

No Good at 'Props'

The writer did an unusual thing. He granted the lad an interview, liked him, and got him a job at his studio in the property department. There are embryo writers—even successful ones—in every department of a studio.

The boy worked and saved and talked of the typewriter he would buy. But one day the writer realized that for several days he had not seen his protege. He went down to "props."

"What's happened to my young friend down here?" he asked the head man.

"Oh, I had to let him go," was the reply. "Too clumsy. No good at handling props. Look at that—it's no good since he dropped it the other day. That's why I fired him."

The writer looked. "That" was the jangled remains of what had been once a typewriter—a machine for winging words. . . .

Lot-Talk

Gary Cooper, by popular vote, is the "America's Sweetheart" of Japan. . . . The cycle of "classics" continues: "Oliver Twist" with Freddie Bartholomew and Boswell's "Life of Samuel Johnson" are among the new ones set for production. . . . Carole Lombard will get her first chance at comedy since "Twentieth Century" in "Hands Across the Table," saga of a manicurist. . . . Donald Meek, more than any other actor, seems perfectly to characterize his name in his screen roles. . . .He is the little fellow who takes a terrific beating in "Village Tale," the mild, inoffensive "suspect" in "The Informer."

William Gargan, with a penchant for pets, acquired three new turtles which he has named Clayton, Jackson and Durante. . . . He also has a goldfish named Eddie Cantor. . . . But that's nothing. . . . Ann Dvorak's cow is called Greta Garbo. . . . A Christmas day custom Pat O'Brien observes is the burning of Irish peat in his fireplace. . . .

Jack Holt Is Star Of New Capitol Film

'The Unwelcome Stranger' Is Tale Of Race Track Superstitions

Jack Holt, veteran Columbia star, begins his nineteenth consecutive year of stardom with his portrayal of a superstitious horse-lover in the film. He is cast as the wealthy owner of a stock farm who considers orphans his jinx.

Mona Barrie, beautiful auburn-haired actress, plays opposite Holt. She was featured with him in "I'll Fix It," recent Columbia production, as a charming school teacher. In her current picture, she is seen as Holt's lovely young wife, the mistress of his rambling estates. Her performance is rated the most dramatic of her career.

For the role of the crippled young orphan who complicates the story by ingratiating himself into Holt's affections, Jackie Searl, outstanding boy actor, was chosen. Regarded in the film colony as the most versatile of screen youngsters, he is usually seen in unsympathetic characterizations. "The Unwelcome Stranger," however, presents him as a lovable lad who is willing to sacrifice his own happiness for the sake of those he loves.

In support of Holt, Miss Barrie and young Searl are seen Ralph Morgan, Bradley Page, Frankie Darro, Mary MacLaren, Claudel Kaye, Don Chapman and Sam McDaniel. Page consistently popular "villian," enacts another of his villianous roles as the crooked betting commissioner. Young Darro, who was featured in "Broadway Bill," is again seen as a jockey in "The Unwelcome Stranger."

"The Unwelcome Stranger" presents the virile Jack Holt as a man who was tough, hard-boiled, scared of nothing, until a stranger ruined his luck and shattered his romance. The story was prepared for the screen by Crane Wilbur, actor and playwright. Phil Rosen directed.

HEAT LOSSES REDUCED WITH NEW GLAZING

Multiple Method Of Installation Conserves Wormth Of Houses

New inventions are doing much to reduce heat losses from buildings through glass. Just as the insulation of walls, floors, and ceilings, a comparatively recent development, increased efficiency of heating and reduced fuel costs, multiple glazing of windows now makes possible other savings in fuel consumption.

Interest of property owners is more widespread in this activity during the spring and summer months, since many glass installations are made during warm weather, according to building authorities.

Loss Estimated

It is possible that as much as half the total heat loss from a building may occur through glass areas, particularly with the tendency toward the use of large and numerous windows in modern structures. With the recognition of this fact, multiple glazing and the value of glass masonry increases in significance, because it offers a major opportunity for the reduction in heat losses in winter.

Several methods of window design and construction for minimizing heat losses have been developed, according to information furnished the Federal Housing administration, which is insuring loans for the modernization of existing homes and the construction of new ones. Storm sash is the oldest method in use. To be effective these sash must be tightly fitted to reduce air infiltration to a minimum. A variation of the storm-sash method is the installation of two conmplete windows, each permanently installed and suitably weatherstripped. Some experts consider that the large space customarily used between panes in both the storm-sash and double-window methods to be less effective than a mere limited space, such as approximately one-half inch.

Modern Variation

A modern variation of the storm-sash method is convenient in that double glazing is used in ordinary double-hung or casement sash, the double glazing consisting of two panes of glass separated by suitable stops. Air within the space should be dehydrated to prevent condensation between the panes, and the two panes should be hermetically sealed. A variation of this type of window is a specially constructed double hung or casement sash with a special rabbeted frame that permits the inner glass to be detached for cleaning the surfaces enclosing the dead air space.

The resulting reductions in heat loss due to double or triple glazing with approximately one-half inch air space between the panes, may be as much as 50 and 70 per cent, respectively.

FIND HOUSING PLAN FUNCTIONS PROMPTLY

HANCOCK COUNTY, Miss.—Leo M. Seal, president of the Hancock County Banks of Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian, and Gulfport, recently visited Federal Housing headquarters and said that his first application had "cured him of the belief that no government agency could function promptly."

The first application presented to his bank, Mr. Seal said, was completed in 6 days from the date of application. He told the state director that he has instructed his three banks to accept requests for all loans that the Federal Housing Administration will insure. He explained further that he has written Senators Pat Harrison and Theodore Bilbo in Washington expressing his delight over the operation of the Federal Housing Administration.

SHOWER COMFORT

Probably nothing rejuvenates the tired business man or worker or affords more pleasure and enjoyment to the children on a hot, sultry day than a good shower bath. Showers may be installed under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing administration.

AN OAK GROVE HOME

The above cut is a reproduction of the architect's drawing of an English style residence now under construction for Mr. D. B. Fiske of Oak Grove, La. Mr. J. A. Harper of Crowville, La., was the successful contractor at a figure of $8,500.00. The residence will be of brick veneer and half timber construction with stone trim. The roof will be a green asbestos shingle laid American method. The interior walls and ceilings are to be finished in textone. Parquet floors are to be laid in the living room, dining room and den. The remainder of the house is to have hardwood floors. A title bath of modern design is also included. In connection with the house will be a two-car garage. The residence is expected to be completed by June 15.

COOPERATIVE PLAN INDICATES RESULTS

OSWEGO, N. Y.—The cooperative plan between contractors and home owners here has resulted in the preparation of actual contracts or definate estimates totaling $42,000.

The cooperative method of furthering the better-housing program was instituted in Oswego about a month ago. Through this plan salesmen representing a contractors' association contact home owners and acquaint them with the possibilities of modernization. Next, an architect affiliated with the contractors' association prepares plans and estimates, which are then submitted to the home owner by the salesmen. The completion of contracts has been speeded up by this method.

Up to the present time 418 property owners in Oswego have been reached by the canvass. Much of the work is being financed by home owners through ordinary bank loans, but up to March 30 jobs valued at $15,283 had been financed under the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration through local banks and financial agencies.

REWIRE FOR SAFETY

The insulation on electric wires laid under rugs receives considerable wear, and may break and result in a severe and dangerous fire. Such danger can be largely eliminated by rewiring the home to provide for a sufficient number of outlets for all lighting and power accessories, including lamps, radio, toaster, and other appliances.

REPAIRS, THEN RENTS HIS 'DEAD' PROPERTY

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Through modernization the owner of a rental property here succeeded in reviving what has been for two years a "dead" property.

Although he offered the building for a very low rental, it had been vacant for over 24 months. The task of modernizing the 7-room, 2-story structure was begun. The owner expects to convert the building into two 4-room apartments at a cost of $2,000. Although the work is not yet completed, numerous people have expressed their desire to rent the apartments, when completed, for more than the owner formerly asked for the entire house.

PAINT FOR LIGHT

It is good practice to apply a white or very light-colored finish in painting light shafts, inside courts, ventilated skylights, and other walls which enclose areas within or between buildings and which contain openings intended to admit sunlight or daylight. This will make possible a maximum of light reflection to the interior. A dark red light shaft, for example, will only reflect about 15 or 20 per cent of the light that enters it, while a reflection value as high as 80 per cent may be obtained in a shaft painted with a white or light-colored paint.

An outstanding producer of palm oil, Nigeria exported 136,000 tons of the product in 1930.

The Modern Multi-pigment Paint

You can tell the difference between SWP and a single pigment and oil job. The SWP job is glossy, fresh and smart looking. The single pigment job appears prematurely dull, dirty and shabby looking—even though protection may still remain in the paint. This is usually true because single pigment and oil paint has less control of "chalking"—weather roughens it, and dirt and soot cling to its roughened surface. Modern SWP with its Multi-pigment, balanced formula, produces a clean "just painted" kind of job that stays lastingly beautiful. There is one sure way to get a lasting and economical paint job—insist on SWP.

Let us show you how little it will cost to give your house a REAL coat of paint—SWP.

GIVE GROUNDS NEEDED CARE, FHA URGES

Garden Treatment Is Important Spring And Summer Activity

Planting, pruning and trimming shrubbery takes a prominent place in home beautification during the spring and summer months, the Federal Housing administration points out.

In improving the general appearance of grounds about the house, dead branches on trees and shrubs should be neatly trimmed and either disposed of or stacked in a fertilizer bin where they may decay until usable as fertilizer.

Not only should dead wood be removed but trees should be trimmed in accordance with good landscaping principles so that desirable branches will develop. Elms, for example, used for street trees and along driveways should be trimmed so that they will gradually develop a spreading top like a giant umbrella. Spruce is most effective when developed as a towering green spire. The dense crown of the hard maple is striking as a bushy ball in which the yellow, brown, and red shades of fall merge in a flame of color.

Trim Trunks

In general, street trees should have their trunks trimmed to uniform height and sufficiently high so that there will always be ample clearance over both walks and streets. Trees located on lawns, especially where there is sufficient space for the natural spread of their branches, are more attractive when the branches begin with a wide spread at the ground line. Then the gradually tapering effect of the tree from the ground to its top provides a rare exhibit of landscape perfection.

Because of the length of time required to grow trees to desirable shade-tree size, they should be valued by the home owner, and every precaution should be taken to protect them. If the foliage last year did not have a thrifty growth and natural color, it is possible that the roots should be fertilized. In other cases, where decay has started in the tree trunk, it may be necessary to have an expert tree surgeon remove the decayed parts and reinforce the trunk with concrete. It is often advisable to bolt various branches together near their dividing point to prevent a tree from splitting, while in other cases steel cables are extended between various branches to prevent them from breaking off during severe wind storms.

After existing trees are properly conditioned, the shrubbery trimmed, and dead stock removed, then the home owner may do required transplanting and obtain such additional stock as may be needed from a nursery. He will then be able to obtain beautiful landscaping effects as the flowering plants burst into full bloom and the foliage develops into a variety of lacy patterns.

Flower beds and rock gardens should have the soil around existing plants cleared of litter and needed additional rich soil and fertilizer added. Occasionally acid soil needs neutralizing.

Care is Urged

While gardening and landscaping may be done at this time with hardy perennial plants, care should be taken not to expose tender annuals prematurely or until the home owner is reasonably satisfied that they will not be subjected to a late frost.

The lawn, of course, should receive careful attention and should be cleared of all litter, sunken places filled with fresh rich soil and humus, and fertilizer added as needed. Spring is also an excellent time to remove undesirable weed growth from the lawn.

Credit for doing needed landscape work is insurable under the modernization credit plan of the Federal Housing Administration and is obtainable from any approved lending agency. This makes it easy and convenient for owners to beautify and increase the value of their properties. Landscaping may be most economically done during the spring, when climatic conditions are most favorable for plant growth.

Of the 3,085 cases of house and shopbreaking in London in the three months ending January 31 last, 2,673 are still unsolved.

HOUSING BOOK FINDS FAVOR AMONG PEOPLE ALL OVER THE NATION

A new book, dealing with the modernization of existing homes has just been issued by the Southern Pine association, New Orleans, La., according to advices received by the federal housing administration.

The association has announced it will furnish a sample copy of the publication free upon request to home owners, or it can be obtained locally from lumber dealers.

The publication entitled, "Suggestions for Remodeling, Building, Renewing and Modernizing," contains 44 pages of illustrations and details of construction. Built-in features are stressed. It also advises owners how they may obtain financial assistance through loans insured by the federal housing administration. The section on modernizing exteriors shows examples of remodeling one and two-story houses, converting singles into doubles or duplexes, adding wings and rooms, converting a one-story house into a story and a half, and other details. The section on interiors gives valuable and practical information on color decoration, attics, kitchens, libraries, corridors, sleeping porches, nurseries and living, dining, bed and breakfast rooms. The third section deals with details of bookshelves, walls and ceilings, fences, gates, doors, linen closets, and new gadgets.

PLAN TO IMPROVE OLD HOME IN UTAH

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—One of the oldest homes in Utah, adjacent to the site where the first new home constructed in Utah to be financed under the mutual mortgage insurance plan of the Federal Housing Administration presents a striking illustration of "before and after" the better housing program, according to officials here.

The old home, the pioneer residence of Wilford Woodruff, was built in the early eighteen fifties and will be modernized by the present owner without impairing its original rustic appearance.

Only a few yards away on the same street, Gov. Henry H. Blood broke ground recently for the foundation of a new home to be erected by O. J. Brown, which is being financed through the insured-mortgage plan.

An elaborate exhibition to stimulate interest in the Federal Housing Administration's program is being sponsored by the Salt Lake Council of Women through its civic and better homes committees.

The exhibition opened April 1 at the civic center and features building materials, home fixtures, paints and landscaping supplies. Building and supply houses furnished the exhibits.

FEDERAL HOUSING ACT STRENGTHENS MORALE

BELLROSE, N. Y.—The morale of any prospective home owner should be greatly strengthened by the knowledge that his government has enough confidence in his integrity to guarantee his unsupported personal obligation and make bank credit available to him, in the opinion of F. A. Rahter, Long Island real estate developer.

The persons who become owners of one-family homes in the $5,000 class represent a cross section of American middle class life, Rahter believes, and will constitute the largest group to benefit under the mutual mortgage insurance plan of the Federal Housing administration.

These people, in the opinion of the real estate man, will pay off their debts in full. He feels that they are not looking for "something for nothing" but, rather, are seeking financial aid "without mortgaging their souls and which will enable them to retain their self-respect."

Through a modernization loan Rahter's own home was recently redecorated, he says, and added that the entire transaction, which was conducted through a local approved lending agency, was pleasant and satisfactory.

CLEAN FOR PAINT

Home owners who desire to renovate their homes by applying paint over an old varnish finish should first remove all dirt, grease, soot, and fingerprints from the old finish by washing it carefully with a cleaning solution of soda and water. It is then advisable to dull the glossy finish with fine sandpaper, steel wool, pumice stone and oil, or with turpentine.

INSTALLING DOORS DRY WEATHER PLAN

Doors often stick in a new building. If a door has been accurately installed in accordance with good carpentry principles, sticking is probably due to swelling caused by the absorption of moisture from the damp plaster or masonry. Absorption may also take place when doors are installed just prior to long damp or rainy periods when the relative humidity is high and when there is no heat in the house. In general, the house should be as dry as possible before installing the doors and other interior woodwork.

When doors stick, some owners make the mistake of planing them down immediately instead of waiting until the house has been sufficiently heated and the interior walls dried out thoroughly. When doors are prematurely planed to eliminate sticking, too much material may be planed off the doors and then, when the building is dry, the doors may rattle or may not stay latched. Loose, poorly fitting doors permit heat losses from a building and also permit the infiltration of cold air, dampness and dust.

Town Of Swartz Founded By Old-Time Lumberman

Colonel George Swartz Purchased Rich Pine Lands In Ouachita

Lured to Louisiana in the mid-eighties by promise of rich financial returns from lumbering efforts in the virgin pine region of what has since been called by his name, Col. George Swartz came here from Kansas City, Mo., broken in fortune but determined to succeed. He was middle-aged but by no means discouraged. With $1,000, borrowed money, it is reported, he purchased 10,000 or more acres of choice pine land in Ouachita parish. The balance of the purchase price of $10 an acre was to be paid as lumber was sold.

A few years later, Colonel Swartz had become an outstanding citizen of Monroe and he ultimately made a comfortable fortune from his originally small investment. The settlement of Swartz derived its name from the colonel. However, he sold his land too soon, for later it developed into the most valuable part of the Monroe gas fields.

Judge Charles Schulze, who probably recalls more of Monroe's past history than any other single man alive here today, gave interesting details of the history of Colonel Swartz.

He was a lumberman who had tried his fortunes in Pennsylvania, Illinois and other states, later drifting into Kansas City, where most of his money vanished. With a man named Burns he owned a small portable sawmill in Arkansas. It was at this stage of the game that Swartz determined to make a last stand in Louisiana and get back some of his lost fortunes. Securing the land near the present Swartz, he pursuaded his partner, Burns, to move their sawmill here.

Success seemed to come rapidly. The colonel was a large man physically and a sort of hale fellow well met. He made intimate friends with such men of his time as the late L. D. McLain, one of Monroe's richest men and president of the Monroe National bank, Frank P. Stubbs, Sr., Fred Endom, and others.

During the administration of Grover Cleveland, tariff was removed from lumber and the industry languished. Swartz, like other lumber men, was hard hit and sought to raise $4,000 needed by giving a third interest in all his holdings.

The day was saved by Frank Stubbs, who loaned the money required. Soon after, the business depression vanished and lumber jumped from $7 to $17 a thousand.

Colonel Swartz profited greatly by the changed conditions and later sold his large holdings to what was called the Central Immigration company, headed by the late John Potts and others. The sale, added with his large lumber profits for many years, made Colonel Swartz well-to-do.

He died on December 9, 1917, at the age of 77, and his body was sent to Indiana, the home of a daughter, for interment.

In years to come, the little settlement of Swartz boomed as natural gas was discovered there and as carbon black plants developed, and within the past decade it has ranked as the largest town in the parish outside the Twin Cities.

Many Curious Articles Are Left In Pawnbroker's Shop

Collar buttons, diamonds, typewriters, electric fans, shotguns, clothes and watches.

Brooches, belt buckles, adding machines, cash registers, overcoats, flashlights and rings.

Which is one way of introducing you to a Monroe pawn shop, the mecca of the unfortunate, the temporarily embarassed, those who wish to cash in one some valuable but unwanted article, and the wish-it-could-be mecca of the crook.

Practically every article imaginable that is of the slightest value finds its way into the pawnbroker's hands sooner or later. Sometimes the articles stay there, unredeemed, to be sold by the broker so that he might realize on his investment.

Other times and much more often the pledges are redeemed. Time after time the same article goes back into the broker's hands as the owner needs ready cash.

The pawn shop realizes a legal and reasonable profit on its loans and if a profitable venture. But it requires a peep into the big safes to grasp the significance of the recent depression. In them rests a fortune in diamonds. Diamonds that the former well-to-do were forced to pledge for badly needed funds and which they were never able to redeem.

Beautiful watches, valuable rings and many, many other items of expensive jewelry found their way into the pawn shop safes during the depression, and while the interest on many of the loans has been kept up so that the owners might be able to get back their jewelry as time prosper, the bigger part of it has become the property of the pawnbroker.

So long have the pawnbroker and his assistants dealt with the needy and the hard pressed that they are able, in many cases, to detect whether or not the object offered as a pledge is presented by the lawful owner or whether it is a stolen article.

Authorities, also, keep a close check on the pawn shop and through the cooperation of the pawnbroker often recover stolen articles of value and in many cases have solved a baffling case and apprehended the crook.

Pledges accepted by the pawn shop are listed daily and a copy furnished the authorities. In this way, justice is able to move swiftly and effectively against the underworld.

While, of course, the pawn shop only loans a portion of the value of the pledge, there are many instances where loans have been asked on articles having no resale value.

Clerks in the pawn shop recall instances where loans have been asked on a crate of poultry, a valuable dog, cow, furniture and plumbing fixtures. One man wanted the broker to refinance his home.

People borrow from the broker for a wide variety of reasons. One man, accustomed to going on an infrequent week's spree, keep a valuable watch to finance his indulgence, redeeming the watch after he returns to his work. Another, who is unable to hold a job for any length of time, has a diamond which, through a loan, has carried him over many a tight spot.

MANY SIGN BOOKS

HOMER, La., May 25.—(Special)—Approximately 5,000 residents of Claiborne parish have signed the poll books here, according to information obtained at the sheriff's office. The office of the registrar of voters reported that 4,618 citizens had registered up to Friday. The assessor's office reported 1,500 had applied for homestead tax exemption.
